WOMAN KILLED AND SEVERAL PERSONS HURT IN TORNADO

Wind at Midnight Demolishes 25 Homes in Two Widely Separated Sections of Mining City — Terrific Rainstorm Preceded the Tornado.

ABOUT 100 PERSONS ARE MADE HOMELESS

Their Possessions Scattered Over Blocks—Seven Occupants of One Destroyed House Escape Without Serious Injury.

By the Associated Press.

WEBB CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—This mining city today checked up on the damge done by a tornado which struck at midnight, resulted in the known death of one person, injury of a score or more of others, one of whom may die, and demolished 25 homes in two widely separated sections of the city.

The dead:

Mrs. Nancy Frand, 53 years old.

The injured:

George Barclay, his wife and Lela, 19.

James Campbell, leg injured.

Mrs. M. E. Eppright, bruised and suffering from shock.

Mrs. Emma Lott, internally injured.

Leona Case, 12 years old, daughter of Mrs. May Johnson, face cut and bruised.

L. C. Eppright, son of Mrs. M. E. Eppright, thrown from bed and badly bruised.

—— Pursley, gash in head.

A number of others also are said to have been injured.

The tornado struck the outskirts of Webb City, starting at a point on the South Hall Street road, southeast of town, lifting and dropping again at a residence section on South Centennial street, then swooping down on East Daugherty street, between Webb City and Carterville, again on North Elliott street and finally spending itself in the rural districts north of town.

The storm wrecked Mrs. Frad's home, carried her nearly a block and injured her fatally. She was found dead lying on a mattress in the yard of a neighbor. Her husband, Joseph Frad, was working at an ice plant at the time and she was alone in her home. Internal injuries caused her death.

Few persons in the main part of the city knew of the tornado having struck until this morning. Preparations are under way to care for the homeless. Approximately 100 persons are without homes and their household and personal effects are strewn for blocks.

Hardly a dwelling in the storm's path escaped the terrific wind. Portions of houses were carried hundreds of feet.

An unusual incident was the fact that but one house in the southeast section, occupied largely by laborers, escaped destruction. The wind failed to topple it over, but literally swept it with flying debris from the other wreckage.

The home of Harvey Shelton, in the better residence district in the northwest part of town, was demolished, but none of the seven members of the Shelton family received more than slight cuts and scratches.

Preceded by Heavy Rain.

A terrific rain preceded the tornado. Hallowe'en celebrators who were still out at that hour said their attention was attracted by a heavy roar and they then observed the tornado's approach.

Two persons were taken to a local hospital shortly after the storm, which lasted only a few minutes, had passed. Others were treated for injuries of more or less seriousness by physicians.

Heads of families administered first aid as best they could to injured relatives.

The storm was believed to have taken a northeasterly course from here. Although reports of high winds were received from other points, no serious damage was done elsewhere, as far as has been learned.

SMOKESTACK FALLS IN STORM; 6 MEN HURT

Bricks Crush Part of Stove Plant at Belleville, Burying Workers.

Six men were seriously injured in a severe wind and rain storm at Belleville at 9 a. m. today, when a large brick smokestack was blown down at the plant of the Belleville Stove and Range Co., at Third and McKinley streets.

The injured are Adam Rauth, Julius Meyer, Henry Lickenbrock, H. Walker, F. Baum and Edward Freudenberg. They are at St. Vincent's Hospital.

A heavy downpour of rain was followed by a rush of wind and the stack, containing 10,000 brick, toppled and crashed into the west side of the machine shop, in which 25 men were working. The six who were injured were pinned under the debris and it was nearly an hour before they had all been dug out.

They had been at work on the second floor and were carried with the wreckage to the first floor. The west side of the building was so badly wrecked that the walls had to be pulled down.

Considerable damage was done about the city. Some buildings were unroofed and windows broken and trees were uprooted. A concrete cross on St. Peter's Cathedral was blown down.

TWIN SISTERS ARE REUNITED AFTER 40 YEARS' SEPARATION

One of Them Didn't Know She Had Sister Until 10 Days Ago—17-Year Search by Other.

By the Associated Press.

STERLING, Ill., Nov. 1.—Twin sisters, separated for 40 years, were reunited here Tuesday when Mrs. Otto Erickson of Sterling greeted Mrs. Charles H. Heid of Indianapolis. Until 10 days ago Mrs. Heid did not know she had a sister. Then she got word from the Sterling woman, who had searched diligently for 17 years for some trace of her kin.

As far as can be learned the girls were born to a Clinton, Ia., couple. Parental objections to the marriage grew stronger with the birth of the children, and the young mother, heartbroken, died. The baby girls were taken by a Whiteside County couple, and after two years, when the wife of the household into which they had been taken, died, the babies became separated.

FORD, MINES AND FARMHOUSE

More Interest in House Than in "$10,000,000 Coal Deal."

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 1.—While a newspaper man questioned Henry Ford yesterday about the reported purchase of a group of Pennsylvania coal mines valued at $10,000,000, the manufacturer continued his inspection of an old farmhouse undergoing repairs. The farm property seemed to have the greater hold upon Ford's interest.

One small mine at Grand Forks, Pa., he said, was purchased Monday.

Ready for Transcontinental Flight.

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 1.—Hope that weather conditions would permit them to start for New York on a nonstop flight by Friday or Saturday morning was expressed today by Lieuts. John A. MacReady and Oakley Kelly, army aviators, who have been waiting for several weeks for a favorable opportunity. The same Liberty engine which kept the two aviators in the air here Oct. 5 and 6 for more than 35 hours will be used in the attempt.

"LIES, LIES, ALL LIES," SAYS BERRY OF ARSON CHARGE

Owner of Auto Repair School Denies He Schemed to Fire Building to Collect Insurance.

"TIPS" TO THE POLICE GIVEN BY HELPER

Arson Squad and Firemen, Not in Uniform, Were Waiting in Vicinity When Blaze Started.

"Lies, lies; all lies."

That was the comment of John Berry, 74 years old, veteran balloonist, as he heard the details of an alleged plot to burn his aviation and automobile repair school at 3910 Washington boulevard to collect $2000 fire insurance.

The story was related by Berry's employe, Don S. Scarborough, 36, of 4046 Delmar boulevard, to detectives at police headquarters, in the presence of Berry, who was arrested at 1:10 p. m. yesterday, following a fire at the school. The case will be presented to the grand jury.

An hour before the fire Scarborough had informed city detectives that he was involved in a conspiracy to set fire to the building in which the school was located. He said that arrangements had been made to "spring the trap" at 1:10 p. m. He was directed by the detectives to go ahead with the plan, and the police arson squad conferred with Fire Chief Panzer.

Firemen in Waiting.

As a result of the conference 15 firemen, not in uniform and equipped with chemical fire extinguishers, were waiting in the vicinity of Washington boulevard and Vandeventer avenue when the fire broke out. Detective Sergeant William Murphy of the arson squad and four other detectives also were concealed in the neighborhood, one of the detectives being stationed near a fire-alarm box.

At 1:10 p. m., flames and smoke burst from a rear window on the second floor of the Berry building. The waiting firemen rushed in with their extinguishers, a detective hiding in the alley signaled the detective at the fire alarm box, who turned in an alarm, and other detectives grabbed Berry, Scarborough and one of Berry's pupils as they ran from the burning building.

The fire was extinguished in 20 minutes, although the flames had spread rapidly throughout the entire upper floor and the rear part of the lower floor. Firemen reported that upon entering the building they encountered an odor of gasoline and sulphur. Scarborough had informed detectives that gasoline was to be the chief factor of the fire.

Employe's Story.

"This thing was planned Monday," said Scarborough, when the prisoners reached police headquarters. "Berry told me he needed money to pay bills and rent. He asked me to help him set fire to the place, and said that as soon as he collected the $2000 insurance he would be in a position to pay me $40 a week. "This is between the two of us, and it will go through if neither of us talks," he told me.

"We rigged up a small wooden box with a strip of sand paper tacked to the bottom. Then we nailed a block to the side of the box near the top. To this we attached a stick with a bolt so that it would serve as an arm. We placed matches in the lower end of the arm, measuring the outfit so that when the arm was moved the match heads would scrape along the sand paper and ignite.

"The box was then stuffed with shavings, soaked with gasoline, and the box was placed behind the framework of a motor truck. A gallon can of gasoline was placed on the seat of the truck and tilted so that it coudl easily be upset. A string was attached to the neck of the can and another string was fastened to the upper part of the arm in the box. Berry called the arm the 'trigger.'

"The strings were then run through slits in the flooring so that they could be pulled from the first floor. Another gallon can of gasoline was placed on another truck and a string attached to that can was run to a landing midway between the first and second floors.

Method of Signal Described.

"I was to ignite a third can of gasoline on the second floor, start an automobile to 'backfiring' and then rap on the lfoor three times with a hammer. That was to be the signal for Berry to pull the two strings on the first floor and as I ran downstairs I was to pull the third string on the landing. The

WILD GEESE ON AUTO RADIATOR GIVE TRAFFIC SIGNALS

Residents of Kentucky Town Given Shock by Waterfowl Brought From Missouri.

By the Associated Press.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Nov. 1.—Winchester residents have recovered from the shock received recently when an automobile was driven into the city with two wild geese perched on the radiator giving traffic signals in the "honk-honk" peculiar to that species of water fowl.

This event marked the second attempt of Judge J. M. Benton to propagate in Kentucky a strain of wild geese, reputed to be found only in certain sections of Missouri.

Geese of this strain, according to claims advanced by Missouri owners, are imbued with a trait not to be found in other members of the species. They are easily educated to replace horn on automobiles, and when perched on the radiator of a car, it has been claimed, such a goose will keep a vigilant watch over the traffic and "honk" at the proper time, thus relieving the driver of the necessity for constant vigilance.

Last spring Judge Benton received a shipment of eggs from his uncle, 'Lish" Covington, of Clay County, Mo., but efforts to hatch the eggs were not successful.

The appearance of the educated geese here marked the arrival of Covington himself, who, determined that the benefits accruing to automobilists of Missouri should not be denied his Kentucky kinsmen, brought a brace of the famous geese to be used in establishing the strain in the Blue Grass.

LENINE MAKES FIRST PUBLIC SPEECH SINCE HIS ILLNESS

Premier, in Good Physical Condition, Says Russia Would Seek Near East Peace at Parley.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 1.—Soviet Moscow is now assured that Premier Lenine is in good physical condition and fine spirits. He spoke publicly yesterday for the first time since his prolonged illness, making an unheralded appearance before the workmen's and peasants' parliament.

Russia would make a strong stand at the Lausanne conference to make a Near East peace, the Premier said, explaining that the question of the straits would be particularly emphasized by the soviets, whose diplomacy, Lenine thought, would be just as successful at Lausanne as it had been in the Far East.

WORK RESUMED IN ITALY AFTER FASCISTI TRIUMPH

Tens of Thousands Are En Route to Homes From Rome After New Ministry Members Take Oaths.

COMMUNISM HAS NO PLACE IN NATION

All Radicalism Rendered a Paralyzing Blow, for the Moment at Least—Labor Temples Were Raided.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 1.—Italy will be on the road back to normalcy today, after a most exhilarating week that saw the younger generation rise to power and in a great triumph overthrow the older politicians.

Tens of thousands of the vigorous young Fascisti and their enthusiastic admirers, who accompanied them here from all over the land, were on the way back to their homes today. Yesterday theirs was the thrill of a real Roman triumph in which a million people made the streets ring with plaudits for King and country, after Dr. Benito Mussolini and his new Fascisti ministry had taken their oaths before the sovereign.

Doubled Rome's Population.

As soon as this formal ceremony had ended, the black-shirted boys and men who brought about the rise of Mussolini marched as victors through the ancient streets of the city, crowded with a vast concourse that for the day doubled the population of Rome.

Today the flush of triumph gave way to the drab business of toil, individual and national. Dr. Mussolini was at work early, and he said he was going to see to it that everybody else engaged in the business of the nation followed suit. He made it plain that he was going to rule with an iron hand that Italy might the sooner be restored to a better economic basis, and a more powerful place in international affairs.

Communists Silent.

For the moment at least, communism has no part in the life of Italy. The onslaught of the Fascisti has rendered all radicalism a paralyzing blow. Carrying their battle into the labor temples and the meeting places of their antagonists, the militant Nationalists have seized the records and rosters and burned them.

Politically, the chief topic in Italy today is what the fortune of the new Cabinet will be when it goes before the Chamber of Deputies. One thing is certain. If Mussolini's Government does not receive a majority in the Chamber he will have Parliament dissolved and then the Fascisti will take their cause to the country. Mussolini made this clear last Monday when he built a new Cabinet at the request of the King.

Message to America.

Premier Mussolini has sent the following message to Secretary of State Hughes at Washington:

"In assuming the task of government at the request of his majesty the King I am addressing to your excellency my most cordial good wishes, and I venture to express my confidence in the friendly, economic and spiritual collaboration of our two countries. Such collaboration will be rendered all the more agreeable by the fact that the Italian people look to the noble American nation with full confidence that it will understand and estimate the value of the efforts accomplished by the Italian nation for the realization of a common victory."

It developed today that Premier Mussolini had sent a reply to the letter of resignation from Count Sforza, which was received yesterday, reproaching him for his action and asking him to remain at his post.

AMBASSADOR RICCI OFFERS RESIGNATION

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 1.—Vittorio Rolandi Ricci, Italian Ambassador at Washington, has presented his resignation, like his colleagues, Count Sforza, Ambassador at Paris, and Senator Frassati, Ambassador at Berlin, wishing to leave Premier Mussolini free to choose his own trusted men for such important posts.

FASCISTI SPOIL KRASSIN'S PLAN

Russian Puts Off His Vacation Trip to Italian Riviera.

(Copyright, 1922.)

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Vacation plans of Leonid Krassin, Russian Foreign Trade Commissar, have been spoiled by the Italian Fascisti. He intended to depart for the Italian Riviera with his family Thursday, for six weeks' rest.

It is learned, however, he has put off his departure, "as he does not trust the black shirts."

BILL COLLECTORS NOW EXPECTED TO GO ON A PILGRIMAGE TO ROME

New Italian Premier Years Ago Left Debts to Be Paid When His Ambition Was Realized.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Nov. 1.

BENITO MUSSOLINI, whose spectacular rise to the Italian premiership has excited world-wide interest, spent an exciting few years in Switzerland.

He was pursued over the frontier at Chiasso by Italian gendarmes, who had a warrant for his arrest.

Upon his arrival at Lucerne he was arrested as a vagabond. Political friends came to his aid.

He entered the University of Lausanne, but as he was a revolutionary Socialist he was finally expelled from Switzerland.

Then he went to Trent, in the old Austrian Tyrol, whence he also was expelled in 1911. Upon the declaration of a general amnesty he left Trent for Milan, where he founded the newspaper Popoli Italia.

He aroused the hatred of the Socialists in the conduct of his paper, however, by his campaign in favor of Italy's entrance into the World War on the side of the Entente. He left a number of small debts in this city and at Lausanne which upon his departure he laughingly promised to pay when he should become a member of the Italian Government.

THOMAS NELSON PAGE DIES IN VIRGINIA

Former Ambassador and Widely Known Author Succumbs at Home of Relatives.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 1.—Thomas Nelson Page, former Ambassador to Italy, and widely known author, died at the home of relatives in Hanover County, Va., today, according to a report received by the News-Leader.

Page's death was sudden. The first intimation Richmond relatives had of his illness came this morning when they were called to the plantation where the former Ambassador had gone for a rest. The end came at 1:20 p. m.

Mr. Page served as Ambassador in Rome from 1913 to 1919. He was born on Oakland plantation, Hanover County, Va., on April 23, 1853. After completing his education at the University of Virginia, Page delivered public lectures for a number of years and devoted most of his life to authorship.

Ambassador Page's home was in Washington, D. C., but he spent much time in New York.

Instrument Received by Recorder, but Is Accompanied by No Filing Fee.

Transfer of a 4-foot-square burial plot for two dogs, on Pine Lawn Farm on Kehr's Mill road, in St. Louis County, from Charles H. Schroeder to Jacob Siler, was intended in a deed mailed yesterday to the County Recorder, but was not accomplished because the deed was not accompanied by a filing fee.

Pleasure vehicles are to be kept out of the field in which the grave is situation, is the deed is filed, and pedestrians are to be prohibited from using the monument as a lounging place.

"The great object of erecting this monument to the memory of two pet, intelligent dogs," the document concludes, "is that the public may see and be led to think and to act—treat all animals with kindness and they will reward their friends by their act; yes, and by their voices, too."

CAROLINA MANUFACTURERS GET JAIL TERMS FOR INCOME FRAUDS

Four Cotton Mill Men Plead Guilty of Evading Federal Income Tax Law.

By the Associated Press.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 1.—Four South Carolina cotton manufacturers, who pleaded guilty today in the United States District Court here to a charge of evading the Federal income tax law were sentenced to prison by Judge H. H. Watkins. Campbell Courtenay and St. John Courtenay of Columbia, were each fined $10,000 and sentenced to serve eight months in the Greenville county jail.

Ashmead Courtenay and Henry Rutledge Buist, of Charleston, were each fined $3000 and given jail sentences of three months.

MRS. HALL GIVES AN INTERVIEW; DENIES SHE KNEW OF KILLINGS

Widow of Rector Says She Was Not on Phillips Farm on Night of Tragedy.

"DON'T WISH TO SEE ANYONE PUNISHED," SHE DECLARES

Asserts She Felt No Enmity Toward Mrs. Mills and Knew of No Love Letters Written by Singer to Dr. Hall—Has No Vindictive Feeling.

By the Associated Press.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 1.—Breaking her silence today for the first time, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall told reporters that she was absolutely ignorant of how her husband, the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, came to meet his death with Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, choir singer, on Phillips Farm, Sept. 14.

The rector's wife, at an interview in her home, arranged by her attorney, Timothy M. Pfeiffer, asserted that she had absolutely no knowledge of the shooting, that she was not on the farm the night of the double shooting, that she bore no enmity toward either Dr. Hall or Mrs. Mills, and that she had no knowledge of any love letters having passed between them.

Asked if she were holding anything back in order to protect anyone near and dear to her, she replied:

"Positively no."

She asserted she still believed her husband had been true to her. Asked her feeling toward Mrs. Mills, she replied:

"I don't know what to say."

Asked About Reward.

Asked why she had no reward for solution of the crime, she replied:

"I think it would be awful."

When she was asked if she did not wish to see the murderer punished she replied:

"I don't wish to see anyone punished."

She explained that she meant that she had no vindictive feeling toward anyone and that she wished the murderer apprehended only because she did not think it safe for society to have him at large.

Mrs. Hall said she knew of nothing in the life of her husband which could have involved him in a murder and that she was absolutely ignorant of any motive that could have existed for the crime.

Asked what she would have done if she had known of any intimacy existing between Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, the rector's wife said: "I would have spoken to him."

Asked if she believed in divorce, she declined to answer.

Dramatic Scene.

It was a dramatic scene when the score of reporters, who have been trying for weeks to question Mrs. Hall, were ushered into the study of the rector, in which Dr. Hall prepared his sermons.

The reporters formed in a semicircle around the room. Seated at a desk in the center the rector's wife—a middle-aged woman dressed entirely in black, bespectacled and solemn. She sat with her arms folded and at no time during the interview did she give way to emotions.

After the newspaper men had been ushered into the Hall home, Mrs. Hall's lawyer withdrew, leaving his client alone with the reporters. The interview lasted about an hour and a half.

The questions started with one which concerned the story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, who claims to have been on the Phillips farm the night of the murders and to have been an eyewitness to the double slaying.

Denies Presence on Farm.

Q. Have you any comment to make, Mrs. Hall, on that part of Mrs. Gibson's statement in which she said you were present on the Phillips farm on the night of Sept. 14? A. What comment could I make? Of course, that was not so, and that is all.

Q. You weren't there? A. I certainly was not.

Q. Did you leave your [illegible] any time that night except [illegible]

WAINWRIGHT BREWERY CEASES OPERATION

About 50 Men Employed There From 12 to 35 Years Affected by the Shutdown.

Founded in 1850, a block from the present site, by Samuel Wainwright, the plant has been in continuous operation since. In 1884 a new plant was built at the present site.

About 50 workmen, who have been employed for from 12 to 35 years, will be affected by the shutdown. Largely because of these employes the plant has been kept in operation for the last two years, Wuertenbaecher said, though sales have fallen off steadily, due to the preference of St. Louisans for the home-brew product over the beverage and root beer made at this plant.

No other commercial use is contemplated for the plant. The association hopes for relief of some sort in the near future, the president said, which might enable them to open on the thriving basis of the old days.

The production of the plant totaled 170,000 barrels a year, when it was running to capacity.

All Breweries Here Operating at Loss, Their Owners Assert.

That every brewery has been operated at a loss during the three years that Federal prohibition has been in effect, in the hope that some change in the present laws may be made within the next year, was stated in a joint letter recently sent by the seven St. Louis Breweries, manufacturing nonalcoholic beverages, to their 2000 union employes, proposing a 1 0per cent reduction in wages.

Following conferences between employers and union officials, as told yesterday, a tentative compromise settlement was reached, by which the brewers agreed to a 5 per cent reduction for all union employes receiving $30 a week or more.

Turkey Prices Lower.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Wholesalers opened 1922 quotations on dressed turkeys today at from 9 to 17 cents a pound cheaper than in 1921. The new low quotation is 35 cents per pound, compared with 52 cents in 1921.

LLOYD GEORGIANS IN DILEMMA ON 'SPREADING WAR'

Conservative Chieftains Also Undecided Whether to Continue Present Partial Co-operation Plan.

SOME THINK THREAT IS ONLY A BLUFF

Political Writers Say Former Premier Is Not So Anxious for Reprisals Against Tories as Formerly.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The chieftains of the Conservative party left by Prime Minister Bonar Law and the National Liberals under the banner of David Lloyd George are still undecided today as to whether they will really "spread the war" against one another's candidates in the coming election or stand on the present situation of fighting bitterly in some districts and co-operate in others.

"To fight or not to fight," was the subject of discussion at Conservative headquarters last night, but no orders were issued to the political leaders in the hinterlands, and it was said that the matter would be thrashed out again today.

Meanwhile the political gossips who vent their ideas upon readers of morning papers are noising it about that Lloyd George is not so keen for reprisals against the Tories as he formerly was. For one thing, these writers point out, the former Prime Minister's party is not the only one capable of throwing reserve candidates into the scrap should the tacit agreements to co-operate go to smash. Besides, Lloyd George hasn't built up such a large number of local organizations as have his opponents.

Some Think Threat a Bluff.

Some of the papers think his threat to "spread war," is only a bluff. His journalistic champion, the Daily Chronicle, contends that Lloyd George has the men and the means to use them and that he is simply holding back in the hope of "returning sanity elsewhere." The Chronicle reports a hot feeling among the Lloyd Georgians over the attitudes of the die-hards and Free Liberals, who are opposing the National Liberals. It accused them of petty spite, intolerance and behavior both shabby and vindictive.

The political expert of the Daily Mail believes he has discovered a strong tendency of the coalition Conservatives to unite with the anti-coalition group now in harness. He maintains that only a few Conservatives, like Lloyd Birkenhead and Sir Robert S. Horne, continue to identify themselves closely with Lloyd George.

Another feature of todays news is the report that the Asquithian Free Liberal candidates are increasing at a rate that indicates that they will show as much strength on nomination days as the Laborites. Labor's progress in the campaign is difficult to guage. Their leaders express high hopes and great confidence, but their confidence is that shared in the London insurance market, where business men concerned over the prospect of a capital levy such as labor proposes, were able yesterday to get odds of 24 to 1 that Labor would not come into power.

Law's Additional Appointments.

Premier Law last night issued the list of the remaining officers of his Government, in which there is again a fair infusion of members of the House of Lords. His appointment of a minister of pensions does not necessarily mean that he has yielded to the Laborite clamor against the proposed abolition of that ministry, but is considered more likely merely a formal appointment to carry on the work until the ministry can be abolished by legislative act . Agitation against abolition of the pensions ministry, however, is gathering force.

Winston Churchill, who has recovered from his illness sufficiently to be removed to his home, although he will still be confined to his rooms for a few days, sent a letter to his constituents strongly opposing abolition of the ministry and expressing the hope that Mr. Bonar Law will, on further consideration, withdraw from a position hastily taken; otherwise, Churchill declares, he will resist this decision in Parliament. In the same letter Churchill recounts a number of large economies which the late government was contemplating, largely on his recommendations, amounting to nearly £50,000,000 annually, which were prevented by the overthrow of the Government.

Attacks Col. Amery.

Incidentally Churchill mentions that the economies included £15,000,000 on naval estimates, but he regretted to say that these economies were obstinately opposed by Lieutenant-Colonel L. C. M. S. Amery, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the new Cabinet, who was then financial secretary to the admiralty. He adds that Col. Amery took a leading part in the revolt of the under-secretaries, which led to the overthrow of the Government, and declares:

"I face with disquietude the fact that this junior Minister has stepped into the shoes of his late chief—a reward of successful mutiny, which is certainly an unwholesome spectacle."

The former Colonial Secretary, who is still providing effective electioneering points, terms as disappointing, the declaration of the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, Stanley Baldwin, that reduction of taxation is impossible, when all these projected economies have been hindered by the change of Government.

The Paisely Unionist Association decided not to oppose former Premier Asquith.

The Ministry of Health has issued a statement deprecating the proposed march of unemployed from the provinces to London to seek an interview with the Ministers and submit their case. The Minister declares that such a proceeding would serve no useful purpose and the Government intends to examine the whole problem afresh.

Sir Montague Barlow, who was parliamentary secretary to the Labor Ministry in the Lloyd-George Cabinet, becomes Minister of Labor, and the pensions portfolio is taken by Maj. George Tryon, who was also a parliamentary secretary under the Lloyd George regime, being connected with the ministry which he is now to head. Sir Samuel Hoar is appointed Air Minister, and Chamberlain Postmaster-General.

"LIES, LIES, ALL LIES," SAYS BERRY OF ARSON CHARGE

purpose of the 'backfiring' was to make it appear that the fire was an accident.

"Monday night I got to studying about the affair, and became frightened. I knew it was crime to do such a thing and I got to thinking of my wife and our four small children. I made up my mind not to go through with it.

"In the morning I tried to talk Berry out of the notion. I suggested that he might be able to raise money some other way, and pointed out the danger of us being caught. He told me that we were the only ones who knew anything about it and that all we had to do was to keep our mouths shut.

Informed Police.

"At noon I told Berry that I was going to see an eye doctor and slipped away to police headquarters. I figured that as long as he was determined to go through with the thing I would play safe. That is why I informed the detectives of what was up."

When Scarborough had concluded his story, Berry, who had persistently denied knowing anything about the origin of the fire, was asked what he had to say.

"What can I say?" he replied. "I can only deny his story. He has told nothing but lies, lies, all lies."

Scarborough, in reply to questions, stated that when he returned to the building, after calling on the police, he gave a lesson in auto repair work to Samuel di Bartolo, 14, a pupil, and when the time approached to set the fire he told Di Bartolo to go downstairs and see what Berry was doing. He then ignited a small can of gasoline, he said, and signaled to Berry by pounding on the floor with a hammer three times.

"As I ran downstairs," Scarborough said, "Berry observed that I did not pull the string on the landing and asked me why I had failed to do it. He was coming away from the direction of a punch machine behind which the other two strings had been concealed."

Firemen reported that they had found no trace of the device described by Scarborough. The fire ha dben rapid, they said, and the second floor appeared to be enveloped in flames when they reached it.

Berry, who lives at 1404 Evergreen avenue, Wellston, with his third wife, who is 32 years old, told the police that Mrs. Berry owned the equipment in the school, consisting of 10 junked automobiles, two air planes, a balloon and some machinery.

"It is true that I am financially embarrassed," he said. "The 47 cents in my pocket when I was arrested is all I have. But I had nothing to do with a plot to set fire to the school to collect insurance. All I have to say about that is that Scarborough is lying. Why, I do not know."

Detective Sergeant Murphy reported this afternoon that he had found items of evidence on the premises, which he listed as follows: An empty can, which had contained gasoline, another such can, partly burned; a can of ether, in a metal container, standing near a Ford car; and pieces of string. A local newspaper clipping, telling of the recent dismissal of men accused of arson. demurrer filed by their lawyer, was found in the place, Murphy said.

TEXT OF AMERICA'S REFUSAL TO JOIN IN NEAR EAST PARLEY

"Aide Memoire," Basis of Formal Replies, Cites That U. S. Was Not in War With Turkey.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The American Government, in notes delivered yesterday to the British, French and Italian embassies here, formally declined to participate in the Near East peace conference, scheduled to be held in Lausanne, Switzerland, next month. The State Department made public this Government's position on the conference as outlined in the "aide memoire" which was transmitted to the three Governments concerned through the American embassies at London, Paris and Rome.

Reference to the "aide memoire" was made in the formal reply to the allied notes inviting participation but which were not received by the State Department until after the "aide memoire," carrying instructions regarding the American view, had been dispatched to the American representatives in the three foreign capitals. The formal replies explained that the United States would send only observers to the Lausanne meeting, and added that that conference was primarily a peace conference to end a war in which the United States was not a belligerent.

Text of "Aide Memoire."

The text of the "aide memoire," upon which the formal replies were based, as fully setting forth the American attitude, follows:

"The conference proposed for the purpose of drawing up a treaty of peace with Turkey will have primarily to deal with the problems resulting from the state of belligerency between the allied Powers, Turkey and Greece. The United States was neither at war with Turkey nor a party to the armistice of 1918 and does not desire to participate in the final peace negotiations or to assume responsibility for the political and territorial adjustments which may be effected.

"While maintaining this reserve in regard to certain phases of the Near East settlement, the Government of the United States does not desire to leave the impression that it regards its interests as less entitled to consideration than those of any other Power, or that it is disposed to relinquish rights enjoyed in common with other Powers, or proper commercial opportunity, or that it is unconcerned with the humanitarian interests involved.

Subjects of American Concern.

"For the purpose of clarity certain subjects of particular American concern may be briefly summarized:

"1. The maintenance of capitulations which may be essential to the appropriate safeguarding on non-Moslem interests.

"2. The protection, under proper guarantees, of philanthropical, educational and religious institutions.

"3. Appropriate undertakings in regard to the freedom of opportunity, without discrimination or special privileges, for commercial enterprise.

"4. Indemnity fon losses suffered by Americans in Turkey as a result of arbitrary and illegal acts.

"5. Suitable provisions for the protection of minorities.

Plan to Send Observers.

"This brief summary, while not exhaustive, may serve to indicate the general nature of American interest. To safeguard such interests and to facilitate the exchange of views, the Government of the United States is prepared to send observers to the proposed conference if this action is agreeable to the Powers concerned. Without participating in the negotiations of the treaty of peace, these observers would be able to indicate this Government's position in greater detail than is possible in this aide memoire, and they could also inform the American Government of the attitude of other Powers in matters where there are mutual interests.

"As the object in view in submitting this suggestion is the elimination of any possible cause of misunderstanding, it is considered appropriate to call attention to the attitude of the United States in respect to secret treaties and agreements. It is not felt that arrangements previously made with respect to Turkish territory which provide for the establishment of zones of economical influence, for example, as the tripartite agreement of 1920, are consonant with the principle of the equality of economic opportunity. It is assumed that the allied Powers will not now desire, and do not now intend, to carry into effect previous arrangements of this nature.

Stands for Open Door.

"The United States has no desire to take any action which might embarrass the allied Powers in the proper effort to secure peace. It desires nothing which need conflict with the interests of other countries, if the principle of commercial opportunity for all nations is recognized at the outset. The United States has no intention of seeking for itself or its nationals a position of special privilege, but it desires to protect its rights and to assure the open door. Finally, it wishes to afford protection to its citizens who wish to continue the humanitarian work which has been carried on for generations in the Near East and is rendered more essential than ever by the present conditions."

MRS. HALL GIVES AN INTERVIEW; DENIES SHE KNEW OF KILLINGS

Q. Will you tell us your movements on the night of Sept. 14?

Tells of Her Movements.

A. We had our supper about 6:30 and I went on the porch for a little while after that. I had Mr. Hall's little niece with me. His brother was there and Mr. Hall was here at supper time. I stayed out on the porch for a little while and then a little later came in with the little girl and played games with her for a while, until 8:30 or 8:45, somewhere along there. Then I put her to bed upstairs and came down again. It was somewhere along after 9, I should say, and I sat here in the library reading until about 10:30 and then I went upstairs and prepared for bed. I waited for Mr. Hall to come in and I went to bed, but I did not go to sleep.

Q. So between the time that he left the house and the time you went out with your brother in the early morning you did not at any time leave the house? A. No.

Q. Do you know now, Mrs. Hall, from whom that telephone call was that evening. A. That came that evening?

Q. Yes. A. They told me it was from Mrs. Mills, but I only know that from the outside.

Q. Have you ever been to the Phillips farm that you know of in your life? A. Never. I did not know until later that it was the old De Bussey place. As a child I had been there twice.

Walked to Mills House.

Q. Mrs. Hall, after you had gone to the church at 2 o'clock in the morning and not having found your husband there did you take any further steps between that time and 7 o'clock in the morning, notify your friends or inquire of the police, or do anything about your husband's absence. A. As you all know, I walked down past the Mills house to see if by any chance anyone was ill or there was any light there. Knowing that Mr. Hall had gone out, and as he left the house saying he was going to see about this bill (referring to a hospital bill of Mrs. Mills toward which both the rector and his wife had been contributing) —but you know all this; I have repeated it many times. I have told you he was going to see about this bill that Mrs. Mills spoke of and I knew it was the last thing he said to me and I thought he might have sent word there (Mills' house), where he was going. I went up there to see if there was any light or anything to see if he was there, but seeing no light I came back.

Q. About how long were you absent from the house? A. It was about 2:30 when I dressed and went out; I came back about 3:30.

Q. From 3:30 until approximately 7 in the morning you took no further steps to find out what caused your husband's absence? A. I telephoned to the police at about 7 in the morning.

Q. Was your brother Willie with you all the time you were out? A. Yes.

Questioned About Letter.

Q. Mrs. Hall, have you seen any of the letters that are supposed to have been written by your husband to Mrs. Mills? A. Very little.

Q.: Are they in his handwriting? A.: I haven't seen them except the one I saw in the prosecutor's office.

Q.: Do you believe he wrote those letters? A.: I think it very unlikely that he would. Q.: Did you ever see any letters from Mrs. Mills to your husband or from your husband to Mrs. Mills before this tragedy occurred? A.: No.

Q.: Did you know that they were corresponding? A.: I know that he wrote her last summer.

Q. Did you know the contents of any of those letters? A. No.

Denies Hearing Gossip.

Q. Did anybody ever carry any tale to you or gossip concerning your husband's relations with Mrs. Mills? A. Absolutely nothing.

Q. Did you ever have any reason before the shooting to suspect your husband's relations as far as Mrs. Mills was concerned? A. Absolutely none.

Q. What is your feeling toward your husband? A. I feel he is true to me.

Q. Did you know anything, Mrs. Hall, which you do not care to tell us for fear you may embarrass somebody that you know? Somebody very near and dear to you? A. Nothing.

Q. You, today, are without any direct knowledge that might clear up this crime in any way? A. I have absolutely no knowledge.

No Feeling of Enmity.

Q. Did you ever have any feeling of enmity toward Mrs. Mills? A. None whatever.

Q. You state that you understood or knew that your husband wrote to Mrs. Mills last summer. Will you tell how you knew that? A. The pastor was sending cards to all the parish. Mrs. Mills wrote to me and she said he had sent her cards.

Q.: Did you know that he had received a letter or letters from her? A.: I know the two that I saw.

Q.: Two letters? A.: Yes.

Q.: Do you know what the contents of those letters were? A.: Yes, I did.

Tells of Phoning Police.

Q.: When you phoned the police on Friday morning why was it, as we understood, you merely asked whether there had been an auto accident and did not report your husband missing? A.: I said my husband had gone out and had not returned. I did not tell the police who I was. I asked if there had been an accident which might account for his not returning.

Q.: Why did not you tell the police who you were? A.: I thought I could get the information without saying more.

Q. You never had any reason to go to Mrs. Mills to protest against anything you had heard? A. Never.

Q. Was there any enmity between Henry Stevens and your husband? A. No.

Q. Or Willis and your husband? A. Never.

Q. Why did Henry absent himself from your wedding? A. He was away traveling at the time.

BERLIN INQUIRY ON REPARATIONS BEGUN BY ENTENTE

Series of Pourparlers Promise to Be Most Significant Yet Held—Hope for International Loan.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—An exchange of courtesies between Chancellor Wirth and the members of the Reparations Commission and a subsequent informal visit by the commissioners to the Ministry of Finance yesterday officially began what promises to be the most significant series of pourparlers in the whole range of reparations discussions.

Neither of the occurrences afforded indication as to what line of action the entente investigators are likely to follow. The meeting with Minister of Finance Hermes and several secretaries of state concerned itself with the question of agreeing upon a working basis for the forthcoming deliberations.

American Observers Present.

Much importance is attached in German quarters to the presence of Roland W. Boyden and Col. James A. Logan as American observers, especially in view of the emphasis placed by the German Government on the urgency of an international loan in connection with the process of stabilization.

Some Germans, who persist in the belief that no foreign loan will be forthcoming from any source unless active American interest in connection with reparations revision is vouchsafed, are extracting fresh hopes out of the unofficial presence of American delegates in the negotiations.

Priority to Loan Payments.

Insistence upon inevitable necessity of an ample foreign loan in connection with any attempt to halt the threatened disintegration of the national currency has not yet been given specific formulation, although it is generally assumed that such a proposal will specify an arrangement whereby interest payments on such a loan would be accorded priority rights by the Reparations Commission through subordination of other reparations payments.

Just what will be the German Government's reply to the demand by the entente representatives that German currency inflation cease forthwith in event such a loan is floated has not been indicated in official German quarters.

RECTOR'S SISTERS VISIT MRS. HALL; VOICE FAITH IN HER

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The State of New Jersey is clinging to the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson as the weapon with which it hopes to effect arrests, indictments and trial of persons suspected of the murder nearly seven weeks ago of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

This much seemed certain on the surface of the investigation being conducted by special Deputy Attorney-General Mott when he returned from Somerville to his home in Newark.

He professed not to be affected in his valuation of Mrs. Gibson's narrative of her mule ride up De Bussey's lane, her alleged recognition of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the rector's widow, and her return, four hours later, to find Mrs. Hall bending over the bodies beneath the crabapple tree, by the flood of information regarding the woman's personal history.

Denies Easton Is Husband.

Mrs. Gibson not only denied that William H. Easton was her husband, but she denied, as well, that she was the mother of Willie Easton, known to even his closest chum as her son. In answer to questions submitted over the telephone to her barricaded home, she said she moved to the farm outside New Brunswick from Trenton in 1901; that her husband, whose name she would not give, died in 1904, and that she was the daughter of a Charles Eislinter of Kentucky, who died in 1902.

But at other times, to both official and unofficial questions, she said she had really been married to William H. Easton, that they had been divorced and had remarried and that not only was William her son, but that she also had a daughter, Alice Easton, 18, who is married.

Mrs. Gibson said that Mott had assured her he was possessed of ample corroboration of her story; that he has found at least one other person who was in De Bussey's lane on the night of the murders and that this person also saw the woman with a gray coat on the Phillips farm.

"This person is reputable and has supplied sufficient evidence for one or more arrests," the woman said. "I am told these arrests will be made very soon."

Another statement by Mrs. Gibson was that both William and Alice were the children of her sister, whom she described as Mrs. Jessie May Eislitner Easton, wife of William H. Easton. Herself she described as Mrs. Mary Jane Eislitner Gibson, widow and childless, but extremely fond of her niece and nephew, both of whom, she said had come to regard her as their mother, since she had mothered them for her sister, who she went on, is a trained nurse and away most of the time.

It is concluded in New Brunswick that Mott is either bending every effort in the search for stronger corroboration of Mrs. Gibson's tale than is already in his possession, or that he is willing that the limelight be kept shining on the Gibson situation, in order to divert attention from his real objective.

FASCISTI MARCHED AS IF TO A FETE; EVERY CLASS OF SOCIETY REPRESENTED

Their Ranks Were Filled With Men Who Knew Their Minds and Opposition to Them Was Not Apparent.

When it was seen the Italian situation was becoming serious, the Post-Dispatch and New York World's central European correspondent, Arno Dosch-Fleurot, was sent to Italy to write of the Fascisti. He arrived in the northern part of the peninsula Saturday and has since been with the main Fascisti "army," which has given him an unusual opportunity to study the development of the Fascisti movement outside of Rome. The following dispatch is the result of his three days in the Nationalist ranks.

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT.

(Copyright, 1922, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

ROME, Nov. 1.—The correspondent came into Rome yesterday morning with the triumphant Fascisti from the north—the main body of this enthusiastic Nationalist "army." The whole journey was like going to a fete, not a revolution.

Every class of Italian society was represented in the enormous march to the Capitol. Lawyers, nobles, workmen, merchants, peasants—old and young. Train loads of them came from Milan, Venice, Bologna and Florence, Genoa, Pisa and Liverno in specials to join the parade southward.

All during the week-end they moved on to Rome. The railroads were ordered stopped to prevent their advance, but their progress was never halted; none turned back; they did not hesitate or waver.

The correspondent passed Milan, Genoa, Liverno and Florence before he finally got through with the Fascisti, who had opened up the Florence-Rome railway.

Easily Master of Situation.

Everywhere the Fascisti were easily masters of the situation. Every railroad station, every telegraph office, every street was alive with their black shirts and their black tasseled caps.

All the "Black Shirts" were in the gayest of humors; they felt from the start they had everything their own way and had nothing to fear from any opponent.

No shops were closed in any of these northern cities. No one feared disorder. There had been no general mobilization of the Fascisti; the assembling was spontaneous. The spirit of the occasion was so catching that everyone who was not seriously opposed to the movement politically watched the maneuvers of the Facisti with indulgent sympathy.

The "army" formed in each city in the open corridors of the railway stations, where the Fascisti opened offices and quarters. They then took over what trains they needed, filled the cars with straw, piled in and were off to Rome.

Most of the Fascisti from the North carried revolvers. Others were armed with canes of various and spectacular design, or with short clubs. Yesterday Rome was filled with these irregulars, who paraded before the King.

Mussolini Has Ample Support.

Victor Emmanuel was evidently well informed of public opinion when he called Benito Mussolini, leader of the Fascisti, to head the Government. The new Premier takes office with tremendously enthusiastic backing. He has with him the army, the navy, the police and the most spirited element of public opinion. It is the same quality of enthusiasm, based on the same popular support, that swept Italy into the war.

The details of the Fascisti's sudden rise to power are for the moment inconsequential. The country is being swept along on waves of feeling. It is the type of nationalism of which emotion is symptomatic.

One asks: What has become of the Socialists? Where are the communists? There is nothing but national flags, nothing but patriotic and Fascisti songs. Not a communist dares raise the red flag throughout the height of Italy. Fascisti groups are raiding communist clubs for pictures of Marx and Lenine as trophies of war.

What first showed me the way popular tide was turning was the attitude of the railroad employes. Trainload after trainload of Fascisti set out for Rome and the railway workers showed no sign of opposition. Had there been any opposition worthy the name, it needed only a strike to halt the Fascisti advance. But there was no strike, no sign of a strike, not even strike talk. The Fascisti were supreme.

Departed After Parade.

The "Black Shirts" paraded in arms all afternoon through the streets of Rome, were reviewed by the King and Gen. Diaz, the new Minister of War, and then as many as the trains could carry went back to the thousands of cities, towns and villages from which they came. Watching the parade several considerations occurred to the correspondent.

The first was that three-fourths of the Fascisti paraders were men who work with their hands, indicating the Fascisti had overcome class lines and united men of varied economic interests.

Second, the paraders were mostly men beyond 30, showing they are men who know their minds and were not carried away by the enthusiasm of a moment.

Third, one of the divisions most enthusiastically received was the Dalmatians, recalling Fiume vividly. Two years ago they were triumphant in Fiume; today they are triumphant in Rome.

4. Large sections of the marchers carried shotguns, indicating they are from the farms and showing the Fascisti is not purely a city and ex-soldier movement.

They Asserted Their Will.

5. It was obvious these men have asserted their will, knowing what they want, and will be right behind Mussolini to support him whatever policy he adopts.

6. They are actuated by a spirit of nationalism which sweeps aside all other considerations. When the Fascisti was forming in the Villa Borghese, an old Garibaldi soldier with his Fascisti son, with true dramatic sense, stood before the statue of Victor Hugo, under the inscription of Hugo's eulogy of Garibaldi. "The spirit of Garibaldi is reawakened," the old soldier declared. "The Black Shirt will finish the work the Red Shirt began."

7. Whatever comes of it, the Fascisti have the country in their hands and it looks as though they intended to keep it awhile.

2 MEN ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING OF PATROLMA

Testimony Started in Case of Hugh Pinkley and Charles Merrell, Arrested After Holdup.

Testimony was started today in the trial of Hugh Pinkley, 34 years old, of 208 Exchange avenue, East St. Louis, and Charles G. Merrell, 21, of 1329 North Vandeventer avenue, charged with first-degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting on April 22 last of Patrolman Michael O'Connor, during a holdup at the Morris & Co. branch office, 3000 South Broadway. Judge Killoren is presiding.

Patrolman Bernard C. Mengel was also fatally shot during the holdup. The two policemen had surprised the robbers while they were in the office of the branch plant. Indictments charging first-degree murder in connection with the death of Mengel are pending against the two defendants.

Witness' Story of Holdup.

Joseph E. Flieschman, 217W Kraus street, who was assistant manager of the branch when it was held up, testified that Pinkley and Merrell were the men who held it up and shot O'Connor. He and the manager and bookkeeper were in the office when the robbers entered. He described what occurred as follows:

The robbers commanded, "Stick 'em up," and one of them hit him on the arm and ordered him to lie on the floor. The other robber told the three of them to throw up their hands, so they stood with hands elevated.

"Where's the payroll?" one robber asked.

"It's over in the bank," said the manager, but the bookkeeper said, "I've already paid 'em off."

Patrolman Fired at Them.

Pinkley rummaged in the safe and Merrell took some money from the cash drawer. Patrolman O'Connor ran into the hall, where he could be seen through a window, and fired a shot at the robbers through the glass, then ducked. The robbers turned towards the window with drawn weapons, and when O'Connor arose they fired simultaneously, and he toppled over.

The robbers ran out and Fleischman followed, picking up O'Connor's revolver as he ran. He fired two shots at the machine in which the robbers escaped. The robbers wore tan cravenettes, caps and yellow goggles. Fleischman admitted on cross-examination, that he was unable to identify Pinkley and Merrell as the robbers when he first confronted them, but recognized them when clothes like those worn by the robbers were put on them.

Robert A. Manly, 28, of 3934 North Florissant avenue, who was indicted with Pinkley and Merrell, made a statement to authorities, May 21, in which he admitted that he drove the automobile in which the robbers escaped, but denied that he participated in the shooting. He was subsequently released on bond and will be used by the State as a witness.

Both Pinkley and Merrell are said by police to be former convicts. Neither has made a statement since they were arrested. Their defense has not been indicated. The case was called Monday, at which time the jury was selected.

PROSECUTOR NOT TO REOPEN INQUEST IN CHRISTLER CASE

TRAGEDY RE-ENACTED IN PASTOR'S HOME

Mrs. Pyle Insists Some Details of Shooting as Related by Mrs. Christler Are Impossible.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HAVRE, Mont., Nov. 1.—The County Attorney of Hill County yesterday declined to reopen the inquest into the deaths of the Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler and Mrs. Margaret Davenport Carleton.

He likewise declined to answer the questions of Mrs. Joseph Pyle of Butte, mother of Mrs. Carleton, whether he had established a motive for the firing of the two bullets which ended the lives of the rector and his attractive parishioner, who acted as his stenographer, and whether the ownership of the revolver from which the shots came had been established.

Lacking information on these points herself, Mrs. Pyle acknowledged that she could not justify her demand for the reopening of the inquest and, in company with her husband, Joseph Pyle, mining engineer for former United States Senator W. A. Clark, will depart today for Helena with the body of her daughter.

Believes Pair Were Murdered.

Mrs. Pyle reiterated her belief that her daughter did not shoot the Rev. Mr. Christler and herself, but was murdered with the rector and indicated her intention to return to Havre to pursue her investigation.

The belief is general here, however, that Mrs. Pyle has made so little progress upon her theory that she will press her investigation little further and that the Coroner's verdict of murder and suicide will stand.

An autopsy was performed yesterday upon the body of Mrs. Carleton at the instance of Pyle, her stepfather, who desired to know whether the course of the bullet would throw light upon whether the wound was self-inflicted.

Straight Course Into Heart.

It had been testified at the inquest by the physician who first arrived at the Christler home after the shooting that a superficial examination indicated that the bullet had taken a straight course into the heart, with an upward tendency, if any. The autopsy physicians announced their findings as follows:

The bullet, entering the body in the left breast, coursed downward at an angle of 45 degrees, pierced the junction of the seventh and eighth ribs, entered the heart, and, passing from it, continued its downward course, imbedding itself in the muscles of the back and right of the twelfth vertebra, which is just above the waistline. Thus it had a slight left to right course.

An experiment with the revolver with which the shooting was done to determine the position in which it must be held to give the bullet such a course, disclosed that the position would have been awkward in self-infliction, though not impossible. The effort to trace ownership of the weapon through the manufacturer has failed. The manufacturers in Worcester, Mass., replying to an inquiry of the Chief of Police, that no record had been kept of the sale. It was manufactured in 1910.

Tragedy Re-enacted.

The tragedy wa re-enacted yesterday in the Christler home, which was opened for the first time since the departure Sunday of Mrs. Christler with the body of her husband. Mrs. Pyle said she felt that some test of the physical facts, as received by Mrs. Christler, should be made, and that a search of the home might reveal something that would throw light upon the motive. She was accompanied to the home by the Mayor of Havre, the Chief of Police, the Chief of the Fire Department and newspaper reporters. The Mayor climbed through a basement window, which he forced, and, ascending to the first floor, admitted the party through a rear door to the kitchen.

Mrs. Pyle took immediate command. She assigned the role of her daughter to a reporter, that of Mr. Christler to the Chief of Police and that of Mrs. Christler to another reporter. These representatives of the principals seated themselves in the front room of the home where, Mrs. Christler testified, she, her husband and Mrs. Carleton had conversed. That conversation, lasting apparently more than 30 minutes, has been summarized by Mrs. Christler in a single sentence: "She told me I had no place in Mr. Christler's life." Mrs. Pyle handed the transcript of the testimony to another of the party. "Read," she commanded, indicating the passage of Mrs. Christler's testimony which described the shooting.

"Mr. Christler" and "Mrs. Carleton" rose from their chairs. "Mrs. Carleton" moved toward the front door only a few steps, as if anticipating that "Mrs. Carleton" was about to depart. "Mrs. Christler" rose and, going to the front door placed her hand upon the knob, her back upon the others. Meanwhile "Mr. Christler" had passed into the dining room and through another door in close proximity to that connecting the dining and front rooms into a short hall which terminated in his bedroom. "Mrs. Carleton" turned and followed him. "Now, snap, snap," cried Mrs. Pyle, snapping her fingers rapidly twice as Mrs. Christler had done to illustrate the shots at the inquest.

"You see," she continued excitedly, "Mrs. Christler said that when she turned from her door, at the shots, my daughter's body was falling at her feet. It couldn't be. The distance is too great."

Revolver Lay in Hand.

The rector's body was found lying in the doorway to his bedroom. Four feet away in the doorway from the hall to the dining room the body of Mrs. Carleton lay. Chief of Police Moran placed himself upon the floor to illustrate its position when he arrived. Mrs. Pyle insisted that he place his right hand exactly as her daughter's had been. Testimony has been that the revolver lay, rather than was clenched, in the hand and Mrs. Pyle has insisted that when the body fell the revolver would have popped out of the hand and would not have rested in the palm loosely, as was testified it did. She then led the Chief of Police on a search of the house from cellar to second floor. She apparently was seeking a weapon of some sort. She has been told, she said, that the rector and his wife frequently practiced target shooting on the buttes which overshadow their bungalow home, and has believed that weapons were in the possession of the Christlers.

No Weapon Found in Search.

The search, which was minute, disclosed no weapons. Correspondence filled the drawers of a desk and was piled upon it and in various parts of the room. It was all examined. Nothing from Mrs. Carleton was found, nor did a subsequent search of the rector's study at St. Mark's Church of the Incarnation, disclose anything of even the remotest bearing on the frequent visits there together of the rector and Mrs. Carleton. Mrs. Pyle was visibly downcast at the results of the expedition, and her confidence in her ability to clear her daughter of the Coroner's verdict waned perceptibly.

The body of Mrs. Carleton will be buried in the family plot at Helena, the city of her birth, with services in the Christian Science Church. Services were held last night in the Van Arsdale Methodist Church in Havre. Mrs. Pyle said, in deference to the requests of Protestant ministers, that they might be permitted to pay respect to her daughter's memory. Pastors of the Methodist Church, the First Baptist Church, and the First Presbyterian Church alternated in the reading of an abbreviated Episcopal burial service. This was in deference to Mrs. Carleton's association and activity in the Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. Mr. Christler was rector. About 100 persons gathered in the church. Mr. and Mrs. Pyle heard the services seated in the choir room, whose open door was near the pulpit. No address was made at the conclusion of the service, persons in attendance were permitted to view the body, which then was conveyed in a hearse to the railroad station, followed by a solitary automobile.

In stating to an attorney representing the Pyle family, that he could not reopen the inquest, County Attorney Max Kuhr said, "I have no answer to make to the questions, and no statement, except that all effort is being made to explain every aspect of this case."

SAYS WIFE HAD TOLD OF LOVE FOR PASTOR

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Margaret Carleton, who, with the Rev. Leonard J. Christler, was found shot to death in the Christler home at Havre, Mont., last Friday, had confessed her love for the Rev. Mr. Christler to her husband, Frank E. Carleton, former Judge of the District Court at Havre, Carleton declared last night in a signed statement to the Associated Press. The statement said:

"I can no longer remain silent in the face of the startling statement of Bishop Faber given to the Associated Press, that 'I believe as a result of the investigation I have made of the tragedy which occurred in the Christler home early Friday morning and after questioning those who knew about it, that if this woman had been able to work her will on Mr. Christler, he would be alive today, unfaithful to his wife, but still living.'

"This attempt to make it appear to the world that Margaret threw herself upon this man and that he tried to remonstrate with her and lead her into a spiritual path has goaded me into expression.

"I wonder did his reverence know when he made the statement above referred to, that this pastor, who, its now claimed, maintained only a friendly and ministerial interest in the Carleton family had written letters to Margaret Davenport (my wife's maiden name) and sent them care general delivery?

"Let it be well understood that in making this statement I intend to cast not the slightest reflection or condemnation upon my wife, for no one knows as well as I do the influence which this man held over her, and which could reasonably be termed hypnotic.

"I have known of Margaret's love for this man for several years and it is only fair to her to say that she confessed it to me. I will not further violate her confidence, but I do want to state unqualifiedly and unreservedly that it is a fact that this preacher had led her to believe that he returned that love.

"ARGUED 4 HOURS WITH REVOLVER IN HAND"

Man Arrested on Complaint of Woman Denies Being in Her Apartment.

Policemen are attempting to reconcile conflicting stories of events which resulted in the arrest here last night of James Freeman, 36 years old, owner of a taxicab line in St. Joseph, Mo., on complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nelson of 840 North Newstead avenue.

The Nelsons requested the arrest of Freeman late yesterday. Mrs. Nelson told the police that shortly after 9 a. m., Freeman, who was a friend of the family, came to her apartment and after walking in, requested her to pack her things and depart with him. She says that she refused and he then drew a revolver from his pocket and told her she would go.

Held Revolver Four Hours.

Mrs. Nelson said he kept the revolver in his hand for about four hours, while they argued. She finally determined to get him away on a pretext, so she could telephone, she said, and agreed to go with him if he would wait for her on the corner so that they would not be seen leaving together. He departed, she says, and she telephoned her husband. Nelson said he found his wife in a swoon upon the floor when he reached home.

Freeman was arrested in a hotel at Fourteenth and Chestnut streets, where he was stopping with his mother. At Newstead Avenue Police Station today he denied having been in the Nelson apartment. He said he has known Mrs. Nelson for some time, she having formerly lived in St. Joseph, and that he has many letters from her complaining of her married life and expressing the wish that she could get away.

Statement of Prisoner.

Freeman said he and his mother decided to come here to see if they could help Mrs. Nelson. They arrived Sunday and called her on the telephone, he said. He claims she visited them at the hotel Monday and that it was agreed that she would return with them to St. Joseph. They were to meet her at Maryland and Newstead avenues yesterday afternoon. Freeman said he and his mother waited at that corner for two hours and returned to the hotel when Mrs. Nelson failed to appear. Freeman said he had planned to marry Mrs. Nelson after she obtained a divorce.

BOY, 7, IS INJURED BY AUTO

Alfred Clark, 7 years old, of the Episcopal Orphans' Home, 1711 South Grand avenue, suffered contusions of the head and a fracture of the left leg when knocked down in front of 3506 Park avenue by an automobile driven by John Laiehinger, 38, of 4010 Lafayette avenue, at 8:30 a. m. today. The boy was crossing the street and turned to run back to the curb, passing in front of the automobile, Laiehinger reported to the police.

Intruder Robs Woman in Home.

An unarmed man, wearing a black mask and black gloves, entered the home of Mrs. Ira Anderson, 516 South Fifth street, East St. Louis, at about 10 o'clock this morning, and ordered her to throw up her hands. She refused, and he tore a tobacco sack, containing $155, from her clothing. Mrs. Anderson said $90 of the money belonged to her husband, and the rest to her brother and father. The robber escaped.

WOMAN REPORTS SHE WAS ROBBED IN COUNTY

Mrs. Roberta Childs Says Men Took $1540 in Money and Jewelry Valued at $2650.

Mrs. Roberta Childs of 5384 Natural Bridge road yesterday reported to Sheriff Willmann that she was robbed at 8:45 p. m. by several men in a Cadillac automobile of $1540 in money and jewelry valued at $2650, on the Wild Horse road, near Gray's Summit.

The Natural Bridge address is a little restaurant with living rooms upstairs. Mrs. Childs' mother, who conducts the restaurant, today said her daughter had just returned from the South, where she had been visiting her husband, A. L. Childs, and was not at home today, having gone downtown. She said her daughter was receiving $4000 a year alimony from a previous marriage.

Mrs. Childs told county authorities that she was touring to St. Louis last Saturday when her car broke down near Gray's Summit and she left it there for repairs. Yesterday, she said, she went out there with two men in a service car to get her machine, and on the way back in her car, accompanied by one of the men, she was held up by the men in the Cadillac, which bore an Illinois license tag.

When the report of the robbery was received Sheriff Willmann had the east and west roads watched, and a car answering the description given by Mrs. Childs passed some of the deputies, who were in another automobile, but they were outdistanced. Last night an abandoned Cadillac car without license plates was found in Shaftesbury lane, University City.

PRISONER'S RELIGION CAUSES ARRESTS IN THEFT INQUIRY

Man Became Informer in Box Car Looting Case Following Conversion.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 1.—Four former railroad employes are under arrest and police and railroad special officers say that a number of additional arrests will be made as the result of a series of box car thefts in and near Little Rock, of which the aggregate value of the loot was said by officers to reach $200,000.

The arrests are said by police to have been brought about by a confession made by J. L. Adkinson, now serving a term in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, who recently professed religion and detailed the methods of car robbery.

Youth Held After Slaying of Two.

By the Associated Press.

VIRGINIA, Minn., Nov. 1.—Toivo Aho, 21 years old, following a Coroner's inquest yesterday was charged with first-degree murder as a result of the slaying of Mrs. Mary Wirtanen, his mother, and Frank Wirtanen, her husband, Monday night.

WOMAN'S MUSIC AND MAN'S SCULPTURE RESULT IN ADOPTIONS

Ellis Wainwright, Former St. Louis Brewer, to Assist Kentucky Girl in Study.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Art caused the adoption of two persons—a woman of 21 and a man of 26—according to records filed yesterday and approved by Surrogate Foley.

The young woman becomes the adopted daughter of a wealthy bachelor. The young man becomes the foster child of a woman physician, 23 years his senior.

The young woman is Rosalind Velva Kendall of Louisville, Ky. Her foster father is Ellis Wainwright of 300 Park avenue, former St. Louis brewer. The other is Joseph Lorkowski of 6170 Northern boulevard, College Point, L. I. He was adopted by Dr. Eleanor Boulton of 424 West Twentieth street.

Miss Kendall is a musician of promise. Lorkowski is looking forward to the day when he will be hailed as a master sculptor.

Wainwright, in his petition, states that Miss Kendall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Milton Kendall of Louisville, Ky.

"I have known Miss Kendall for several years," he adds, "and assisted in her education, and desire to give her additional educational facilities in this and other countries, especially as to music and to furnish her means therefor."

Dr. Boulton, in asking for the adoption of Lorkowski, declared her work as a physician gave her an income of $7500 a year.

Lorkowski's father is dead, she said, and his mother is not well-to-do and has four other children to support. Lorkowski's ability as a sculptor, the physician stated, has convinced her that he should be educated abroad and she desired "to go to Europe with him and personally supervise his education and development."

DEATH PENALTY SOUGHT FOR MRS. MABEL CHAMPION

Woman, 22, Who Killed Man Scuffling With Husband, Claimed Shot Was Accidental.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 1.—The case of Mrs. Mabel Champion, 22 years old, charged with the first-degree murder of Thomas A. O'Connell, carnival promoter of New Haven, Conn., went to the jury late today. O'Connell was shot to death in a restaurant here last July during a scuffle with Ausley Champion, the defendant's husband.

Walter D. Meals, counsel for Mrs. Champion, began his closing argument when court convened today.

Edward C. Stanton, County Prosecutor, made the opening argument for the State late yesterday. He made a plea for the death sentence, asking "Is this Cleveland or is it Paris, where Apaches of the underworld shoot men down in cold blood?"

On the stand, in her own defense, yesterday, Mrs. Champion admitted firing the shots that killed O'Connell, but testified that the shooting was accidental.

GEN. MURGUIA, MEXICAN REBEL CHIEF, EXECUTED

Leader Captured in Church Last Night and Shot This Morning.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 1.—Gen. Francisco Murguia, Mexican rebel leader captured in Durango yesterday, was executed by a firing squad at 1 a. m. today, according to a telegram from Mexico City, received at the custom house in Juarez.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—Gen. Francisco Murguia, Mexican rebel leader, was arrested last night at Trehuanos, Durango. He was hiding in a small room behind the high altar of a church when taken.

The identity of the captive has been established definitely. He made no resistance, being surrounded, while sleeping, by Federal soldiers under Gen. Abraham Carmona.

The Rev. Father Cazares, in charge of the church, at first protested to the troops that he knew nothing of Gen. Murguia's whereabouts, but later led them to the rebel General's hiding place. The priest was not detained.

Gen. Murguia for years has been President Obregon's most bitter enemy, and is one of the men who took part in the flight that brought death to former President Carranza.

For a long time Gen. Murguia has been credited with brewing a revolution. Two months ago he left his hiding place across the Rio Grande River and came back into Mexico at the head of a rebel band said to have numbered 800 men. Three weeks ago his forces were defeated decisively by troops under Gen. Escobar, at Guarache, in the State of Durango. Since then he avoided meeting Federal troops until yesterday.

From time to time there were reports he was trying to unite his rebels with those of Juan Carrasco, in the State of Sinalao, and the men under Carlos Greene, in Tabasco, but nothing ever came of these moves.

The rebellious activities of Gen. Murguia never aroused popular sympathy, except in the northern regions, where, as Governor of Coahuila under Carranza, he gained many adherents.

STATE DELVES INTO MRS. ROSIER'S LIFE

Defendant Bows Her Head and Weeps When Witness for Prosecution Testifies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Catherine Rosier bowed her head and wept at a dramatic moment today in her trial for the murder of Mildred Reckitt, 19-year-old stenographer, when at attack was made on her character through a commonwealth witness.

The witness was Franz Koenig, keeper of an apartment house. He was called by the State in rebuttal. He testified to leasing an apartment to Oscar Rosier, whom Mrs. Rosier shot and killed with Miss Reckitt, Jan. 21, last, and said that "Mrs. Rosier" had gone with the advertising man to look at the apartment. That was before the Rosiers were married.

Identifies Defendant.

"Is this defendant the Mrs. Rosier you met that day?" asked the Assistant District Attorney. Mrs. Rosier's head was bent. As the witness gazed at her, she slowly raised her head and looked full at him.

"Yes, that is she," the witness said. Mrs. Rosier put her handkerchief to her face and sobbed.

The head of a local detective agency testified he had employed Mrs. Rosier, when she was 16 years old, and with her mother's written consent to go to a house for the purpose of getting evidence against a woman who was suspected by her husband. The woman's lawyer forced the detective to admit that the investigation was legitimate and the young girl employed to work in a legitimate manner.

The first witness, Miss Frnacis W. Jones, formerly attached to the Girls' Aid Society, testified to being called by Mrs. Rosier's mother when she was worried over her daughter when she was 16 years old.

Miss Jones said that Mrs. Rosier was infatuated with Richard Bent, a wagon driver, but was dissuaded from marrying him.

Dr. Horace Phillips, of the United States Public Health Service, testified that he had called on Mrs. Rosier in prison to examine her for signs of insanity. He said she had refused to answer his questions on advice of counsel. He said he thought she was sane.

Are You Less Important Than a Building?

The most magnificent building in St. Louis means nothing to an individual in comparison with personal welfare and future comfort.

It is generally understood that a building could not efficiently be erected without plans, yet many individuals are attempting to build a personally important future for themselves without a definite plan of saving.

Modern securities make it easy to invest—even in a small way—and with set plans of laying aside a fixed part of the weekly or monthly income the building of future independence becomes an easy and fascinating occupation.

Financial institutions with reputations for scrupulous honesty and sincere co-operation with investors advertise regularly in the Post-Dispatch—all of them regard it a duty to assist the public in the proper selection of safe securities for investment.

Individuals who recognize that plans of saving are necessary to success, and that every man is his own architect and master builder, should consult without delay one of these banks, investment houses or trust companies about plans for profitable investments.

WARRIOR LINE IS EXPECTED TO SUSTAIN SELF BY END OF YEAR

Ashburn Says Section Meanwhile Must Pay to Make Mississippi Line a Success.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 1.—The Warrior River barge line will be self-supporting by the end of this year, according to Col. T. Q. Ashburn, in charge of barging operations of the War Department. After a conference with Theodore Brent, manager of the Mississippi-Warrior River barge line, he said that the Warrior must pay to make the Mississippi River barge line a success and to allow it to go on. At times the losses on the Warrior River section ran as high as $40,000 a month, it was stated, but in the last three months traffic has increased to such an extent on the Warrior River line that by Jan. 1 it will be self-sustaining and reqiure no money for expansion.

Col. Ashburn declared that during the last seven months of the past fiscal year, the Mississippi-Warrior bare line averaged a profit of more than $50,000 a month, and that ever since December the line has not only always covered its expenses, but made enough money to pay the expenses on the Warrior River section.

He said that although Congress has not appropriated funds for further expansion he had been able during the last six months to get equipment from the surplus war stock.

Col. Ashburn said that the Government service of 19 barges of 2000 tons each, leased to Edward F. Goltra, would be obtained for the Mississippi-Warrior line, in case Goltra doesn't operate them himself.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

ARTIST SAYS WOMAN MADE WIFE QUIT HIM

New York Man Tells of Visit to House and Demand for Children.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Charges that Mrs. R. L. Hanton of 25 Fifth avenue had persuaded his wife virtually to desert him more than a year ago and now is attempting to get possession of his four children have been made by Roger C. Pierroti, an artist of Cos Cob, Conn.

Mrs. Hanton, who recently paid the Greenwich Cab Co. a $480 taxicab bill in pennies, motored to Pierroti's home last night, accompanied by Mrs. Pierroti and a man who said he was a New York lawyer. A few minutes later Pierroti ran from the house, calling for a policeman and saying the lawyer had threatened to kill him unless he gave up the children. A motor cycle patrolman responded and restored order.

The artist said he formerly lived in New York with his wife and four children, ranging in age from 2 to 11 years. They met Mrs. Hanton five years ago and she became very friendly with Mrs. Pierroti. After the birth of Lavina, the youngest child, Mrs. Hanton arranged to have the child named after her and gave the infant $50.

Mrs. Pierroti often visited with Mrs. Hanton, who, the artist declares, said she had $1,000,000 in England, $1,000,000 in Greenwich and $2,000,000 in Canada. She told Mrs. Pierroti she wanted to care for the family and often bought clothes for the children.

Lived in Cottage With Children.

During one of his wife's prolonged visits to Mrs. Hanton, Pierroti rented a cottage at Brighton Beach and lived there with his children. On May 25, 1921, Mrs. Hanton told the artist he ought to have a studio in New York and agreed to aid him. They rented one, but the check which Mrs. Hanton gave him to pay the rent was found to be worthless. Pierroti became suspicious. He made good the amount and told his wife of his fears, but she maintained her faith in Mrs. Hanton.

The artist says his wife and Mrs. Hanton visited the Brighton Beach house, July 16, last, with a bottle and both appeared to have been drinking. Mrs. Hanton told him he ought to have a home in Greenwich and that she would furnish the house.

A house was rented. Pierrotti paid $80 and Mrs. Hanton $200. At this time Mrs. Hanton was living in Edgewood Drive, Greenwich. She advised him to get rid of the furniture at the Brighton house as it was only "junk." Pierrotti sold for $43 furniture which he says cost him $1700.

The Greenwich house was to have been furnished by Oct. 1, but the fittings did not arrive from New York. Mrs. Hanton in the meantime moved to the Pennsylvania Hotel and Mrs. Pierrotti was living with her. The artist took two furnished rooms at Brighton Beach and lived there with the children. On Oct. 12, he decided to take the children to Greenwich. He had sent for his wife when a daughter became ill, but she advised him to get a physician and said her presence would be of no use. The artist and his children had to sleep on the floor "like pigs," he says. He telephoned his wife and asked her to join them as he had to care for the children and was unable to attend to his work. She refused on the ground that Mrs. Hanton was ill.

Says Wife Packed Things.

Pierrotti went to Mrs. Hanton's studio, where he says many pictures in the nude are painted. He said his wife was there and asked: "What in hell is the matter with you?" Mrs. Hanton, Pierrotti says, told Mrs. Pierrotti that if she had a husband like that she would kick him out. "You get a separation and I'll take care of the children," she is alleged to have told Mrs. Pierrotti. The artist finally quieted the women and when he departed, he says, Mrs. Hanton kissed him.

The two women appeared in Greenwich Sunday night in Mrs. Hanton's automobile. Mrs. Hanton was nervous and trembling. Mrs. Pierrotti told her husband that her friend had quarreled with a sweetheart and to get her a bottle of wine. Pierrotti gave her the only bottle he had and Mrs. Hanton drank it all. The artist insisted that his wife return with him and induced her to stay at the house over night. She then demanded $2 which he gave her and she took the train for New York, but promised to return Monday.

Pierrotti got a supply of food. His wife was to have come back Monday, but she did not arrive until 11:30 p. m. When the artist got home he found the children huddled in a corner of the kitchen near an electric heater on which two of them had burned their hands.

When Mrs. Pierrotti arrived she ordered the children to bed and told her husband she would leave in the morning. When he tried to reason with her, he says, she threatened to kill herself. She then went upstairs, packed all the clothes she had in the house and departed for New York, when she joined Mrs. Hanton, and the pair went to Greenwich last night for the children.

Next Week to Be "Scout Week."

Next week will be Scout week in St. Louis when what is known as the Boy Scout extension program will be launched. A committee of 100 will act in co-operation with the ex-service men who have undertaken the management of the Boy Scout extension program. The campaign will be managed by the Society of the Forty and Eight and the American Legion.

PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION MAY JOIN GENERAL FUND CAMPAIGN

The board of directors of the St. Louis Provident Association voted yesterday tentatively favoring participation in the "community fund" campaign for replacing the separate appeals of a considerable number of the city's charities.

Action in approving participation in the campaign was based upon a study of the operation of community funds in other cities and of plans being developed here. A committee was given power to take final action for participation in the campaign when certain conditions are met. It is expected that these conditions will be satisfied when the constitution and by-laws are adopted at a meeting of the delegates of the 24 co-operating charities, Monday afternoon, in the Chamber of Commerce.

The conditions set for full participation by the Provident Association in the community fund are that the plan of organization shall be adequate, with the association having satisfactory representation; that the attitude of leading donors be ascertained and their approval obtained, and that it be made clear that its joining is experimental and that if at any time it shall become dissatisfied and wish to withdraw, it shall be at liberty to do so upon reasonable notice.

Hiking After Gliding.

EISENBACH, Germany, Nov. 1.—Unable to pay the high freight rates necessary to ship home by rail the glider with which they recently successfully competed in the Rhoon Mountains, students of the Charlottenburg Technical Academy are pushing it to Berlin on a home-made cart. One group of students brought the plane from Gersfeld to this city and were relieved here by another detachment. The hikers expect to reach the capital by the end of the week.

Packing Company Issues Bonds.

AUSTIN, Minn., Nov. 1.—The George A. Hormel Packing Co. has announced a complete refinancing of that organization by the issuance of $1,500,000 of 6½ per cent 12-year bonds.

Fire at Government Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

FORT BAYARD, N. M., Nov. 1.—Fire virtually destroyed the women's building at the Government hospital here early yesterday. Scores of nurses, maids and other women employes of the institution escaped in their night clothes.

ASSOCIATED AD CLUBS' HEAD TELLS OF ORGANIZATION'S WORK

Lou E. Holland of Kansas City Says Headquarters Plans Closer Touch With Smaller Members.

Lou E. Holland of Kansas City, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, described the organization work he has been doing since his assumption of the presidency, to a largely attended meeting of the local club at the Hotel Statler yesterday noon.

John McGlynn, star of John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln," and Harry Frazier, president of the Kansas City Advertising Club, were other speakers.

Holland stated that plans are under way for a greatly increased service on the part of the Associated Clubs' educational committees. The headquarters in New York, he said, has arranged to keep in closer touch with the smaller members of the association. Speakers are to be supplied free of charge to any club and all other activities aided in every way.

McGlynn discussed Abraham Lincoln as an advertiser, advancing the idea that the emancipator influenced public opinion by truth and was, therefore, a model advertising man.

CERTIFICATION OF ALL MEXICAN CONSULAR INVOICES HERE URGED

F. Ernest Cramer, chairman of the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, after conferring with F. Alvarez Moreno, Mexican Consul, and other merchants and manufacturers in St. Louis interested in doing business with Mexico, regarding the closing of the Mexican consulate general office in New York, sent a telegram to Charge d'Affaires Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican embassy, Washington, recommending that all the Mexican consular invoices be certified to in St. Louis.

The Mexican consulate in New York was closed Friday, upon orders from President Obregon. This action was taken in protect against the attachment of Mexican funds in New York banks and trust companies by the Oliver American Trading Co.

Bibles Barred From School.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—The King James version of the Bible "is the accepted Protestant version," and therefore sectarian, the Supreme Court has decided in an opinion made public today reversing a judgment of a superior court in Kings County, permitting the Selma Union High School district to purchase two copies of the Bible for the school library. The court held that the acquisition of Bibles by the school would be in direct violation of the school law.

Scarcity of Merchandise Causes Prices to Rise

Trade journals are predicting that a general scarcity of merchandise will force factories to raise their prices in the near future.

The Prufrock-Litton Furniture Company, Fourth and St. Charles, sensed this scarcity and placed large orders for furniture before the price advance.

During this last week of their sale of sample suites at greatly reduced prices you may secure furniture of quality at a saving you may never be able to duplicate because of rising replacement costs.

HYDE ASKED TO AID IN AVERTING VOTE FRAUDS IN COUNTY

REQUEST FOR EXTRA DEPUTIES AT POLLS

Sheriff Willmann Called Upon to Furnish Officers to Serve at Specified Polling Places.

The Clean Election League of St. Louis County has written to Sheriff Willmann, asking him to appoint 25 deputies to prevent fraud in specified polling places in the general election next Tuesday, and to Gov. Hyde, requesting that he instruct the St. Louis Police Board to station detectives at polling places near the eastern county line to follow bands of repeaters and hold them for county police.

The letter to Gov. Hyde recounts the methods by which the primary election is alleged to have been stolen, stating that "many St. Louis criminals were transported from precinct to precinct in automobiles and were voted in bunches." Gov. Hyde also is asked to give instructions "to warn any and all St. Louis police characters to keep out of St. Louis County on election day."

Conditions Sketched.

Sketching conditions in the primary, the letter states: "Polling places were without protection from peace officers, and in one precinct, Wellston, it has been shown that a peace officer actually compelled two duly appointed election judges to leave the polls, telling them to get out and not come within 100 feet of the polls, notwithstanding these two election judges presented their credentials from the County Court and were on hand before the time set for the polls to open."

The reference is to Constable Schoenbein, who has been mentioned in testimony of two election judges given at hearings of charges against alleged illegal judges, as ordering them from the Wellston polling place.

Sheriff Willman, who received the letter this morning, remarked that he had appointed 30 or 35 special deputies in the primary, and he had intended to follow the same procedure in this. "But I don't expect a bit of trouble," he declared. "There has never been any in a general election in the county."

Afraid of Government.

"They're afraid of the Federal Government?" he was asked.

"You bet your life! No 'red hot' is quite hot enough to monkey with Uncle Sam in a general election."

The Sheriff said he was willing to comply with the league's request that he appoint election deputies recommended by it. "I want to look over the list, of course," he said. "I'm only interested in seeing that they are good citizens."

The request was that a Deputy Sheriff be stationed at each of the following precincts, among the 76 in the county: Wellston, Darby Hill, Page avenue Nos. 1 and 2, De Hodiamont, Pine Lawn, Overland, Hillcrest, Richmond Heights, all precincts in University City and Maplewood—all in Central Township, and at Longwood, Broadway, Luxemburg and South Kirkwood.

List of Judges Scrutinized.

These precincts practically cover the districts in which gross frauds in the primary election of Aug. 1 were charged, resulting in a grand jury investigation, still under way. Scrutinizing the lists of persons appointed as precinct judges for the general election, Clean Election League leaders have found some to whom they object, but the league has not made formal protest against them. The league's letter to the Sheriff ended:

"We await your prompt reply and on behalf of the good citizens of this county, and to assure a fair expression of the voters of this county, unaided by nonresidents and repeaters, we urge your prompt acceptance of our offer to furnish you with names of such persons as will doubtless meet your approval, from which to make selections for deputies."

LOVE NOTES WERE FROM WIFE

By the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 1.—How she and her husband of 23 years corresponded with each other for nearly a year while living under the same roof, without the husband discovering she was the author of the letters he received, was described in court by Mrs. J. Franklin Moore, wife of a dentist, who is seeking a divorce. A newspaper advertisement for a "companion for week-end trips," which Mrs. Moore said she suspected had been inserted by her husband, resulted in the exchange of love letters, she testified. Mrs. Moore asserted she sued when she found epistles addressed to her husband in feminine handwriting that was not hers.

313 Ships Through Canal in Month.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA, Nov. 1.—Ships passing through the Panama Canal during October numbered 313, a new high record. Figures on the tolls collected last month were unobtainable today, but it was expected that they also would set a new figure.

MARKET STREET AT ELEVENTH

Lives of Passengers Endangered When Shot Is Fired Through Street Car Window.

Street car conductors, policemen and city firemen were victims of a number of pranks played by youths last night in the celebration of Halloween.

Eleven false alarms of fire were turned in, policemen were called by irate men and women who reported various kinds of disturbances, and street car employes often were forced to remove wagons, boxes and other articles from the tracks.

The lives of persons on a southbound Park avenue car were endangered shortly after 7 p. m. when a shot was fired into the car from behind a billboard at the corner of Mississippi and Chouteau avenues. The bullet went into the third window from the front on the right side of the car and passed out through the third window on the left side.

Halls of apartment buildings resounded with the noise made by costumed girls and boys, who knocked on doors, rang door bells and engaged in other pranks until far into the night.

POLICEMAN HAS BEEN MISSING SINCE 4 P. M. YESTERDAY

Charles H. Blanchard, 40, Started in His Automobile to Investigate Reported Forgery.

Search for Patrolman Charles H. Blanchard, 40 years old, 3015 Gasconade street, of the Magnolia Avenue District, missing since about 4 p. m. yesterday, is being carried on today by brother officers. No reason is advanced by police for his disappearance, though his wife, Mrs. Isabel Blanchard, said today she feared railroad shop strikers may have something to do with his absence.

Blanchard was sent to a drug store at Thirty-ninth and De Tonty streets yesterday afternoon to investigate a reported forgery. He did not reach the store. He drove in his own automobile. It has not been located. He received his salary before he left on his assignment.

He had ben on strike duty at the Frisco roundhouse at Chouteau avenue for four months, but was to have gone on regular duty today. He had been a policeman 15 years.

MOTHER'S SUIT TO FIX BABY'S PATERNITY SET FOR TOMORROW

Sparta Woman Charges St. Louis Accountant Is Father, but Married Another.

The suit of Miss Josephine Gray, 29 years old, of Sparta, Ill., to declare George H. Fields, a public accountant, with offices in the Arcade Building, the legal father of her girl baby, born July 6, 1921, at Sparta, has been set for trial tomorrow before Circuit Judge Hall.

The plaintiff's petition recites the child was born to her out of wedlock and that although Gray is the father he has failed to recognize his parentage and subsequently married another woman.

Fields has filed an answer in which he makes a general denial.

Pecans Gathered in River.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 1.—A car load of pecans, shipped from Mexico to the United States, was dumped into the Rio Grande River yesterday at Laredo, Tex., after it was condemned by the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture as infected. Mexicans from Neuvo Laredo, followed the pecans into the river to gather them. A part of the Mexican pecan crop is being shipped to the United Staes, due to the failure of the Texas crop.

Peonage Case Up Nov. 6.

By the Associated Press.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Nov. 1.—Witnesses have been summoned for the trial of former Gov. Sidney J. Catts, under a Federal indictment of two counts charging peonage. The case has been set for trial Nov. 6.

FOR ARBITRATION UNDER U. R. ORGANIZATION

Union Head Advises Carmen to Insist on Provision When Receivership Ends.

William D. Mahon of Detroit, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, the international union of street car men, and member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, will address two meetings Friday of the local car men's union. He will advise the men that any reorganization of the company, when the receivership ends, should contain a clause providing for arbitration in dealings with the organized employes in matters of wages and working conditions in the event of disagreement.

This will be the first time Mahon has addressed the membership of the local union, which has about 5000 members and is one of the largest in the United States. He is in St. Louis at the invitation of Receiver Wells to attend the opening tonight of the new divisional station at Broadway and Taylor avenue.

"Reorganizations of transit companies throughout the country in the past have ignored the employes, but that day has passed," said Mahon. "Any reorganization of the United Railways must provide for the employes as well as for the investors, and I will so advise the local union in order that the employes may take steps at the proper time to conserve their interests. Any plan leaving them out of consideration as to adjustment of wages and working conditions would fall short of its purpose."

Mahon agrees with Receiver Wells that the only practicable plan for protection of all interests in a reorganization would be one providing service at cost, instead of a fixed fare to continue over a protracted period. Any other plan, he said, ultimately would make trouble either for the investor or the public. Cleveland, he added, has a lower fare than St. Louis and is operated on a service-at-cost plan, the fare fluctuating periodically as costs of operation rise or fall.

Committees representing United Railways financial interests are discussing tentative plans for reorganization of the corporation on the theory that the receivership will end early next year.

PRESS AND PULPIT ARE NOT CO-OPERATING, PUBLISHER SAYS

Owner of Chicago Paper, in Address, Declares They Could Help World to Better Civilization.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Press and pulpit are the two powers that express the soul of a nation and if they can be united they can assume some of the responsibility of helping the world to a better civilization. John C. Shaffer, owner of the Chicago Evening Post, said yesterday in addressing the National Conference on Church Publicity.

There has been very little co-operation between pulpit and press of late, said Shaffer, adding:

"We have no outstanding national man, either in the pulpit or in the press today, who has fallen heir to the mantle of Philip Brooks, John Parker, Dr. Talmage, Henry Ward Beecher, Thomas Guard or Bishop Simpson.

"We have no outstanding editors today. No one seems to have had the good fortune of falling heir to the mantle of Garrison, Greeley, Dana, Joseph Medill, Story, Grady or Col. Watterson.

"Today party politics and partisan papers prevent our Government from taking an important part in righting the wrongs produced by the recent war, or in helping the Governments of Europe in getting back to a normal condition.

"The pulpit and the press must unite on this one proposition: We must not run away from the opportunities of helping the world to get back to normalcy."

MAN WHO HAD RECEIVED THREE THREATENING LETTERS FIRED ON

Two Bullets Strike Doorway as Candy Store Proprietor Enters Home at 822 North Tenth.

Two shots were fired at 10:45 oclock last night at Aris Menas, 50 years old, proprietor of a candy store at 718 Franklin avenue, as he was about to enter his home at 822 North Tenth street.

Both shots missed, but struck the doorway in which Menas stood. They came from a diagonal direction across the street, but it could not be ascertained who fired them.

Menas gave the police a threatening letter he had received demanding $3000. This letter threatened the life of himself and family unless he complied with the request. It was the third such letter he had received. Three Italians were arrested and questioned, but denied knowledge of the shooting or threatening letters.

A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, 6-22-22.
Stearns Electric Paste Co.,

Dear Sirs: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats, so I sold him a box Stearns Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found fifty-four big rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found seventeen more rats, making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find.

This is some big rat tale, but, nevertheless, it is so. Just thought would write to let you know that your rat paste is good.

Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

Our New

Remington No. 12

The Quiet Typewriter

The New Model 12 Remington is the herald of a new era in typewriting.

It is quiet in operation. And it has been made so without the slightest impairment of the speed, ease of operation and dependability which are essential in a first-class writing machine.

This problem of achieving relative silence, combined with the full measure of Remington efficiency, was not solved in a day. The New Model 12 is the product of years of continuous laboratory work by Remington Engineers—the most skilled and experienced in the typewriter world. As a physician listens with his stethoscope, so these engineers listened to every "click," every "hum," every sound produced in the act of typing and experimented with every possible means for transforming noise into silence.

The result is a crowning triumph in typewriter construction; a machine which retains every basic Remington feature, every quality for which the Remington is famous, every distinctive Remington improvement, including the famous self-starter and the equally celebrated "natural touch," and in addition no less than

14 noise-eliminating features

The sum of these improvements is a degree of silence that enables the busy business man to think and work without distraction, even though the machine is also working at his elbow.

The price of this new Model 12 Remington, with "A" carriage is $110—just $7.50 more than the Standard machine, —a $7.50 premium for quiet.

Under conditions where quiet is not essential, we continue to recommend our Standard Correspondence Machine—the Improved Self-Starting Remington—the typewriter that is making "natural touch" famous, the machine that has made automatic indenting an accomplished fact.

Please call and see and listen to the new Remington No. 12 or phone us for a demonstration.

Some of the 14 Noise-Eliminating Features of New No. 12 Remington

A new type of bail which prevents any air chamber between paper and cylinder and takes another "click" out of typewriting.

A new cable anvil, made of finest piano wire, spiraled in two directions. In reality it is a shock absorber for the type mechanism—and it is Quiet.

Even the slight noise caused by the type falling back in the basket has been reduced.

Eight other sound-reducing features complete this great Remington contribution to quiet—and every advantage which quiet confers on a business office.

EDGAR WILLED HALF OF ESTATE TO WIFE AFTER DIVORCE ACTION

Other Half Goes to Grandson; Two Sons to Receive $1 Each by Terms of Testament.

Nearly two months after his wife had sued him for divorce, Selwyn C. Edgar, capitalist, who ended his life last Friday at his home, 4379 Lindell boulevard, made a will in which he referred to her as his "darling wife" and left to her one-half of his estate. The other half goes to a grandson, T. B. Edgar, son of Allen B. Edgar of Cherryvale, Kan.

Edgar left his two sons, Allen and Selwyn C. Jr., one dollar each. The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. is named as executor.

Edgar's wife, Kathryn Shotwell Edgar, filed suit July 31, alleging that Edgar had treated her cruelly and had offered her such other indignities as to render her condition intolerable. Edgar made his will Sept. 20 and ended his life before the divorce suit was tried. At the Coroner's inquest, Selwyn Edgar Jr. testified that he had been contemplating proceedings to have his father adjudged of unsound mind.

Virgil Rule, who was attorney for the elder Edgar, said yesterday he did not believe that Edgar left a valuable estate.

NEW YORK CANDIDATES INSURED

Action by Betting Commissioners for Gubernatorial Contest.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The lives of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Nathan L. Miller have been insured for $20,000 each by a firm of Wall street betting commissioners handling wagers on the New York gubernatorial contest, it is announced.

The policies would protect the firm against loss in handling the wagers in the event of the death of either candidate, which would invalidate these bets.

Send for These Surprising Facts About Sauerkraut

Everywhere, throughout the country, there is a new interest in sauerkraut. For centuries sauerkraut has been a favorite food with millions. Now science has found that it is more than a delicious and healthful food—that it is a natural conditioner and regulator for the entire body. It prevents stomach and intestinal troubles. It is of great value in such serious ailments as diabetes, rheumatism, gout and various skin disorders.

The reason for this is that sauerkraut and sauerkraut juice are rich in lactic acid—the same lactic ferments to which the great scientist, Metchnikoff, attached so much importance in his famous book on "The Prolongation of Life." These lactic acid bacilli are the enemies of disease in stomach and intestines. They keep the entire intestinal tract clean and free from harmful bacteria. They are the best friends mankind has in the battle of life.

You will be interested in knowing all the remarkable facts which science has discovered about the value of sauerkraut as a preventive and corrective of serious ailments. Mail this coupon for a free copy of the new booklet, "Sauerkraut as a Health Food," with new and tested recipes.

The Independent Grocer
His Emergency Aid
NO. 3 OF A SERIES

Aside from selling groceries at an extremely small net profit to himself, which government reports show do not average more than $1.25 a month per family buying $50 a month, the independent retail grocer performs other accommodations of a highly serviceable nature rendered only by his kind. These are usually emergency cases when all other avenues of help are closed, and when assistance is needed most. They are extended without costing the housewife a cent and their character takes a wide range.

A customer gets a telegram telling of serious illness or death in the family in some other city. A hurried trip is necessary. The banks are closed, or perhaps the housewife has no bank account. The family grocer is usually sought and he finances the trip. Thus she is enabled to be present at the deathbed of a mother or father and to attend the last rites.

It frequently happens that a housewife overlooked paying her gas or telephone bill. Notice is served that service will be cut off unless paid that day. The husband is at work and the good housewife finds her purse too slim to meet the requirements. Straight to the neighborhood independent grocer she goes, the trouble is quickly adjusted and a hot dinner is ready when the breadwinner comes home.

At times the husband wants to reach his wife because he has to work later than usual or for some other cause. They have no telephone in the house. But the independent grocer nearest his home is glad to call Mrs. Jones to the store or convey the message to her. It happens, too, that something has been forgotten just at meal time. Mrs. Jones steps to the telephone, orders a loaf of bread, it is delivered in a jiffy, the meal is served, yet the independent grocer may have paid some boy five cents for a special hurry-up trip to meet this situation.

Numerous other little things come up in almost every household requiring attention on the spur of the moment where the independent grocer is the only kind of food retailer in a position to meet the requirements of the housewife. He is, therefore, a decided help in times of emergency.

These additional courtesies which he alone shows should not be overlooked in measuring what he does for the convenience of a community aside from his readiness to serve food at reasonable prices.

DEMOCRATS IN FUTILE CAMPAIGN, SAYS HUGHES

Present Administration Has Executed Desires of People, Secretary Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 1.—Declaring that in the present campaign the Democratic leaders are waging a "futile controversy with no promise of achievement," Secretary of State Hughes asked the voters of the country in an address here last night to uphold the hands of President Harding by returning to office those who have helped to write the administration's record of accomplishments.

In every field, foreign and domestic, Hughes said, the administration officials had correctly interpreted and carried into effect the desires of the American people.

"And as we pay our just tribute of appreciation and esteem to the leadership of the President," he continued, "so we invite confidence in those who have faithfully worked with him and made success possible."

New Jersey Senator Praised.

The secretary praised in particular Senator Frelinghuysen, who is seeking re-election in New Jersey, and declared the Senator's "experience in affairs, indefatigability and intimate knowledge of what American prosperity demands has been of the greatest aid to the administration."

"When this administration came into power," said Hughes, "everyone was talking of the difficulty, if not the impossibility of its tasks.

"It saddened our friends of the opposing party to think of what we could not do. But we have gone forward so successfully and swiftly with one accomplishment after another that our opponents are compelled to resort to false issues which cannot serve them. In every position they take, you will observe that they seek a futile controversy with no promise of achievement; the administration has sought achievement with a minimum of controversy.

Business and Employment.

"You wanted the revival of business. You have it. Instead of operating at less than 60 per cent of capacity, industry is now operating at about 90 per cent of capacity, which means the top level of useful work, at an enormous gain.

"You wanted employment. A year and a half ago we had about 5,000,000 unemployed. Now we have no problem of unemployment. The serious question confronting business, industry and agriculture is how to get the necessary labor to meet its needs.

"You wanted reduction in taxes. Congress has reduced taxes over $800,000,000, reductions which have benefited everyone.

"You wanted a reduction in the enormous debt which had been accumulated during and after the war. The debt has been reduced by over $1,000,000,000.

"You wanted economy in government. For the year ending June 30, 1920, our public expenditures aggregated $6,403,343,000; a year later $5,115,920,000; for the fiscal year 1922 $3,373,607,000.

For Protective Tariff.

"You wanted protection for American industry. You have it. This country has never been willing to abandon the protective policy.

"You wanted an American policy in foreign affairs. You desired adequate protection of American interests abroad; freedom from being enmeshed in European policies and rivalries, into which we ought never to be drawn; you wished a candid and direct diplomacy which did not promise what it could not perform and did not threaten where it did not intend to execute. This you have had.

"You wanted peace. The commercial interests of the country depended upon peace, and we made peace, without sacrificing our interests or detracting from the interests of those with whom we had been associated in the war.

Stopped Naval Competition.

"We have given the best of our cooperation. In the Far East there is a new atmosphere of mutual respect and confidence instead of suspicion and apprehension. We have stopped the competition in naval armament, bringing the great Powers together in the happiest co-operation that has taken place since the war. In Latin-America we have been constantly endeavoring to facilitate stability and peaceful adustjments. In almost every country American money is being invested to help productive enterprise.

"Thus we are putting our house in order, reducing expenses, stopping wasteful outlays and maintaining sound principles of international intercourse."

PISTOL IN CAKE FOR PRISONER

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 1.—Mildred Ward, Fairbury, Neb., school teacher, was sentenced to not more than 10 years at the Kansas Industrial Farm for Women and immediately paroled when she pleaded guilty to the charge of smuggling a revolver into the Kansas State Prison at Lansing, in District Court yesterday. She was requested to give a bond of $500 and to promise not to violate the laws for two years.

Miss Ward was arrested in August when it was charged that she had smuggled an automatic pistol baked into a cake for "Doc" Ward, an inmate of the prison, in an effort to aid him to escape. Ward gave the scheme away, "squealing" to the prison authorities, supposedly to obtain a parole or pardon. The pistol was found and no prison delivery resulted. Miss Ward, who has been confined in the Leavenworth County Jail, departed for her home in Nebraska after her release.

Zane Grey's New Story

Zane Grey has given to Ladies' Home Journal readers his greatest novel—THE VANISHING AMERICAN. A novel that he has spent ten years in writing, and which he regards as the most vital he has ever written.

It is the story of an American Indian, Nophaie, last of a noble line of redmen, and of the beautiful Marian, from a background of house parties, money and culture.

It is a story of their struggle to untangle the knotted skein of love and life. Of lurking danger, of hot, passionate anger and the sharp crackling of rifle fire.

The old Zane Grey thrill of adventure is here, the vigor of life in the open that made his last Journal serial, The Call of the Cañon, so memorable.

Mr. Grey has laid his novel in the great desert country, which he describes as no one else can. He pictures to us vividly the nobility of the Indian and the cruel way he has been wronged by the white man—the soul of a great race now vanishing from the earth.

Beginning in the November issue of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

To Home Journal Readers: "It is a source of great satisfaction and inspiration to be able to reach the immense Ladies' Home Journal audience with what I regard as my best novel. I would rather publish my stories in The Journal than in any other magazine and the sense of its millions of readers living over again the adventures of my hero and heroine gives me a real thrill. "INFAMOUS AND INSULTING," REED SAYS OF BREWSTER

Senator Grows Vitriolic in Speech Answering Charge of Opponent That He Obstructed the War.

ADDRESS IN TWO SECTIONS LAST NIGHT

Liquor Issue Not Mentioned in Section of City Where Voters Are Largely Opposed to Prohibition.

United States Senator Reed, Democratic nominee for re-election, did not mention his views on prohibition in two speeches last night in the territory south of Chouteau avenue and east of Grand boulevard.

It is this section of St. Louis which politicians say contains a larger percentage of voters opposed to prohibition than any area of equal size in the United States.

It is there, also, that Senator Reed, according to reports, is to receive the votes of thousands of Republicans who believe him to be "wet" and who are said to admire his position on war measures in Congress.

Speech in Two Sections.

The Senator made only one speech last night, but it was delivered in two sections. The first part, given at St. Louis Turner Hall, 1508 Chouteau avenue, abounded in attacks upon the character and campaign methods of R. R. Brewster, Reed's Republican opponent, and contained a defense of Reed's attitude towards war measures in Congress.

Not since the campaign opened has Reed fired such a broadside upon Brewster. "I intend to mop up with this gentleman tonight and then forget about him," Reed said, launching into his final denunciation.

The second part of his speech at Concordia Turner Hall, Thirteenth and Arsenal streets, dealt almost exclusively with national questions, principally soldiers' bonus and tariff. Both halls were filled.

Almost immediately after beginning his first talk Senator Reed said that he proposed to answer some of the charges which have been made against him by his opponent, whom he characterized as "a machine-made candidate, if there ever was one."

War Charge Answered.

The Senator said that in speeches here Monday night Brewster had charged that Reed had "obstructed the war and because I did I expected to get the German-American vote in St. Louis." Reed said the charge is "an insulting and infamous insinuation."

"That is an insult to every man and woman in whose blood there is a single drop of German blood," Senator Reed added. "The man who asserts that I was ever anything but loyal to my country and my flag is simply an infamous scoundrel.

"I do not have to reply in the face of my official record, but I want to show the character of the man who makes those charges.

"When the President sought authority to arm merchant ships in advance of war, when Congress adjourned before a vote could be taken, I was one of 75 men who signed a round robin notifying the President that we would have voted for the measure had we had an opportunity.

Spoke and Voted for War.

"Then came the declaration of war. You and I and everybody else regretted the necessity of that step. But I spoke for and voted for this war and Brewster knows it.

"Then came the question of the draft. I thought that it would be better if we raised our army by voluntary enlistments. Champ Clark thought so, and there were a lot of others. I did not oppose the draft, except that I proposed an amendment which provided that if an army of desirable size could be enlisted voluntarily during the 90 days it would take to set up the machinery for the draft it should be accepted in place of a draft army.

"When that amendment was voted down, I then voted for the draft. I voted for every man, every gun, every ship, every airplane, every ounce of powder and every shell that was used in the war, and Brewster knows that. And he dare not deny it, as little regard as he has for the truth.

Defends His Loyalty.

"The man who dares to impune my loyalty in this struggle is unworthy of the contempt of decent men. Now, let's look at the other side of it; that German-Americans believe I obstructed the war and for that reason will support me.

"Since the issue has been raised I venture to say that the most remarkable spectacle of the war was the manner in which the citizens of German extraction rallied to the battle cry of the country.

"Brewster is trying to inject false issues into the campaign. It will not succeed. Where these votes are counted it will be discovered that the people of Missouri recognize a shyster and fraud wherever they see him.

Herrin Case Discussed.

"Over at Herrin, Ill., there was a dreadful series of murders in one night. There is not a man or a woman in the nation who did not resent that and I, in common with others, expressed the opinion that those responsible should be brought to justice.

"But when the Republicans put it in their State platform that union labor organizations are infested with lawlessness and must purge themselves, I said that that was an unjust indictment of union labor. As well indict an entire denomination because one minister goes wrong.

"Those West Virginia affairs were awful things, when they placed guns on railroad cars and ran them up and down the valley shooting into men, women and children. But when you look at the vast body of organized labor, with its hundreds of thousands of good men and women who are attending our churches, sending their children to our schools, yes, and sending their loved ones into the army to fight for our country; when you indict that body of men, you unjustly indict a good body of citizens.

"And when I say it I do not justify crime. No one ever heard me justify any crime."

Tariff Statement Ridiculed.

Senator Reed briefly condemned Brewster for his statement earlier in the campaign that he did not know the details of the Fordney-McCumber tariff measure but that he relied upon the word of former Senator Beveridge of Indiana, who said it was a good measure.

"I don't remember anything else this little fellow said," Reed continued. "I'm speaking of him in contemptuous language, for when a man goes over the State making one misstatement after another it's time to brand him as he is."

Beginning his discussion of national issues in the second speech, Reed said: "I really dislike to approach this subject because I like Mr. Harding. He served four years with me in the Senate. He's as amiable a gentleman as ever chased a golf ball through the grass.

"He's so amiable that the big interests have been able to completely encircle him and bind him up and the first he knew about it was when he couldn't get his breath."

Mellon Again Attacked.

Senator Reed charged that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is associtaed with big interests. He said that Mellon is the second richest man in the United States. "This is the man who was put at the head of the fiscal policy of this Government at $12,5000 a year," he added. "There could be but one reason; that he thought he could serve big interests better as Secretary of the Treasury than as a Pittsburg banker."

The Senator declared that Mellon halted passage of the bonus bill when he told Congress there were not sufficient revenues available to pay the bonus and the current expenses and a few days later recommended a plan for reduction of taxes which will aggregate $615,000,000 a year. The reductions principally affect the large corporations and the rich, Senator Reed said. He said that $450,000,000 of the reduction resulted from the repeal of the excess profits tax.

"They took the tax off themselves and then they turned around and put a tax on you, not for the benefit of the Government, but for the benefit of themselves," Senator Reed said, leading to a tariff duscussion.

New Tariff Discussed.

He recited several detailed instances of how, he said, the Republican tariff is increasing the cost of necessities. He said that the tariff will cost every family with an average of five persons from $150 to $500 a year.

The total cost to the consuming public of the tariff increases will be $10,000,000,000, Senator Reed said. He said that this amount would be levied from the public generally for the benefit of a limited number of manufacturers.

The Republican tariff wis gradually result in centralization of wealth in the hands of a few who will seek to dominate the Government, Senator Reed declared. He said the fact that there are now 23 millionaires in the United States Senate indicates to him that money has become tremendously potential in effecting legislation. He cited the Newberry case as an example and criticised Senator Spencer for voting for the resolution to seat Newberry.

The Senator departed early today for Kansas City, where he speaks tonight. It will be his last meeting in Kansas City during the campaign, which he closes Monday night at Joplin. Reed will return to St. Louis for meetings here tomorrow and Friday.

RECORDS OF CANDIDATES FOR EIGHT OFFICES IN ST. LOUIS AND FOR STATE SENATE IN THREE DISTRICTS OF CITY

The City Offices Include Prosecuting Attorney, Circuit Clerk, Clerk of Criminal Courts, Court of Criminal Correction, Collector, License Collector, Recorder of Deeds and Vacancy in Board of Aldermen.

EIGHT local offices, besides judicial and legislative positions, will be filled by St. Louis voters at the election next Tuesday. Nominations for nine such offices were made in the primary Aug. 1, but the Supreme Court last week held that the office of City Assessor is not elective, but appointive, and ruled the candidates for that office off the ballot.

Facts about the Republican and Democratic candidates for these local offices are printed herewith. With these, facts are also printed as to the candidates for the three St. Louis state senatorships, in even-numbered districts, to be filled this year.

Prosecuting Attorney.

REPUBLICAN.

Albert L. Schweitzer, 3411 Connecticut street. Assistant Circuit Attorney, appointed in January, 1921. In charge of warrant office for a year, and since last February has served as prosecutor in Courtroom 12, and has obtained convictions in several robbery and burglary cases. Graduate University of Missouri, 1911; served in navy in war period.

DEMOCRATIC.

Ernest F. Oakley, (incumbent) 4625 McPherson avenue. Graduate Yale Law School; admitted to practice in courts of Connecticut, 1911; practiced in that State and in New York. Elected Justice of the Peace in Connecticut. Entered practice in St. Louis 1914. Appointed Assistant Circuit Attorney under Lawrence McDaniel in 1917. Appointed Prosecuting Attorney by Gov. Gardner, Jan. 1, 1921, to fill vacancy caused by election of Howard Sidener as Circuit Attorney. Nominated in August primary without opposition. Oakley's office has the duty of issuing warrants for violations of the State prohibition law. Warrants have been refused in some cases where the police methods of obtaining evidence were held to be illegal. Oakley recently issued a statement that he believes that "in their present form the prohibition laws can neither be adequately nor successfully enforced, and public policy demands their modification." He expressed a belief that permission of the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine would cause moonshining and bootlegging to disappear.

Circuit Clerk.

REPUBLICAN.

John Schmoll, 3626 Utah place. Former chairman Republican City Committee. Former president Tower Grove Bank; now a director Republic National Bank. Was member Board of Freeholders, which framed present city charter. Succeeded Mayor Kiel as committee chairman and was appointed by Kiel as Director of Public Welfare, with supervision of Hospital Department and Department of Parks and Recreation.

Schmoll in 1920 was chairman of the Missouri delegation at the Republican national convention. After the Lowden campaign fund exposure, Schmoll talked of the need for a party housecleaning, but at Chicago, when the concrete issue was raised, Schmoll voted to re-elect Jacob S. Babler, one of the disbursers of the Lowden money, as national committeeman. In the 1920 primary, Schmoll ran for Sheriff, and for re-election to the committee, and was defeated for both.

Mayor Kiel, on beginning his third-term campaign, announced that, if re-elected, he would not appoint Schmell Director of Public Welfare. Schmoll retaliated by opposing the Mayor in the primary, and supporting Robert Burkham. Kiel was re-elected and shelved Schmoll, but Schmoll has become reconciled with the Mayor, who supported him in the August primary.

DEMOCRATIC.

John J. Manton, 2102 O'Fallon street. Official stenographer in Judge Hochdoerfer's division of the Court of Criminal Correction. Educated in parochial schools and business college; appointed official reporter of the Coroners' office in 1900; elected Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction in 1902; defeated for re-election in 1906. Since that time has done court stenographic work.

Clerk Circuit Court for Criminal Causes.

REPUBLICAN.

Herman Bader (incumbent), 3710A Palm street. Serving his first term. Former member of City Committee, Twenty-first Ward, but did not seek re-election to committee last August. Was aligned with Goldstein's "Courthouse Ring" in 1920 primary, but acted as a harmonizing influence in committee, while standing with Mayor Kiel as a rule. His office, which is not considered a difficult one to handle, has been well conducted. Bader is a former professional baseball player, and has a wide acquaintance.

William F. Glynn, 2201 Cass avenue, is executive secretary of the Democratic City Committee, a position he has held since January, and which he held in 1920 also. Nominated for President of the Board of Aldermen in 1916, but withdrew. He was a teaming contractor for 19 years and was employed in the circulation department of the St. Louis Star for seven years. Secretary of the St. Leo's Building Association from 1906 to 1910. Nominated without opposition.

Clerk, Court of Criminal Correction.

REPUBLICAN.

Ferd I. G. Knittel (incumbent), 3101 Nebraska avenue. Now serving third term in this office; first elected in 1910. Has instituted modern file system for office records, also card index of naturalization records. Has re-covered, assorted and arranged court's records and files, accumulated since its establishment in 1866, to make them available for public use.

DEMOCRATIC.

John E. Clooney, 3003 Park avenue, Deputy United States Marshal. Was Constable in Justice Kleiber's court, from 1910 to 1914. Has been a Deputy Marshal for seven years. Member Democratic City Committee from 1905 to 1921. Nominated without opposition.

City Collector.

REPUBLICAN.

Edmond Koeln (incumbent), 3624 Loughborough avenue. Was elected City Collector in 1909, and has been re-elected twice. Before serving as Collector, was a member of the House of Delegates. Has been a political power in Carondelet and South St. Louis for 20 years. In 1918 election had largest plurality on Republican local ticket. In 1920 leader of house-cleaning forces in fight on the Goldstein "Courthouse ring." Supported Hyde for Governor. In 1921 Koeln supported Robert Burkham for Republican nomination for Mayor against Mayor Kiel. The Mayor, however, supported Koeln in the recent primary, on the ground of Koeln's official record. Koeln won by a large majority over two opponents.

Koeln has prepared a record of his collections in 13 years in office, compared with the 13 years preceding. His figures, totaling $231,875,722.64, show a 66 per cent increase over his predecessors, which includes the natural increase due to growth of population and expansion of business in the 13-year period, and which, Koeln holds, includes also a large increase due to greater efficiency in collection. In the same period, according to Koeln's figures, he returned sprplus commissions to city, State and schools, of $893,592.41 as compared with $368,375.12 by his predecessors. He shows a more than threefold increase in interest on deposits paid to city, State and schools and he figures his cost of collection at $6.01 on $1000, compared with $9.40 by his predecessors. He thus claims a reduction of 36 per cent in relative cost of collection, together with the increase of 66 per cent in collections. During his incumbency, the taxes from dramshops have ceased, and the State income tax has been added to the sources of receipts.

DEMOCRATIC.

Michael C. H. Arendes, 3828 Flad avenue. President Jefferson-Gravois Bank, vice-president Arendes Supply Co., and salesman for the Merrell Drug Co., with which he has been connected for 25 years. Former member of City Council, was member and vice president of the Police Board, under appointment of Gov. Major. Nominated without opposition. Has pledged himself, if elected, not to seek a second term as Collector.

License Collector.

REPUBLICAN.

Oliver G. Chapman (incumbent), 3525 Victor street. Formerly in insurance business; was deputy under License Collector Alt before becoming candidate for collectorship in 1918. Has compiled figures showing that in the four fiscal years of his term he has collected a total of $14,514,121.68, as compared with $7,574,601.13. Some part of this increase is due to the increasing of certain license taxes, and the introduction of the tax on gasoline.

DEMOCRATIC.

Paul J. Hennerich, 3308 Salena street. Formerly in the roofing business. Nominated without opposition.

Recorder of Deeds.

REPUBLICAN.

William L. Tamme, 1621A Market street. Moving picture machine salesman; Alderman Sixth Ward; vice president Board of Aldermen. As chairman of Streets, Sewers and Wharves Committee he favored street widening and opening projects. Unsuccessful candidate for License Collector in 1918.

DEMOCRATIC.

Jesse D. Lukenbill, 3868A Folsom avenue, head of a grocery firm. Member City Committee from 1915 to 1921. President Retail Grocers' Association last two and one-half years, secretary Retail Meat Dealers' Association last 14 years.

Board of Aldermen, 24th Ward.

(Unexpired term.)

REPUBLICAN.

Chauncey J. Krueger, 2328 South King's highway; lawyer. Former Justice of the Peace; elected in 1916 for four-year term as Judge Court of Criminal Correction. He was fought for re-election by the League of Women Voters in 1920, being one of the "three K's" on whom the women concentrated their attack. Was defeated by Anthony Hochdoerfer, Democrat, and was thus one of two Republicans on the local ticket who were beaten in a Republican landslide year. The chief complaints against Krueger as a Judge were regarding laxity in dealings with professional bondsmen. He made the ruling against the city zoning ordinance, which was later upheld by the Missouri Supreme Court in a decision which the city is now seeking to have reversed.

DEMOCRATIC

Henry J. Schleper, 2721 Bennett place; lawyer; former real estate dealer. Nominated without opposition.

State Senator, 30th District.

REPUBLICAN.

William F. Depelheuer (incumbent), 1321 Allen avenue. Master painter; president Mutual Building and Investment Co. Elected in 1918; in last session was chairman of Labor, Commerce, Manufactories and Immigration Committee and Fish and Game Committee, and was member of Committee on State Charitable, Penal and Educational Institutions, and on Municipal Corporations, Railroads and Internal Improvements.

DEMOCRATIC.

Jay Elmer Fox, 1904 Rutger street, is a member of the constitution convention. He has been in the insurance business for the last two years.

State Senator, 32d District.

REPUBLICAN.

William E. Caulfield, 5242 Maple avenue, real estate dealer. Representative Sixth District of St. Louis in the lower house. Was chairman of the Committee on Private Corporations and served on several other committees. Served as chairman of the Eleventh Congressional Committee. Former member City Council.

DEMOCRATIC.

State Senator, 34th District.

REPUBLICAN.

Peter Anderson (incumbent), 2044A Adelaide avenue. Contractor; former city inspector of weights and measures; has served three terms in the Senate, and has been on Committee on Ways and Means, Elections, Children's Code, Banks, Penitentiary and Reform Schools, and accounts. Renominated without opposition.

DEMOCRATIC.

J. T. O'Brien, 4131 Kennerly avenue. Served two terms in the lower house, in 1913 and 1919. Author of the fireman's pension bill, which passed the House in 1919. Was a candidate for the House in 1920. Employed in electrical department of the Kinloch Telephone Co.

DRY AMENDMENT IS ASSAILED BY REED

Senator Tells City Club It Is "Knife in Heart of Fourth," Dealing With Searches.

Congress has become the instrument of breaking down the United States Constitution, United States Senator Reed, Democratic nominee to succeed himself, said yesterday at the City Club luncheon, where he spoke on "The Constitution of the United States." It was a nonpolitical address. R. R. Brewster, Reed's Republican opponent, is scheduled to speak there tomorrow at noon.

"It is a situation full of danger," Senator Reed continued, "when we have on the one hand courts which, properly, place every presumption upon the constitutionality of the laws, and a Congress on the other hand trying its best to avoid the Constitution.

"Let me advise the citizens of the nation to get a different viewpoint toward the Constitution than that which seems to be general of late. It has been pictured as a chain upon the liberties of the people. Yet that never was the purpose and is not the effect of the Constitution.

Most Amendments Disastrous.

"This Constitution is the most perfect instrument ever framed by the hand of man. There has scarcely been a change, since the first 10 amendments, which may almost be considered a part of the document itself, which has not in the end brought disaster.

"There is a great deal of talk about me being a destructive man. They say that I always want to tear down something and never want to build up. I've done a good deal of it, and pray to God that I will live to do a good deal more. If they will just quit tampering with the Constitution for about 30 days, we will have a chance to consider some legislation which would have some sense to it."

Senator Reed condemned Government control of industries. "If there is danger to the public because of a threatened coal famine, some other means of handling the situation can be found than by turning that great industry over to a lot of cheap politicians," he sad.

"What's your Government?" he asked. "The men down there are not above the average intelligence. I believe I could pick up a better Congress right here in this room than we have in Washington. The men who go there for the money that is in the jobs are fellows who couldn't make as much money in their own home town."

Searches and Seizures Discussed.

The Senator's nearest approach to his campaign speeches was a discussion of the fourth amendment, which prohibits unreasonable search and seizures. He said that the violations of it in the enforcement of prohibition are "a knife in the heart of the fourth amendment and a principle that is a thousand years old."

"If the officers can invade your home in search of a bottle of beer, how long will it be before they do it on other pretexts?" he asked. "And you can imagine many things more serious than the possession by an individual of a half-pint bottle of whisky," he added.

Senator Reed was introduced by former Gov. Frederick D. Gardner, who said that Reed has never been a "straddler" or a "quitter," and that he "stands today before the American people as one of the greatest interpreters and defenders of the Constitution."

G. O. P. LEADERS EXPECT MAJORITY IN HOUSE TO DROP FROM 160 TO 40 OR 45

Republicans Figure Party May Have 62 Seats in Senate, However—Democrats Dispute Claims.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Republican leaders here are predicting that the elections of Nov. 7 will give their party firmer control of the Senate, which is now Republican by a majority of 22, and will continue it as the dominant party in the House, but by a majority reduced from more than 160, the present figure, to between 40 and 45.

It is conceded on all hands that many districts captured by the Republicans in the landslide of 1920 will revert to their old political allegiance. The Republican losses, according to the dealled calculations of the prophets, will be more noticeable in Missouri than in any other State. Missouri now has 14 Republicans and two Democrats in the House. The election is expected to change this lineup to six Republicans and 10 Democrats.

Next to Missouri it is expected that the greatest upset will occur in Ohio, which now has a solid Republican delegation of 22. Reliable forecasts place the Republican loss in that State at eight members.

Pennsylvania is expected to send 28 Republicans and eight Democrats to the House instead of 35 Republicans and one Democrat, as at present. Allowance is also being made for the loss of seven seats by the Republicans in New York, which would make the delegation 26 Republicans, 16 Democrats and one Socialist, instead of 33 Republicans, nine Democrats and one Socialist.

Table of Forecasts.

Alabama	..	10	..	10
Arizona	..	1	..	1
Arkansas	..	7	..	7
California	9	2	9	2

Washington	5	..	5	..
W. Virginia	6	..	5	1
Wisconsin	11	..	11	..
Wyoming	1	..	1	..

The latest classification of the members of the present House shows 298 Republicans, 131 Democrats, one Socialist and five vacancies—a Republican majority over all, including vacancies, of 161. If the foregoing table turns out to be correct, there will be 237 Republicans, 197 Democrats and one Socialist—a majority of Republicans over Democrats of 40.

In the Senate there are now 59 Republicans and 37 Democrats. Thirty-four seats are at stake in the November elections. The Republican seats for which the Democrats are most actively contesting are those representing Connecticut, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota and West Virginia. The best prospects for Democratic victories, according to the Republican calculators heretofore quoted, are in Connecticut, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia. They concede a likelihood that the Democrats will win in two of these states.

In nine states—Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming—the Republicans are fighting for seats now held by Democrats. Their best chances, apparently, are in Montana, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming. Should they carry these five states, they will have five gains to set off against the two probable losses. In that event the line-up in the Senate would be 62 Republicans and 34 Democrats, a Republican majority of 28 as compared with the present 22.

Democrats Dispute Claims.

The Republican claims are vigorously disputed by Democratic campaign managers, who assert that the Democrats will gain control of the House and lessen the Republican majority in the Senate.

The following forecast was made today by Representative Williar. A. Oldfield of Arkansas, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Congressional Committee:

"Every indication is for a Democratic victory on Nov. 7. The Democrats will make substantial gains in the Senate. While here and there Democratic Senators who are candidates for re-election have to make a fight to win, none is in jeopardy, and many other Democratic senatorial candidates apparently are certain of victory.

"Although the Republicans make a pretense of confidence by claiming the House by a small majority, they have no sound information upon which to base their claims, and as a matter of fact every time they revise their claims, they revise them downward.

"Panic Throughout Ranks."

"There is a panicky feeling throughout the Republican organization. In whatever direction they turn they find dissention in their ranks. And they lack the means of bringing the dissenters into line.

"In Ohio, the Republicans realize they are beaten, and there is nothing they can do to prevent it. They have used up all their resources in that State, both in the way of money and orators. The Cabinet members they have sent there, according to the reports of unbiasted press representatives, have done more harm than good. They have only Secretary Hughes left to draw on for campaign oratory in the President's home State, and everyone knows that Secretary Hughes was the attorney for Senator Newberry and has given him a legal coat of whitewash."

SHUPP ADDRESSES QUESTIONS TO REED

The charge that United States Senator Reed, Democratic nominee to succeed himself, is making attacks against heads of the Anti-Saloon League "to divert the minds of wet voters from the question of what he intends to do for them if re-elected" was made today by Dr. W. C. Shupp, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri.

Dr. Shupp addressed two open questions to Senator Reed, as folsow:

Jim Reed, what have you promised to do for the fellows who want beer with a kick in it?

Have you promised the wets to introduce a proposed amendment to repeal the eighteenth amendment?

Dr. Shupp replied to charges made by Reed that William Sacks, who sought the Republican senatorial nomination on a light wine and beer platform, had granted the Anti-Saloon League quarters in the Victoria Building, which he owns, free of rent. He said the league sought a reduction in rent, which was refused, but that Sacks, in lieu of the reduction, suggested that collection of the rent be waived for several months.

Answering the charge that he borrowed money from the International Life Insurance Co., of which Jacob L. Babler is vice president, Dr. Shupp said this is merely a business proposition. The charges were made by Reed and answered by Dr. Shupp in the primary campaign.

Reed Explains His Vote Against Suffrage to Women.

Senator Reed explained why he did not vote for women's suffrage, in a speech yesterday afternoon at Hotel Jefferson before the women's division of the Reed-for-Senator Club. He said he had two reasons:

1. That he did not feel women would fit into politics, that the rough and tumble of politics might be a little too hard for them.
2. Because he believed suffrage was a matter which should be entirely under control of the state governments.

"Some say that I shall be defeated because I opposed women's suffrage," Senator Reed said. "Well, if I am to be punished like a little child for something I have done I'd rather the punishment should come from the dimpled hands of beauty than the rough knuckles of brutal men."

W. P. G. Harding Going to Cuba.

DRYS EMBARRASS BREWSTER DURING PLEAS TO GERMANS

Fear Felt Attack on Reed May Alienate Some Voters Who Had Been Won Back.

MEETINGS IN TWO WET COUNTIES

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Mo., Nov. 1.—However welcome to the Republican State organization is the support of R. R. Brewster, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, by the organized drys of the State, the activities of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League in the closing days of the campaign when the big drive to win back the German Republican vote for Brewster is on, is causing the organization much embarrassment.

Although the Republican leaders have known since the beginning of the campaign that a very considerable portion of the German vote in St. Louis, and the dozen or so of so-called German counties, ordinarily a Republican vote, would go to Senator Reed, it has been only within the last two weeks that a determined effort has been exerted to line up that element of the party for Brewster.

Republicans of German birth or descent have been sent into all the counties having large German populations to attempt to win over the local leaders, and to get them at work in the communities in which they were supposed to have influence.

Brewster prepared for St. Louis delivery and in Gasconade and Franklin counties, a speech of fulsome praise for the American citizen of German birth, and the word began being noised about that conditions were getting much better for Brewster among the German voters than they had been.

It even looked for a few days as if the work of the organization was accomplishing its purpose to some extent, but today there appears to be something of a recession of those supposedly won over, and the talk here and in Hermann, Gasconade County, is that the support of Brewster by the Anti-Saloon League and its opposition to Reed is the cause.

Powerful Factor in Situation.

These counties in which the drive to get back the Republican votes is in progress are wet counties, the wettest in the State, and while the question of the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act may not be the controlling influence in the strong Reed strength among Republicans, it is a very powerful factor in the situation.

Brewster in speeches in Hermann and Washington, though appealing for the wet votes, did not recede in any degree from the speech in the dry counties, a speech pledging himself to law enforcement, and stating particularly that that included the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. He placed more stress on the Fourth Amendment, the one guaranteeing citizens from unlawful search and seizure, and declared that he "would shoot down any man who invaded his home without a warrant." These declarations were applauded and possibly would have had considerable effect on the audience if his hearers only a few hours before his speeches had not read the Anti-Saloon League indorsement of Brewster and denunciation of Reed.

Whatever may be the standing of the Anti-Saloon League in some counties in the State, it is not at all popular in Franklin, Gasconade, Ste. Genevieve, Warren and others of the so-called German counties. Support of a candidate by the Anti-Saloon League will drive away from that candidate large numbers of votes which he otherwise would receive.

View of German Republican.

One conservative Republican of German descent, living in Hermann, said he was confident the Anti-Saloon League support of Brewster would cost him fully as many votes in Gasconade County as his speech would win back for him. It is estimated in Hermann that fully 1000 Republicans will scratch Brewster and vote for Reed. The estimate in Franklin County, which is much larger than Gasconade, is that approximately 1500 Republicans will vote for Reed.

It is probable that these figures are exaggerations, just as the figures given by anti-Reed Democrats of the number of Democrats who will vote for Brewster are probably exaggerations, but the number will be very large.

Brewster's audiences yesterday were small, about 150 in Hermann and about 250 in Washington. The Washington audience, however, went to the hall through a driving rain, indicating that there was consider-

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

A Few Things About Reed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WE cannot conscientiously vote for Senator Reed because we do not indorse his party infidelity and war record. We love our historic and illustrious party too much to connive at his gross party irregularities and treacherous tactics. Any man who has, directly or indirectly, contributed to the defeat of his party (particularly in a presidential election) cannot be esteemed a true member of such party. We feel impelled to bolt every convicted bolter of our party lest we be considered an accessory after the fact. And we shall not discriminate in favor of Senator Reed, albeit he formerly was our political idol.

Is Mr. Reed consistently inconsistent or is he on certain occasions the victim of remorse and a chicken-hearted disposition? For instance, he cruelly lambasted and lampooned President Wilson in health and in sickness, but recently condescended to proffer his profound sympathy to that prince of prosperity, progress and peace. Many fine people insist that this was done purely for political expediency, and that he still has a heart of adamant toward the sick gentleman from the White House. Again, Mr. Reed excoriated one Herbert Hoover when President Wilson nominated Mr. Hoover for Food Administrator, but subsequently relented and mitigated his attitude so completely that he voted to confirm the nomination of that renowned patriot, humanitarian and statesman as a member of President Harding's Cabinet.

Senator Reed also fought woman's suffrage, but now for some reason congratulates them on their new political prerogative and even eloquently intimates that he would heartily appreciate their votes.

Dark Future in Groceries.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN regard to the argument concerning the independent grocers fighting the chain stores, I am for chain stores or any other that will give us the best price on foodstuffs. But, suppose the chain stores secure a monopoly on the retail grocery trade, and then, when they have the independent grocers all down and out, raise the prices higher than before? It stands to reason. The chain stores are all right as long as they have stiff competition, but when they get things their own way the dear public will have to pay.

LIVE AND LET LIVE.

The Graduate Nurse Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SENATE bill No. 380, now a law for the last year, is a menace to the public, bringing about a monopoly to the Graduate Nurses' Association. This bill was fostered, urged, insisted and adopted through the cunning intrigue of the so-called small group of graduate nurses. This law has arbitrarily classed all intelligent and efficient undergraduate and practical nurses as "licensed attendants" and compelled them to pay to this board of five graduate nurses a fee of $10 for a license before they are permitted to practice in this State. Any undergraduate and practical nurse who failed to apply for a license before Jan. 1, 1922, has been forced out of the field entirely for a period of nine months.

Do you know who the five are? They are the five nurses who have been appointed under provisions of this bill by the Governor, at a salary of $10 per day to designate "who shall be a nurse," and there is not a doctor on this board. Many of the undergraduate and practical nurses have been dismissed from the various hospitals, where they have been employed for some time, including some of our city institutions, thus denying these women a livelihood and in turn, their places are being filled by women who have been forced out through the operations of this new law, for the purpose of taking this nine months (prescribed course) and who are compensated on a basis of from $8 to $10 per month for their services.

This method was adopted by this board of five, merely to influence the college women to enter hospitals, thus assisting them to further their studies without the dirty work, through the efforts of the poor victim—the practical nurse. When you are sick do you require a highly trained college technician or the sympathetic understanding of the practical nurses?

ANN C. MAGUIRE,
President of the Missouri Undergraduate Nurses' Association.

Save What?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHAT is the matter with St. Louis? Why can't a man make a decent salary? I have been away for three years. When I left wages were considerably more than they are now. And expenses were less, especially rent. How can a married man with three children get along on $20 a week? They all give you fine advice to save. By the time you pay rent, living expenses, insurance, gas, coal, furniture and clothes, where is there any left to save?

L. W.

THE FIRST MONTH OF IT.

The first month of the Fordney-McCumber tariff's operation was reported in considerable detail in the Post-Dispatch yesterday. Prices have advanced substantially on pork, butter, eggs, sugar, cotton—the daily necessaries of life. Prices also have advanced on steel, iron, aluminum and ferromanganese. Leather and cotton gloves have gone up. Cloth for men's clothing has been increased 40 cents a yard by the American Woolen Co., one of the new law's biggest beneficiaries. Silks, taffetas, ribbons and other fabrics of feminine apparel cost much more now than they did a month ago.

This plain recital of the law's effects confirms the experience of the ultimate consumer. One can hardly go into any shop of any kind today without being warned by the salesman to buy now because the price is bound to go up on account of the new tariff. In many instances the price has already gone up, but further advances are predicted. To a certain extent this sort of persuasion may be the strategy of salesmanship, but, mostly, it is the plain, forbidding truth.

Is there a counterbalancing story—an offset by which the tariff barons may justify their plundering? Has the new tariff increased wages in those excessively protected industries? No report to that effect has come from former Senator Lippett's Rhode Island mills; nor from the New York glove factories of former Congressman Littauer. Possibly a tactical wage increase will be granted here and there, but it is by no means certain that the bourbons will have either the grace or common sense to do even that much. In the arithmetic of their 100 per cent American avarice there is no such word as division.

Meantime the prospect of continual higher price altitudes means for the American consumer not only a winter of discontent but, in many strata, a winter of despair. And the American middleman—from merchant prince to the little neighborhood storekeeper—is being driven head-on to a ruinous buyers' strike. The "tariff abominations," of which the first month is a sinister sample, is loaded with disaster.

THE DESCENT OF HUGHES.

The New York World aptly dubs Secretary Hughes the attorney of the Harding administration and the messenger boy of the Old Guard.

It must be admitted that Mr. Hughes is earning these titles. His speech in Boston eulogizing Lodge, indorsing every act of the administration and repudiating himself on the subject of the League of Nations, evading all the real issues on that question to defend the administration, and in general yielding every personal conviction to party interest showed how far he is willing to go as the administration's laundryman. It is the logical sequence of his indorsement of Newberry and Newberryism, because the seating and whitewashing of Newberry were necessary to the organization of the Senate against Mr. Wilson and his peace program.

How have the mighty fallen! From the champion of reform, the hope of liberal and conscientious statesmanship and Justice of the Supreme Court to the subservient mouthpiece of conscienceless partisan politics.

UNLIMITED IMMIGRATION AGAIN?

The official report of the Labor Department on employment conditions says the shortage of common labor is almost universal, that there is a general demand also for skilled labor and that there are almost no idle men seeking work. This is encouraging if true, but while trade with Europe is still at a low ebb, to what may we attribute so general a domestic prosperity if such there be?

A combination of causes is apparent to the most casual observer. Building activity to catch up with a shortage developed by a stagnation of four years is in full swing. The marketing of the year's crops always stimulates trade and employment. The mines and railroad shops are feverishly striving to supply the want created by the two big strikes, and the railroads are straining to meet accumulated transportation demands.

There is another factor, however, of which labor is conscious and with regard to which it accuses employing interests of being perniciously active. This is immigration restriction. The quota law has done its damage in the separation of families and the dashing of innocent hopes. But it has kept out a flood of migration while industry has had time to take up the slack of an overstocked labor market. The National Nonpartisan Political Campaign Committee of the American Federation of Labor now charges that "reactionary leaders in the present Congress already have shown signs of giving way to the demands of powerful employing interests" to let down the immigration bars.

If such an attempt is to be made labor will have just cause for protest, far more just than that of the interests which insist on a high tariff to bar out alien goods. Labor will be supported in its opposition by groups which are taking a new interest in safeguarding American institutions. In the light of recent conclusions of science is it not time for a profound consideration of the consequences of unlimited immigration?

REAL AND FALSE COMPENSATION.

Propositions 11 and 18 on the official constitutional ballot will be the subject of endless confusion and error in voting if voters do not become informed in advance of the nature and mutual relation of the two propositions. Proposition 11 submits to popular vote the workmen's compensation law already passed by the Legislature but held up by petition of its opponents.

This is the measure on which organized workers and employers are agreed and which was passed by the Legislature after the efforts of years. It is indorsed by the Missouri Federation of Labor and by the Employers' Association of Missouri. One of the speakers at a Bar Association meeting in St. Louis Monday night stated that Missouri industries last year paid $6,000,000 in personal injury claims, from which the persons injured received only $1,500,000. The remainder went to lawyers and other expenses of litigation. Under the compensation bill, said this speaker, all of the $6,000,000 would have gone to the injured.

Since labor is satisfied and employers apparently acquiesce in proposition 11, or the workmen's compensation law, as the most expeditious means of settling the class of contentions concerned, the source of proposition 18, though obscure, is credited, even by the ethical legal profession itself, to damage-suit lawyers, who propose themselves to carry off the bulk of damages awarded in personal injury cases, which may mount to enormous sums. Although there were defenders of proposition 18 at the meeting of the Bar Association Monday night there was not a dissenting vote to the resolution condemning the proposed initiative law.

The point of crucial importance for the electorate to remember, however, is that if proposition 18 receives a majority vote it will repeal proposition 11, the workmen's compensation act, whether that act receives a majority vote or not. Thus proposition 18 enjoys a special political advantage over proposition 11. The friends of workmen's compensation must make a special educative effort to make this fact clear to voters else this measure in behalf both of workers and employers will be lost to the professional damage-suit interest.

MEANINGLESS CHATTER.

Both Senator Reed and Mr. Brewster have poured out rivers of talk about prohibition; they have accused each other of being dry in the country and wet in the city; they have accused each other of dodging and deception; they have talked about changing the alcoholic content, but strictly within the limit of nonintoxication, which suggests scentless perfume and tasteless candy. Who cares about the alcoholic percentage of nonintoxicating beverages?

They have talked about modification of the Volstead act with regard to search and seizure, which has no more relation to prohibition than the question of methods of procedure under any law.

Neither Senator Reed nor Mr. Brewster has answered the one important question:

Are you in principle for or against prohibition?

Both have professed to be bound by the eighteenth amendment, but neither has said whether or not he would vote for its repeal.

"WE, THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES."

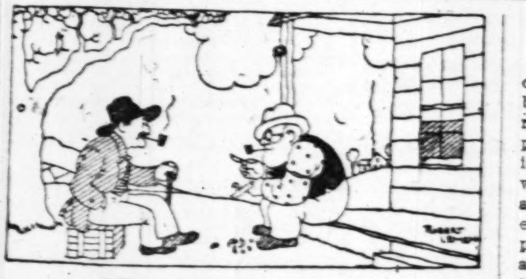
SHOOTING AS HE FLIES.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McAdams



MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"IT has fortunately never been charged that there is anything partisan about the United States Supreme Court, but we are nevertheless disquieted to learn that of late the Court has consisted of seven Republicans and two Democrats," Mr. Antwine said.

"It is unlikely that any of these gentlemen has voted as a Republican or Democrat. Of course not. None the less, when we get down to our court of last resort, would you say that we ought or ought not to give ourselves the benefit of such differences as there may be between the two theories of government represented by the major parties?

"I think we should by all means do so. For all our dissimulation in the matter, there is a very important difference in the two theories of government. It is pretty well illustrated by the increase of $7 in an average suit of clothes since the new tariff law went into effect. It goes deeper than that, but at a time when so few of us have it $7 serves admirably.

"Mr. Harding has an opportunity to reassure us as to the nonpartisanship of the Court. There have been two resignations within the last few weeks, and two other members of the Court are said to be virtually unable to continue their duties by reason of illness and age. Whether Mr. Harding will care to restore the former political balance of the court to some degree would be difficult to say. Let us hope so. He has not been partisan beyond certain necessities, and we possibly can look to him to put a better face upon this important matter.

"You will as like as not say it can't matter very much whether he does this or not, but it does make a difference. There is always before the Supreme Court something related to government for the people. Not a few people think the decisions of the Court have long ago violated this tradition. The feeling that the states, which were the safeguards of free government, have got the worst of it in the Supreme Court is by this time so widespread that we have almost a revolt against our growing centralization.

"The discovery that we have had a Supreme Court administered by seven Republicans and two Democrats shows how little we know most of the time about how we are governed. I did not know about it, and I doubt if many people did. I know I slept peacefully for years when, had my consciousness been able to focus the two solitary Democrats on the Supreme Bench, representing, as they must, what is left of government for the people, I would have been sitting bolt upright in bed worrying about the way we are going.

"I suppose we could make the Republicans realize how terrible the situation has been by asking them how they would have liked it had the Court consisted of seven Democrats and two Republicans!" Mr. Antwine said.

Maybe the puzzling matter of how Europe can repay us the money we let her have during the war could be got at better by having the President ask all of us to consider it in relation to our own debts. It is presumed that everybody is eager to pay his own debts, too; but at the time most people are exactly where Europe is. It is just possible that there is someone who has paid his debts. If so, we ought to know, Mr. Harding ought to know and Europe ought to know how he did it.

Dear Just a Minute:
Why is a police parade? A. W. X.

We don't know. We have looked at them curiously for several years, but we have never been able to say why there is ever a police parade. We began with the assumption that the parade was given for the purpose of intimidating criminals with a show of police strength. It was only after criminals had proved themselves anything but intimidated that we realized our error. Somebody once suggested to us that the police parade is held for the purpose of enabling policemen to see parts of the city not on their beats as well as to enable those parts of the city to see them. We enjoyed this, but did not believe it. Life is neither so kind as that nor so gratifying. It occurred to us some years ago that the police parade possibly had as its objective showing the police to one another in order that those less tidy and ornate might be shamed by sight of those whose appearance is a source of pride to the community. We were encouraged in this theory by observing that in the course of the parade the police engaged in maneuvers which seemed to have as their design bringing parts of the parade under the scrutiny of other parts. We only abandoned this idea when we failed to discern any difference in parts of the parade obviously brought together at great evolutionary pains. We recall seeing two squads, if they are so called, taken through measures worthy of a grand opera ballet when there was nothing about a cop in either bunch of which the most exacting stickler for police fashions could have complained. The last notion we have entertained is that the police, by having a parade and winning the huzzahs of the populace, probably hope to stir the pride of criminals so far as to induce all evildoers to give a counter parade. In that case, of course, the police could probably capture all the criminals at once; but we doubt if it would work. What do you think?

(Rig-Veda, VII, 77.)

She comes, she comes!—the high-born Dawn,
Mother of the brilliant Morn,
Leader of the day. Moving everywhere,
Plying her wings, she wafts on the air
East;
She shines like a young wife at a feast,
Wearing a brilliant garment, and her light
Puts demons of darkness to flight,
And the shadows flee away
At the coming of her searching ray.
Come forth, O men! and magnify
The glorious daughter of the sky
With praises and singing.

She comes, and the flame of her torch,
Rose-hued, burns up the stars.
Her, the mighty Dawn, no bars
Of enemies can confine;
Still she continues to shine,
Leading the white steed of the sun,
Scattering roses, lovely to behold,
Brighter and more beautiful than gold.

Shine for us with thy best rays,
O bright Dawn! giver of charmed days,
Giver of wealth in cows and horses,
Giver of health and availing forces.
Give us riches high and wide
As thine own light whose tide
Surges o'er the eastern hills.
Come forth, O men! and magnify
The glorious daughter of the sky
With praises and singing.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

ENGLAND'S NEW PREMIER.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

THE worst of it is that at bottom the man who is commonplace, and knows it, wants men of different caliber to represent him in high places. It is the labor party in Great Britain that has set out to monopolize the intelligentsia, and for Mr. Bonar Law and the Unionists to pose as the representatives of the common people is political hokum and not very effective hokum at that. The right course for the commonplace man in politics to pursue is to try to keep the common people from finding out how commonplace he really is, some of our own Main Streeters to the contrary notwithstanding. * * * Is Great Britain's new Premier a Main Streeter? One of his first statements after assuming his new duties would seem to indicate that he is of that humble persuasion or regards it worth while to assume a degree of humility. His declaration: "I am a commonplace man and understand what commonplace men think," is, however, somewhat contradictory. The man who understands what commonplace men think, is not, as a rule, so utterly commonplace. Mr. Bonar Law has gone too far in British politics to make capital out of the fact, if it be a fact, that he is a commonplace man. A commonplacer would be out of place as head of the Unionist party. The Conservatives rather pride themselves on being a little above the commonplace. Otherwise there is no point to the emphasis placed upon classes in England. There have been great commoners in England to be sure, but only demagogues attempt to capitalize this sort of humility.

HARVEY AND MOSES.

From the San Francisco Bulletin.

AMBASSADOR GEORGE HARVEY, always the sensationalist and sometimes the unconscious humorist, has made the discovery that the Ten Commandments do not apply to women and should be revised to conform with modern requirements. The spectacle of Harvey reproving Moses as "a lady-killer who classed wives with slaves and beasts of burden," is amusing in a labored sort of way, but when it comes to an unconscious comedian criticising the Ten Commandments it is getting dangerously near to irreverent impiety and he may find that it was easier to get away with his insult to the American nation when misrepresenting its reasons for entering the war than it is to attack the belief in the divine message contained in the Commandments. Now all the denominations that believe in the Bible as an inspired book, and in Moses as the agent of a divine message, may unite in an appeal for the recall that might have been made more conveniently when it first became evident that George Harvey represents the people of the United States on practically nothing.

OUR TENURE IN HAITI.

From the Nation.

THE announcement of the $16,000,000 Republic of Haiti loan flotation by the National City Company—part of an authorized $40,000,000—marks a tragic station in Haiti's long Calvary. Here is a debt illegally forced on a helpless people, serving no legitimate economic need of the Haitians, imposing a burden beyond their capacity to pay, and designed to strengthen the strangle-hold which our financial interests, with the aid of the American navy, have gained in that formerly independent republic. * * * We shall hear it piously said, "Of course, we cannot withdraw now, for there is the obligation to the bondholders." Well, the prospective bondholders, and the bankers, and the administration at Washington, have been amply warned. For the past year even the most rigorous martial law, arrests, imprisonment, heavy fines have been unable to stop the widespread demonstrations against the loan in Haiti. Haitian newspapers have reiterated that if the loan were imposed it would be imposed by duress against the will of the entire Haitian people who would repudiate it if they were given an instant of liberty. Not a shadow of legality justifies our tenure in Haiti.

WAR OF ANTS FEATURES "WORLD WE LIVE IN"

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
Drama Critic of the New York Morning World.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—"The World We Live In" is a play of large intent, which is interesting, striking and sometimes dramatically effective. It tries to crowd an interpretation of the universe within the walls of the playhouse, and even Al Jolson's Theater is not quite big enough. On the stage where violets rained to Jolson's black-face melodies, the meaning of existence is now being discussed. The caperers have given place to the Capeks.

The discrepancy is not always as great as it sounds. The first act, which concerns the life of the butterflies, is much in the vein of popular musical comedy. By making their lovely ladies mere insects, the dramatists are able to frisk about with lines and situations which might well make a winter garden chorus blush. This particular act is heavy-handed.

But before the evening is done the Capeks manage to attain one good act and another which is tremendous. They show us what man is by selecting disturbing analogies from the life of the insects. The third act, which gives us two ant hills at war, is magnificently imaginative and brings to the theater the most savage and searching attack on war that the writer has seen. Multitudes march, whipped on by flaming patriotism and prayers to God. Both sides pray with equal fervor. But none of this seemed to bother the first-night audience. They took it that the Capeks were merely speaking of the Germans.

Ant Act Best of Play.

Nothing in the rest of the play is half so fine as the ant act. But perhaps this is imposing a severe standard since this particular portion of the play seems to be one of the loftiest achievements of the theater. There are poignant flashes of satire in the act about the beetles. Indeed, when it comes to satire the Capeks show a disposition to give and give until it hurts.

Epilogues appear to be a national failing in Czecho-Slovakia and the one in which this play simmers to an end is little better than that of R. U. R., which is also from the Capek workshop. Its effect of mistiness is heightened by coming after the blazing clarity of the ant act.

Lee Simonson has mounted the play in telling fashion and the extremely intricate and difficult job of staging the piece has been well carried out by William A. Brady and his director, John Cronwell. The only fault we could find was with the vocal quality of some of the performances. We have never heard butterflies make such noises. Owen Davis has made the adaptation.

Individuals Not Outstanding.

It is not the sort of play in which the individual performer stands out. Robert Edeson is effective as the man who moves through the insect world with seeing eyes and there are good performances by N. St. Clair Hill, Kenneth MacKenna and Jasper Deeter. Louis Untermyer, who appeared on the program under the Slovakian disguise of Luis Untermeier, has contributed some amusing parodies for the butterfly act.

"The World We Live In" is always unusual. That does not prevent some of it from dragging, but it adds a poignancy to its inspired moments. For here the play is not only good but in the manner of no other drama. This is heroic satire. The play marks a tremendous try and if it falls a little short of its purpose one need only look at the height which it has attempted.

"THUMB BOX" EXHIBIT OF LOCAL ARTISTS AT ART MUSEUM

Eighth Annual Display a Feature of Five for November, Four of Which Open Today.

A feature of the four art exhibitions, opening today at the St. Louis Art Museum in Forest Park, is the eighth annual "thumb box" exhibit of local artists under the auspices of the St. Louis Art League. In all, there will be five exhibits at the museum during November.

The exhibition of local artists, including many excellent works in paintings, sculptures, batiks, pottery and photography, is in galleries 25, 26 and 27, in the corner of the first floor to the right of the main room. More than 200 pieces in all are shown representing the works of some two dozen St. Louis artists.

Two of the more prominent artists demonstrating exceptional individuality in their works on display are Mrs. Gisella Loeffler, who has a unique style in depicting persons, singly or in groups, with an attractive combination of appealing colors, and Mrs. Mildred Bailey Carpenter, whose art also stands out for its individuality of conception and design, although it is entirely different in presentation.

The other exhibits are: Etchings by Troy Kinney, wood engravings by Rudolph Ruzicka, and litho-etchings by the Senefelder Club of London.

Riverview Club Election.

The Riverview Club last night elected Charles P. Van Graafeiland of 9 Southmoor place to his fifth year as president. Dr. A. G. Enderle was elected vice president, Dr. F. A. Van Hoefen, secretary, and M. W. Muntzel, treasurer. Records were read at the meeting showing that the assets of the club have increased $150,000 in the five years and a swimming pool, a golf course, locker rooms and dressing rooms have been added to its facilities.

Social Items

The second dance of the Box Tree Club will be the attraction in the social world tonight. These dances, under the auspices of the Junior League, are held every Wednesday at the Chase Hotel. The following are some of the guests who have made reservations and will entertain guests: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Nugent, Mr. and Mrs. Firmin Desloge, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Botter, Mr. and Mrs. Merrell P. Walbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adreon, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sleishel, Miss Martha Pittman, William Edwin Guy and Harry Howard. Miss Pittman, since her summer's visit in Kennebuckport, Me., has been residing at the Chase.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Pauline E. Huber, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Huber, and Hugh H. Shields, Oct. 18, at 4 o'clock, in the Second Baptist Church, the Rev. W. C. Bitting officiating. Only members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Huber, the former of whom is a brother of the bride, attended the couple. The bride wore a traveling suit of blue duvetyn and a hat to match, with a corsage of orchids. Following a bridal dinner at the Chase Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Shields departed for New York on their honeymoon trip. They will make their home at the Melbourne Hotel. Mrs. Shields was educated at the University of Stuttgart, Germany, during the time her brother was attending Heidelberg, and later Stuttgart.

The engagement of Miss Doris M. Talbot, daughter of B. P. Talbot of 3514 Shenandoah avenue, to George C. Heltage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heltage of 3005 Allen avenue, was announced recently at luncheon given in honor of the prospective bride by Mrs. T. G. Donnell. Miss Talbot and Mr. Heltage are alumni of Washington University. Miss Talbot is a member of Gamma Phi Beta, and her fiance of Phi Delta Theta.

Miss Eleanor Richards, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Richards, will be honoree at a luncheon to be given today by Mrs. Ray Spencer, 4324 McPherson avenue. The guests will be eight of the season's buds, Miss Mary Lemon Sipple, Miss Christine Veiths, Miss Elizabeth Robert, Miss Anne Hancock, Miss Helen Mills and Miss Eleanor Clements of Rochester, N. Y., who is visiting Miss Richards.

Mrs. Web. R. Samuels of 6030 Waterman avenue, will be hostess to the members of the West End Charity Circle, Friday, Nov. 3 at 12:30 o'clock.

A number of society matrons are taking advantage of the big card party to be given at the Coliseum on Saturday by the Women's Committee of the St. Louis University Endowment Fund Committee to entertain parties of friends at cards. Mrs. William C. McBride has reserved four boxes for her party, Mrs. J. Porter Tirrill has taken six tables, while Mrs. Martin Shaughnessy has a box and three tables. More than 50 boxes and 400 tables already have been spoken for.

Among the prenuptial affairs to be given for Miss Marcella Gerber, whose marriage to Jean Ebling will take place on Nov. 15, is the bridge luncheon to be given by Miss Albertine Goessling, 927 Maryville place, on Saturday Nov. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Aloe, formerly of 5548 Delmar boulevard, have purchased the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baylor Pendleton in Wydown terrace, and have taken possession.

THREE WEDDINGS ON SOCIAL CALENDAR TODAY

They Comprise Whittemore-French, Orr-MacCarthy and Wise-Bryan Nuptials.

NOVEMBER ushers in a season of late autumn and early winter weddings and society's interest will be well divided between three notable nuptial events on this, the first day. All of them will be home weddings.

Miss Mary Harney Whittemore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Whittemore of 5904 Enright avenue, will become the bride of Charles Sale French, son of Mrs. Hugh Murray French of the Washington Hotel, at 8:30 o'clock at the Whittemore home. The decorations are to be chrysanthemums in the autumn shades. Dean Scarlett of the Christ Church Cathedral will perform the ceremony before the flower banked mantel in the living room, and the guests, which will include only members of the families and a few friends, will remain for an informal reception.

The bride will wear a pearl and crystal embroidered tulle slip over radium silk, made on long lines and only slightly draped, and caught at either side with pearl and crystal ornaments. The court train is of satin, lined with radium, and swept to the end by the tulle bridal veil held to her hair with a coronet of rose point lace and orange blossoms. Her flowers will be roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Winans F. Lubbock, a sister of the bride, will serve as matron of honor, and Miss Josephine Lawnin as maid of honor. They will wear gowns fashioned of peach blow panne velvet draped to one side and held by a buckle of pearls and rhinestones. They will carry russet chrysanthemums. William Shock will serve Mr. French as best man and James E. Crawford will be groomsman. After a honeymoon trip Mr. French and his bride will make their home in St. Louis. The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Robert B. Whittemore and the late Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harney.

THE wedding of Miss Mary Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Orr, of 3231 Lafayette avenue, and Leonard MacCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. MacCarthy of 4959 Forest Park boulevard, will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orr, the Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor of the Second Presbyterian Church officiating, and will be followed by a reception. There will be 160 guests. The bridal party will pass through an aisle of white satin ribbon held by four tall vases filled with chrysanthemums, to flower-studded green background in the front of the living room, where the bride's mother was married years ago.

Mrs. Norman Nulsen, sister of the bride, will attend her as matron of honor, and her debutante cousin, Miss Alice Clark, will be maid of honor. Miss Marie Clarkson and Mrs. Richard S. Hawes Jr., also will attend. They will wear satin crepe in shades of pink, with Miss Clarkson's of deep rose, to Mrs. Nulsen's in delicate lavender. Each gown will be veiled in chiffon, silver embroidered, with bows from a girdle of silver ribbon forming the trains. The gowns will be boat-necked and sleeveless, in the prevailing draped mode. Mrs. Nulsen will carry lavender chrysanthemums, and the others roses to match their gowns.

The bridal dress is of satin, draped, and with a girdle of orange blossoms. The low-cut bodice is edged with pearls, and has been filled in with duchess lace. The same lace has been used in the skirt draperies. There will be long sleeves of chiffon edged with pearls. The train, which was worn by Mrs. Hawes at her wedding, is of rose point lace veiling satin and silver cloth, and a crown of rose point and pearls will hold in place the tulle veil. She will carry orchids and lilies of the valley.

Harold MacCarthy will serve his brother as best man, and Richard S. Hawes Jr., Walter Muckerman and William Gardner, will be groomsmen. Mr. MacCarthy and his bride will leave St. Louis tonight on their honeymoon trip, and will make their home at 4497 Forest Park boulevard. Miss Orr served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball last year. Mr. MacCarthy is a member of the St. Louis Club and the Sunset Hill Country Club.

Last but by no means least is the marriage at 8 o'clock of Miss Dorothy Wise, daughter of Henry N. Wise of Des Moines, Ia., and P. Taylor Bryan Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Taylor Bryan of 4346 McPherson avenue. The ceremony will take place at the home of Mrs. George McNulty, 419 West Pine boulevard, an aunt of the bride, with whom she makes her home. The Rev. Father Tucker of the New Cathedral will perform the ceremony.

Mrs. Henry Wise Hobson, sister of the bridegroom, will be matron of honor. She will wear French blue chiffon over silver cloth and will carry Ward roses, and Miss Rose Muckerman, maid of honor, will be gowned in coral pink chiffon over silver. There will be a girdle of silver roses at the waist line and the skirt will be long and circular. Her flowers will be Ophelia roses. Henry Bryan will serve his brother as best man and Theodore Fowler will be groomsman.

The bride's gown is of white crepe romaine. It is also draped after the present style, and has a girdle of pearls encircling the waist line and holding the draperies. There will be a court train of the crepe weighted with orange blossoms, and some of the blossoms will have been used in the coronet to hold the tulle bridal veil. She will carry lilies of the valley. After a honeymoon trip, the couple will reside at McPherson and Newstead avenues, where they have taken an apartment.

MINSTREL SONGS ON K S D PROGRAM TONIGHT

Performers Will Be Group of St. Louis Business Men; Vaudeville Program Last Night.

A complete minstrel "show" will be broadcast from Station K S D tonight. The performers will be a group of St. Louis business and professional men, members of the Kiwanis Club, and the "show" they will give is the complete performance which had its premiere last night at the American Annex. The entire production is the work of members of the St. Louis Kiwanis Club. Frank W. Swann, John H. Flachmann and Harry M. Willhite wrote the book and the music is by Harry J. Krusz. Swann and Krusz are the directors.

For the first half of the entertainment jazz will be absent and old-time minstrel songs will reign in its stead.

Last night's program at Station K S D was to some extent a modern vaudeville entertainment. Jazz songs and Hawaiian guitar selections made up the musical part and brought many complimentary telephone calls during the evening. Those taking part were Sirolas Cinkus, guitar soloist; Mrs. Bessie Hart, soprano, and Tom La Zear, 13-year-old boy singer.

The notable portion of the evening's program, however, was the two addresses. The speakers were Lou E. Holland, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, and Harry Frazer, president of the Kansas City Advertising Club. The aims and ideals of the advertising profession were explained in both talks. Holland described the organization of which he is the chief executive, and told of the fight that organization has made and is making to promote truth in advertising. Frazer discussed the advertising man and showed how advertising has progressed from the status of a mode of livelihood which was more or less under the ban to an honored and honorable profession. The advertising man, he said, serves the community in much the same way as does the lawyer and the doctor, advising and consulting on commodities as the former does on legal questions and the latter does on matters of public health.

In closing his address President Holland of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World warned his hearers not to buy foolishly.

"You read the news columns of your paper to learn what is going on here and abroad," he said. "By careful reading of the advertising columns you will learn how best to spend your money, what and where to buy, both from the standpoint of economy and the individual needs of yourself and family.

"Don't speculate with your hard earned money. Beware of the high-pressure stock salesman who would make you rich quick. 'Before you invest, investigate.'"

Consecrated Bishop Coadjutor.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—The Rev. Charles Lewis Slattery, for the last 12 years rector of Grace Church, New York City, yesterday was consecrated Bishop Coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts at a service in Trinity Church attended by several hundred members of the clergy and laity.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This Homemade Remedy Is a Wonder for Quick Results. Easily and Cheaply Made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SMALL AUDIENCES HEAR BREWSTER IN TWO WET COUNTIES

Jokes With Audeince.

Brewster, though delivering a speech of much seriousness, at times joked with his audience. "Do you think Jim Reed can get you beer in a week?" he asked. "Of course he can't, and you know he can't. Why, if he could get beer, real beer, I mean, we might all vote for him, and end this campaign right now. But he's only trying to sell you a gold brick."

He laid particular stress upon the statement that if Reed was sincerely wet he had had sufficient opportunity since the Volstead act was passed to attempt to amend it. "He hasn't offered one single amendment seeking to increase the alcoholic content of beverages," Brewster said. "Why not judge him for the future by his conduct in the past? Get him to say what he will do, if you can. Nobody else can. He won't say because he is playing the part of the hypocrite, trying to make the wets believe he is wet and the dry believe he is dry."

Elections to Women's Division of Republican State Committee.

Mrs. E. F. Rudolph and Mrs. Catherine B. Seibel, who have been active in Republican women's organization work for several years, yesterday were elected members of the Women's Division of the Republican State Committee from the Tenth Congressional District, at a meeting of the ward and township committeewomen of the district, at 303 Odd Fellows' Building.

The meeting of the Women's Congressional Committee was held immediately after a meeting of the men's committee of the district, at which it was voted to permit the women to select their representatives on the women's division of the State committee. The Women's Tenth District Committee elected Mrs. Otto Hampe chairman and Mrs. Harry Hoffman secretary.

Brewster to Speak at Four Meetings Here Tonight.

Four of them, at which R. R. Brewster, Republican senatorial nominee, will speak are: Joint meeting of Eighteenth, Nineteenth and Third Wards, Northwestern Hall, Elliot and St. Louis avenues; Twenty-second Ward, Euclid Hall, Euclid and Natural Bridge avenues; Sixth Ward, Druid's Hall, Ninth and Market streets, and Fifth Ward, a negro meeting at St. Paul's Baptist Church, Nineteenth and Morgan streets.

Congressman C. A. Newton and other candidates will speak at the Twenty-seventh Ward meeting, Owl's Hall, Florissant and Partridge avenues.

Present rates of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to St. Louis subscribers, will continue until Jan. 1, under a 60-day extension granted yesterday by the State Public Service Commission in Jefferson City. The Bell company had asked for a longer extension.

If the commission does not make another order before Jan. 1 the rates will then revert to the schedule which prevailed before Sept. 1, 1920. Before that time residence service, which now costs a maximum of $3 a month, was $2.50, and other residence rates were 50 cents a month less than at present. The increase was granted on the company's pledge of substantial improvements in the service.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR AMERICAN CHILDREN

Church Laws Caused Some Colonists to Move Westward, Where They Encountered Indians and War..

The Indians Became More Ferocious.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."
(Copyright, 1922.)

MEANWHILE, in far away England the Puritans were no longer an oppressed minority in the State. It is true that both the King and Archbishop Laud, his faithful but ill-guided servant, were doing their very best to "oppress' the wicked nonconformists. But this was not as easy as before. The Puritans and the other nonconforming sects were slowly coming into their own. Ere long they were to be strong enough to take possession of the ancinted person of His Majesty and conduct him respectfully but determinedly to the scaffold. That moment had not yet come but the Puritans' cause stood decidedly upon a firmer basis than ever before. And the settlers in New England used their power to be exceedingly unpleasant to those who happened to disagree with them. Catholics, of course, were not allowed within the territory of the newly reorganized Massachusetts Bay Company. But other Protestants, Quakers, and Lutherans and Episcopalians too, were treated with scant courtesy.

Between the years of 1630 and 1640 more than 20,000 new Puritan settlers came from England and soon a law was passed which made it impossible for any one not connected with the church to hold office or to have any say in the government of the colony. This forced many people away from Massachusetts. Some of these tried to move westward, but they found the country inhabited by Indian tribes which became more and more ferocious as the white man encroached further and further upon their territory . Then occurred swift and silent murder which inevitably led to punitive expeditions and which created that terrible state of war which lasted until the last Indian had been driven entirely away from his old hunting grounds. Other discontented settlers went southward and founded new cities and sometimes new colonies. In this way the uninhabited territory between New England and Virginia was gradually filled with new inhabitants. They were the hardiest among the increasing thousands who now crossed the ocean and they built so well that the work of their hand has survived until today as one may see in such states as Rhode Island and Connecticut.

One link was still missing in the chain of English colonies along the Atlantic seaboard. That was the territory along the banks of the great river which Henry Hudson had discovered 20 years before. That land belonged to the Dutch West Indian Company and it was called the New Netherlands.

AUTO DRIVER RUNS INTO A HALLOWEEN CROWD, HITTING BOY

Chicago Police Dispense Gathering When Man Is Attacked—Busy Night for Guardians of Law,

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Policemen and firemen on night shifts welcomed the dawn of a new day, and quitting time this morning, following one of the busiest Halloweens in Chicago's history.

While the Fire Department answered 115 alarms during the night, a new record for Halloween, most of the fires were small.

Police calls for the most part were from citizens who thought crowds of boys were carrying their pranks too far. Street car traffic was repeatedly interrupted while car men and policemen removed wagons, carts, refuse cans and other obstacles from the tracks.

Rioting started on the North Side when an automobile driver was attacked after he had driven into a crowd and knocked down a boy. Policemen declared 3000 had gathered to watch a band of boys and girls in freak costumes and their faces blackened, push a blazing wagon through the streets. Street car men and policemen who attempted to interfere were pelted with tomatoes. A procession of baby carriages and carts followed the blazing wagon. The spirit was one of hilarity until the boy was run down. Then the police were compelled to disperse the crowd.

De Valera Faction Sensitive.

DUBLIN, Nov. 1.—Followers of Eamon de Valera have warned Dublin newspapers to disregard the censorship, and describe the De Valera factionists as "Republicans," instead of "Irregulars," and to avoid the use of quotation marks in referring to the military ranks of their officers. Two of the newspapers already have complied with the demand.

FIND your age column. Glance down the row of figures and pick the amount you will be able to save each month. Then start, and keep going. Your persistence, and 3% interest, compounded semi-annually, will help you to reach the figure on the left at age 65. The interest we will credit, compared to the amount you deposit, is surprisingly large.

You Deposit Each Month	You Will Have Deposited at 65	INTEREST We Will Add	You Will Have at 65
$ 4.76	$ 2,456.16	$ 2,543.84	$ 5,000

SIXTY-FIVE may seem a long way off, but it's worth more than a passing thought. Eighty-four out of every hundred men who reach that age are dependent on others for support. This is the time to start, for all Mercantile savings accounts opened and deposits made the first five days of the month draw interest from the first.

News of New Books and Those Who Write Them

The Memoirs of Count Hohenzollern Prove an Unprofitable Welter of Accusations and Self-Interested Exposition of the Past—Life and Letters of American Scholar Distinguished in Journalism and Diplomacy.

By Otto Heller.

IN the serial publication of his lucrative oratio pro domo the author figured humbly as William Hohenzollern. His legal title now is William, Count of Hohenzollern, with certain garnishings. The front page of his book restores to him the name he renounced with his office. With what character his spectacular and calamitous personality, gargoyled in the popular picturing beyond resemblance to humanity, will issue from the tedious trial by history, there is no telling.

I daresay the fiction of the “Beast of Berlin” will not live very long in short-lived public memory; so, too, the delusion of his idolizers will pass. If possibly William dubbed his grandfather “The Great” in the secret hope of earning for himself the unmatched cognomen of “The Greater,” he showed himself doubly a poor judge of size. The old gentleman had a single quality of greatness; he knew a great man when he saw him, and subordinated his own commonplace judgment to higher counsel. The grandson lacked that prime virtue of a born ruler.

In his memoirs the former Emperor drapes himself in the national colors and swears by book and candle his eternal loyalty to his people. “The Lord protect me from my friends!” was the prayer of Frederick II. The Germans, to whom Europe's now disintegrating civilization owed an enormous and invaluable contribution, must be under the special wrath of Providence, judging by the freedom given their avowed best friends to kill the world's nascent sympathy with that great and more than half-ruined people. Military geniuses like Hindenburg and Ludendorff are certainly to be counted among a country's greatest assets in time of war. Unfortunately, peace squeezes the t out of that class of assets, not in Germany alone, and that appears to be especially true when such men speak or write for publicity.

The former Emperor in his downfallen estate demonstrates plainly the vital touch of truth in the countless gibes and satires leveled against his theatrical self-display and bragging egomania ever since his accession. He never was, of course, in the least like the fiendish and insensate bogie-man of our childish superstition, the delighted father of all the real and invented atrocities of the war. The ethos of war is the same everywhere. This is also true of that other popular misfortune, monarchy, and in both those institutions incompetence is as disastrous as criminality. I can't believe for a moment that William was morally inferior to the poor royal average. Neither did his intelligence transcend the low royal level. A more competent holder of his job would never have parted from Bismarck or Buelow, or countenanced passively the machinations of that pack of dirty epicenes at Liebenau. Who started the war? William calls God to witness that he didn't, and repudiates all responsibility. But the most onerous thing about this business of Kingery is that diplomatic inability to avert a war and set unwillingness to avert it are considered almost equally nefarious, and there is only one thing that is worse, namely, to lose the war.

William declares himself the foremost well wisher to his people. What do his wishes profit them in their misery? Were William's political intelligence not still beclouded by self-interest, he would not have published this welter of self-defense, lament, and promiscuous accusation, in which everybody save the Persona Domenica of the writer is represented as being in the wrong. The Count of Hohenzollern is an unbending partisan of the last German Emperor and as incapable of objective thinking as if he were a Member of Congress, only that he cannot palliate his want of sagacity with a pick-up education. Just as a member of Congress is built by nature to think in agreement with party vote, so William the Last cannot think at all save in terms of monarchy.

Were he able to think of Germany's rehabilitation unconnected with the fates of the House of Hohenzollern, he would keep his hand out of her affairs. He now has enough to live on, if not regally yet in lordly style, thanks to the punctilio of German Socialists and the liberality of American publishers. He should stay where he is, or make a further trek. His former subjects have shown him and told him, again and again, that he is not wanted in Germany. But he seems to think that they don't know their mind, anyway, that they don't know what's best for them. Germany, as matter of fact, holds a very large number of royalists—even larger than France—and a more or less respectable minority of these are in favor of the Hohenzollerns. As for Wilhelm, he is persona non grata in all republican and monarchist circles, and his return to power is unthinkable—unless through collusion with the imperialistic forces in the Entente and things as strange as that are recorded in history.

William lays the defeat of the Germans to this, that whereas the English and French working classes were “rightly directed”—i. e. nationalistically, the German working classes were wrongly directed, i. e. internationally. So little does he heed the lessons of terrible experience, so poorly read the mural script of the dawning age, that he makes his prophecy of Germany's resurrection contingent upon “the return of a powerful national sentiment of all the people,” having in mind, no doubt, a sentiment “fuer Koenig und Vaterland” in the order named. If that comes to pass, he predicts that “in the community of cultured nations Germany will again play, as she did before the war, the role of the nation with the greatest capacity for labor, and will once more march victoriously in the van in peaceful competition, offering not only to herself but to all the nations of the earth, whatever is best in the domain of technical achievement, of science, of art.”

The former Emperor in his exile seems to be still surrounded by sycophants who force political truth into quarantine before admitting it to the ex-royal presence. The exalted refugee thus comes to take for granted a great change in the status of opinion concerning the war-guilt of Germany. Says he: “Today there is no longer any doubt that not Germany, but the alliance of her foes, prepared the war according to a definite plan, and intentionally caused it.” America's entry into the war, William declares, and the enormous supplies of ammunition, and especially of war materials, which preceded her entry, seriously hurt the chance of the Central Powers to bring the war to a successful termination by force of arms.

The treaty of Versailles he regards as a heinous breach of faith. Wilson's 14 points had been accepted by the German Government; also by the allies (with the exception of those on reparations and the freedom of the seas). “Wilson had guaranteed the 14 points. I fail to find the most important of them in the Versailles instrument.”

The ex-Kaiser's argument is too slipshod and his pleading too temperamental to produce the impression he seeks to produce. The book of the Crown Prince was better in every way. Both books are bound to be harmful to Germany. By this effect of their pleas father and son suggest a rather scurrilous parallel with the priest and the rabbi in Heine's famous “Dispute”—“Und es will mich schier beduenken,” etc.

Ah, and where are Mr. George Creel's valorous “Friends of German Democracy,” organized in the midst of the war to strengthen the liberal opposition to imperialism and militarism? Have they deserted Germany in her direst need? Or is the Lord protecting her at least from this one set of her friends?

The democratic elements in Germany have for years been struggling super-heroically to set up a model republic—more modern in its adaptation to popular demands than any other existing government. Their hands have not been properly upheld. The Entente's neglect of making Germany safe for democracy cries to heaven in behalf of this and all future time.

BY this excellent compilation the reviewer finds himself drawn once more into the aura of Walter H. Page's charmingly rugged personality, with which he came repeatedly in contact while Page was editing the “World's Work.” He remembers with gleeful warmth Page's personally delivered invitation to write the central article for the World's Fair number of that magazine, and his admonition: “Write just as simply as you can, but always remember that 'if' governs the subjunctive.” It was a prejudice conceived when Page was a graduate student of Greek at Johns Hopkins, one of the original 20 holders of fellowships in the new university, and he stuck religiously to that syntactical superstition to the end of his days, as is shown in his letters. Together with the four other aspiring Grecians who gathered periodically around the long pine table in Prof. Gildersleeve's dingy seminar room, he also retained the feeling that without a home in Greek literature no man can lay claim to a high culture. Yet, as one of his old associates puts it grammatically, Page even in those student days was chiefly interested in that one of the main tenses which we call the Present.

That interest landed him at first in journalism and at last in statesmanship. He worked on the St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette and next on the old New York World, until one day Joseph Pulitzer bought the paper and cleared it of its staff in corpore. Later he was on the Evening Post. When the Forum was founded he became its editor. At 43 he stepped to the top of his profession as editor of the Atlantic Monthly. But his tendency, which was journalistic rather than literary and intellectual, made him uncomfortable in that high sedile of Brahminism. Unwilling to “continue as a hired man,” he founded the World's Work, under the auspices of Doubleday, Page & Co. The new periodical was intended for a popular audience, and its forceful effervescence of ideas rendered it from the start broadly successful.

As a publicist, Page combined to a rare degree enthusiasm with common, or, rather, uncommon, sense. For fine-drawn nicenesses of all sorts he had no disposition, and was apt to underrate philosophic subleties. His call to official statesmanship did not find him unprepared. As Dr. Simon Flexner has said, Page was one of the real educational statesmen of this country. He was one of the principal organizing and directing factors in the General Education Board, founded with 53 of Rockefeller's millions, and in the Jeanes Board, constituted for the improvement of negro education. The deadly warfare upon the hookworm was one of his chief interests.

Page knew Woodrow Wilson from the days of his journalistic apprenticeship, and was one of those who persistently urged the great educator to go into politics; had much to do with Wilson's decision to run for the governorship of New Jersey and later on for the presidency. As a politician he never lost sight of educational policies. On his suggestion David F. Houston, chancellor of Washington University, was appointed Secretary of Agriculture, to promote jointly with the Bureau of Education the restoration of country life to a measure of dignity and leisure. Of President Wilson's Cabinet as a whole Page had no high opinion. In a memorandum of his visit to Washington in August, 1916, he mentions Houston as the only member of the Cabinet who had a proper perspective of the situation.

“OUT FOR CHARACTER.” (Philadelphia. The Vir Publishing Co.)

TWENTY-SIX brief chapters by 26 thoughtful persons of eminence, written to warn young men and women that the wages of sin is death. Bishop William A. Quayle of St. Louis contributes a preachment of two pages which it would be hard for Billy Sunday to beat in punch or pungency. Catch this: “You cannot play pum-pum-pullaway with God. You cannot deceive God. He is not running the world in behalf of the nasty and the smutty-mouthed and the stench-souled and the putrid-bodied.”

“THE PAPER MONEYS OF EUROPE, THEIR MORAL AND ECONOMIC SIGNIFICANCE.” By Francis W. Hirst. (Houghton Mifflin Co.)

THIS pamphlet contains a lecture delivered at the University of California and is one in a series of essays by different scholars dealing with the various phases of the moral law in its bearing on business life under the new economic order, a series of lectures made possible by the Weinstock Foundation. It also contains the reprint of an article that appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. The author is the well-known English editor.

There is nothing new in the lecture except a glaring inconsistency. If inflation is “fraud and robbery on the most wholesale scale ever practiced by government,” then the remedy would seem to consist in stopping the printing press, the inflation, the fraud. But according to Mr. Hirst, “the only real remedy is the re-establishment of complete peace, disarmament, the abolition of conscription and sundry other matters regarding which Mr. Hirst has never qualified as an expert.

“THE OLD HOUSE,” by Cecile Tormay. (Robert M. McBride & Co.)

“THE Old House” was the house of Ulwing, which had its rise and fall in Buda-Pest in the middle of the last century. As told by Cecile Tormay, it is translated from the Hungarian by E. Torday, who has preserved the charm which has made it one of the best sellers on the Continent, more than 26,000 copies having been sold in Hungary alone and the German translation having gone through six editions, while translations have also appeared in Norwegian, Swedish and Dutch.

Christopher Ulwing, master builder, was the head of the old House of Ulwing. While he lived the Ulwings flourished and won an enviable position in the Buda-Pest world. After his death the Old House underwent slow disintegration, brightened by the romances which came to the young Ulwings along the way.

“The Old House” would not be a best seller in America, but it has a sustained charm of style and a literary quality which many of our best sellers lack.

POETRY

“The Covenant and Other Poems,” by Dr. Louis Smirnow. (The Stratford Co.)

THESE poems “naturally differ in value,” says Prof. William Lyon Phelps in an introduction, one of his much-too-many. And it is about the only thing he has to say about them. Yet Dr. Smirnow's songs are decidedly of interest for a reason that has little to do with the question of their excellence. Dr. Smirnow is the passionate spokesman for the Zionites' thoughts and feelings. The book, which is dedicated to Mr. Justice Louis D. Brandeis, would be better without its exorbitant wrapper advertisement as “an event in literary history.” The general level is slightly below mediocrity, and there are atrocious passages, like the following:

floating,
And with its wings the surface smoting,
Calling upon Chaos to give up
From his vast realm a single drop,
Wherewith a new Creation to begin
Out of a primitive origin.

“Sonnets of A Portrait-Painter, and Other Sonnets,” by Arthur Davison Ficke. (Mitchell Kennerley.)

Eight years after their first appearance the “Sonnets of a Portrait-Painter” are reissued. They tell a connected and gradually developing story. To them are now joined four other and shorter groups.

“Songs for the Toilers,” by Ezra J. Poulsen. (The Stratford Co.)

The thot (adopting Mr. Poulsen's spelling) that runs through or thru or thro these little compositions is that of useful labor sustained by faith. Ora et labora! It is a good thot now and forever. Too bad it is not couched in better poetry.

“The Harp of Life,” by Nettie P. Allemong. (The Stratford Co.)

When Daddy had to cook—When the Table is set for two—Pumpkin Pies—Supper Time at Home—homely and appetizing themes, as you see, but in the majority not quite as material and at least in a few instances melodious with joy and grief.

Co.)

Dr. Dolittle does a lot of things, through his acquaintance with the language of animals, birds, and eventually, fishes. An amiable, and in places, an amusing story, oddly illustrated.

Justification for the title of this volume, containing “Wappin' Wharf” and “At the Sign of the Greedy Pig,” readily appears in these plays which abound in the mock savagery of comic opera. The first, a comedy of pirates, those cringing cutthroats of Wapping Wharf, resounds with that “I'm so bad I'm afraid of myself” terrorism and should prove highly amusing to children. Junior players or other amateur dramatic organizations might find it adaptable to their needs. The second play, a comedy of beggars, is equally grotesque.

“The Golden Face,” by William Le Queux. (The Macaulay Co.)

Another of Le Queux's narratives of a band of European criminals led by an astute master who posed as an English squire. A young man unwittingly became an employe of the “Golden Face” and fell in love with his daughter. In order to be near her to protect her from what he believed to be the inevitable consequences of her father's crimes he permitted himself to be led further and further into the maze of a criminal's existence. The story is a first-person description of this young man's experiences.

“In Jeopardy,” by Van Tassel Sutphen. (Harper & Brothers.)

A riddle story—that's the name that's being launched for the same old thing known to you as criminal—then detective—latterly mystery story. Mr. Sutphen ambitions to be the first on the ground. He is the man who “put golf on the literary map”—first mentioned wireless or radio in some of his short stories, and motivated his popular novel, “The Cardinal's Rose,” upon the introduction of a moving-picture film. For a writer generally so loyal in the pursuit of the immaculately new, the basic situation of this story is oddly antiquated. That gentleman sitting in his quiet library when he was struck down by a sinister mysterious power, is no stranger to the lectors of Messrs. Fletcher and Cohen. He begins to make us tired.

“Bill the Bachelor,” by Denis Mackail. (Houghton-Mifflin Co.)

Bill is a young Englishman engaged ardently in trade and, more or less so, to the Honorable Leslie. Mr. Mackail writes with charm as well as with vigor. There is bouquet in his humor and flavor in his romance. The new story is as good as were its two sparkling predecessors, “What Next” and “Romance to the Rescue.”

“The Truth of Things,” by William E. Mann. (The Cornhill Publishing Co.)

A double dozen of cogitations and speculations, keen but undisciplined, converging toward a cosmology flavored with a very personal variety of dogmatism. The writer posits an Intelligent Natural Law (of whose behavior he believes himself minutely informed) which will simply oblige a continual increase in our degree of common sense and honest dealing, in spite of all apparent failures. The War fell quite within the benign purpose of that Natural Law. Interesting, if true.

VICTORY for James Branch Cabell. The proceeding for the suppression of James Branch Cabell's book, “Jurgen,” instigated by the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, was brought before Judge Nott and a jury on Monday, Oct. 16, in the Court of General Sessions. The defendants, Robert M. McBride & Co., moved for the direction of an acquittal. Judge Nott, on Oct. 19, handed down a decision granting the motion. His opinion runs in part as follows:

“I have read and examined the book carefully. It is by Mr. James Branch Cabell, an author of repute and distinction. From the literary point of view its style may fairly be called brilliant. In my opinion, the book is one of unusual literary merit and contains nothing 'obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy, indecent or disgusting,' within the meaning of the statute and the decisions of the courts of this State in similar cases. The motion, therefore, is granted and the jury is advised to acquit the defendants.”

WITH Christmas coming along—that time of the year when bachelor aunts and uncles and even harassed mothers and fathers intent on holiday shopping, demand in desperation “something for a boy 4 years old”—the National Kindergarten and Elementary College, 2934 Michigan boulevard, Chicago, specialist in the “business of childhood,” has drawn up a model “Little Bookshelf” for boys and girls from 4 to 7 years of age, which contains the essentials for young minds at the most impressionable years in the life of the individual.

THE TRANSLATOR AS A CREATIVE ARTIST. A definite advance in literary history was marked, even if not generally noticed, when Texeira de Mattos, the translator of Maeterlinck and other famous modern authors, was treated on his death recently as a great artist in his own right. The translator has at last definitely established his right to be treated as a creative artist on the merits of his ability to render aesthetic values from one language into another. In recent years such well-known writers as Mrs. Humphrey Ward, Gilbert Canan, Gilbert Murray, and John Masefield, have done translations which have been received by the critics with the same respect as original works from these authors would have won them. Bernard Shaw is now at work on a translation from the Bohemian, of which, by the way, he is known to be abysmally ignorant!

W. SOMERSET MAUGHAM has disappointed us again. He expected to come to New York and see the production of his play, “East of Suez,” in which Florence Reed is making a great success. Instead, the reckless man has rushed off to the interior of Siam. This is exactly the way he behaved when “The Moon and Sixpence” was creating its sensation. Would he stay here and reap the harvest of fame? No, he must go to China immediately—to the interior of China. It is true that the result of this Chinese immediacy was the new book, “On a Chinese Screen.” If Siam produces a similar book, also another play as good as “East of Suez,” Siam may be duly pardoned.

In the Contribution Box

THIS, according to the translator's note, is the fourth and last volume on beetles in the collected English edition of Fabre's entomological works. A few of the essays have appeared before, in other collections.

With many of the beetles described here, the gold beetle, the Beaded Trox, the Saprinus, the Cossus, we are familiar, but have been inclined, too often, to turn from them in disgust. Fabre finds nothing common in the lowliest of these, but sees them, rather, as awe-inspiring creatures, artistic harmonies so complex as to defy all attempts at explanation. While he tries to keep as close to the concrete realities as possible, Fabre's descriptions give more than a plain statement of observed facts. He reads into the lives of these insects too much, perhaps, by way of conscious motives for their acts, and at times permits his emotions to carry him too far afield in his endeavor to answer the ever-recurring “Why?”

Yet he realizes the error of those who theorize too much, those who fail to seek knowledge from the organism itself. In the chapter on morality, for example, he discusses the various theories which have been propounded to account for the phenomenon of instinct or intelligence in animals:

“In his little Dung-beetle brain the lessons of the past leave lasting impressions which, matured by time, ripen into more considered actions. Necessity is the supreme inspirer of the instincts. Spurred by necessity, the animal is its own artisan. . . Its habits, its capacity and dexterity are integrals of infinite minuteness acquired on the illimitable path of time.”

Fabre adds:

“Such is the argument of theorists, an argument sufficiently imposing to allure any independent mind, did not the empty resonance of words usurp the full sonority of reality. Let us question the Minotaur about all this. To be sure, he will not reveal to us the origin of instinct; he will leave the problem as obscure as ever; but he will at least be able to cast a glimmer into some little corner.”

The whole series is pleasant reading and stimulating, if not taken too seriously. Fabre's daring and determination, his untiring energy and insatiable curiosity are manifest on every page. Who would dare invite one's friends to partake of a feast at which a Cossus, that “translucent bag filled to bursting point with fresh butter,” was set forth as the piece de resistance? None but Fabre!

A more logical sequence to the essays would have given the series greater effectiveness.

“LETTERS TO LITHOPOLIS, FROM O. HENRY TO MABEL WAGNALLS.” (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

JUST why these letters were published, even in this very limited and very expensive edition, is likely to remain as great a mystery as the phenomenal popularity of their writer's stories among people who should know better. We did not need these letters to be certain that O. Henry was, as a humorist, somewhere between a comedian in a burlesque show and a column conductor on a college paper, and that he was as an artist, a conscious fraud. On this latter point, one quotation from these letters is quite enlightening: “I don't like to talk about literature. Did you notice that teentsy-weentsy little 'I'? That's the way I spell it. I have much more respect for a man who brands cattle than for the one who writes pieces for the printer. Don't you? It doesn't seem quite like a man's work. But then, it's quite often a man's work to collect a check from some publications.” The “artistic” ideal, in short, of a continuity writer. And yet for years he was hailed as the best master of the narrative art in America, and professors wrote lives of him and gave him respectful consideration in their histories of American literature, and (horror of horrors!) caused their students to accept him as an example of what the artist ought to be!

SAMUEL W. TAIT, JR.

Edna Ferber's
GIGOLO
pronounced “zhigolo”

Miss Ferber's short stories have won high praise from such diverse critics of American literature as William Allen White and H. L. Mencken. As the modern genius in dealing with the narrow confines of the short story her name is always coupled with O. Henry's.

The eight tales of her new book Gigolo, with Dickensian wit and humanity, etch important moments in American lives as they are lived on the New York stage, in a Chicago Apartment, in an Oklahoma Oil Town—or even in Nice.

MAN DECLARES HE FIRED AT "GHOSTS" IN HIS DOORWAY

They Had Riot Guns, He Says—Police Believe Halloween Pranks Affected Him.

Policemen investigtaing two revolver shots in the home of Joseph Levering, 67 years old, of 1718½ South Twelfth street, a widower, at 4 a. m. today, found Levering seated on a bed with a revolver in his hand. There was a bullet hole in the door and another in the casing.

Levering declared several "ghosts" had appeared at the door armed with riot guns and he had shot at them. They had bothered him all night, he said.

Police believe he was nervous because of Halloween pranks. He was taken to the City Hospital.

This Dread Disease Yields Readily to Simple Home Remedy.

Any sufferer from the diseased conditions of Pyorrhea—sensitive, bleeding gums that have become spongy and receding, loose teeth, sore mouth, foul breath, etc.—will find quick relief in Moore's Pyorrhea Remedy.

This remarkable home treatment soothes inflammation and allays the pain with the very first application. With further use, all signs of Pyorrhea disappear. The mouth becomes sweet, clean and healthy, bleeding is stopped and sore, spongy gums grow firm and solid. Pus discharge is checked and pus pockets and ulcerations heal. Loose teeth tighten and extraction is avoided.

Your druggist has Moore's Pyorrhea Remedy, or can quickly get it for you. He is authorized to refund the purchase price if you are not satisfied with results in your case. Use it on this basis and accept no substitute. Moore's Pyorrhea Remedy is made and guaranteed by Moore's Laboratories, Kansas City, Missouri.

Is now obtainable at all Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph and Enderle Stores, also at the City Hall, Grand-Laclede, Grand-Franklin, Grand-St. Louis, Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and Keiffer Stores in St. Louis, and the Chas. F. Merker Stores in East St. Louis.

HAIR DON'T STOP FALLING ITSELF

35-cent bottle of "Danderine" will Save Any Man or Woman's Hair—Delightful Tonic—See Hair Thicken!

Don't lose another hair! Don't tolerate destructive dandruff. A little Danderine now will save your hair; thicken and strengthen it; double its beauty.

Falling hair never stops by itself! Dandruff multiplies until it forms a crusty scale, destroying the hair, roots and all, resulting in baldness.

Your druggist will tell you that "Danderine" is the largest selling hair saver in the world because it corrects and tones sick, ailing hair every time. Use one bottle of Danderine, then if you find a single falling hair or a particle of dandruff, you can have your money back.

SH-h-h! Little Whispers About A Bad Breath

"My! What a Breath. I wish I dared tell her!" Well, why not? There isn't anything criminal about it, and if your breath is bad, wouldn't you be glad to know it?

There is nothing more common or more disagreeable than a bad breath. And the sad part of it is that while we're quick to detect it in others, we seldom think of ourselves.

A sour, "gassy" or acid stomach is most always the cause of Bad Breath, and it doesn't matter how often you brush your teeth, wash your mouth, or how little or what you eat. If your "stomach's off" your breath will tell the story. But if you'll keep your stomach sweet and clean and free from acid you won't have to worry about a bad breath, gas, sourness or belching.

To cleanse and sweeten a sour stomach; to neutralize the acid and purify the breath, nothing is easier or better to use than ordinary Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained in small quantities at any good drug store. Use it after every meal. Bisurated Magnesia is a powerful antacid and stomach corrective. A pure product, pleasant, harmless and quickly effective. Warning: Do not confuse Bisurated Magnesia—a Chemist's product—with any of the Magnesia preparations such as milk or citrate. Bisurated Magnesia comes straight either powder or tablets. Ask your druggist.

MEXICAN DEPUTIES CRITICISE U. S. AND UPHOLD OBREGON

Situation Growing Out of Attachment of Mexican Funds in New York Discussed.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—The United States was criticized and a vote of confidence in President Obregon waes proposed in the Chamber of Deputies last night during an animated discussion of the situation growing out of the Oliver American Trading Co.'s attachment of Mexican Government funds in New York.

The vote failed because of the lack of a quorum, but it was apparent that the suggestion was well received by those present. Various speakers comended the Government's stand in closing the consulate and declared ever firmer measures should have been taken.

The National Chamber of Commerce has approved President Obregon's decree boycotting all persons resident in New York State in their business relations with the Mexican Government. An effort is now under way to bring about similar action by the Confederation of Chamber of Commerce.

Mevican Consulate Reopened.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Mexican consulate, closed last Friday as a protest against the action of the New York courts in issuing a writ of attachment on its property in connection with a civil action brought by the Oliver American Trading Co., was reopened yesterday.

POSTAL SAVINGS SHRINKAGE

Decrease During Quarter Ended Sept. 30 Was Smallest Since March, 1919.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Postal savings deposits continue to shrink, but the decrease during the quarter ended Sept. 30 was smaller than in any three months' period since March, 1919, when deposits reached the peak, Assistant Postmaster-General Glover said today in a statement which said erroneous unofficial reports as to the postal savings decline had been published. Deposits in March, 1919, reached the unprecedented figure of $176,828,524, declining gradually since to $135,625,000 on Sept. 30.

"The decrease," Glover stated, "is due to a very large extent to three causes, namely, extremely heavy withdrawals in those offices adjacent to the coal fields, decreased deposits at the large railway centers, and finally, the recent withdrawals of the old issue of treasury savings certificates paying 4½ per cent and the issuing of a new series under date of Oct. 1 at the reduced rate of interest of 4 per cent."

MANSLAUGHTER INDICTMENTS AGAINST TWO AUTO DRIVERS

Deaths of Girl and Man in Motor Mishaps Result in Action Against Operators of Machines.

Manslaughter indictments were returned yesterday against two automobile drivers.

One is against Charles Stein of 2707 South Eighteenth street, who, police say, admitted driving on the left side of a street car discharging passengers at Fourth and Locust streets at 7:45 a. m. Aug. 31, when his automobile struck and fatally injured Miss Laura Amsinger, 18, of 2527A University street.

The other is against Archie Steneck, proprietor of a restaurant at 1466 South Grand boulevard, from whose machine William Giele, 34, a carpenter, was thrown Aug. 12 in a collision with another machine at Jefferson and Washington avenues. Giele died of a fractured skull five days later at the City Hospital.

UNIONS ACT IN ROW OVER POLICE

St. Joseph Labor Seeks Removal of Commissioners.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 1.—The Central Labor Council, comprising all labor unions in St. Joseph, has adopted a resolution asking Gov. Hyde to remove the St. Joseph Police Commissioners. Council officers say the action has no connection with petitions circulated by the Ku Klux Klan and demanding the removal of the commissioners, presented at the Governor's office Monday.

The unions previously had condemned the police department for its handling of the strike of packing-house workmen in South St. Joseph several months ago, at which time they demanded the removal of Chief MacDonald, who was discharged by the commissioners following the killing of Nellie Hale, a schoolgirl, by policemen chasing supposed bootleggers two weeks ago.

NORTH DAKOTA POLITICS MIXED

Republican Congressmen Want Democratic Senator.

By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 1.—It became known here today that O. B. Burtness and George M. Young, Republican Congressmen of North Dakota, seeking re-election, have taken a stand for election of a Democrat as United States Senator. The Republican Congressmen indorsed J. F. T. O'Connor, anti-nonpartisan and Democrat.

R. W. Frazier, a nonpartisan, as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, recently issued a statement calling for party loyalty and indorsing these two Congressmen.

Deaths Laid to Beverages.

By the Associated Press.

PANA, Ill., Nov. 1.—Verdicts that W. S. James and his wife died of poisoning from drinking what they considered harmless beverages were returned yesterday by a Coroner's jury. Physicians previously had expressed the belief that the couple died as a result of drinking soup poisoned by being left in a metal container.

Third Generation is Using Syrup Pepsin

No other Laxative can replace Dr. Caldwell's in the confidence of those who use it

THERE are thousands of healthy, robust young men and women who have never in all their lives taken any other laxative for constipation than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Their parents were given it by their parents; the grandparents are using it today. It is the one laxative ideally suited to all the family, safe for the little ones, effective in grownups, so compounded that elderly people, who are constantly forced to take a laxative because the intestinal muscles are weakening, find increased dosage unnecessary. This wonderful constipation remedy has been used continuously for 30 years, and over 10 million bottles are now sold annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world! The cost averages but a cent a dose. Every druggist sells it, and under a guarantee to do as claimed or your money will be refunded.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Mr. J. B. Belk of Shaw, Miss., relies on it entirely to keep his children in health, and Mrs. Catherine Connolly of Jersey City, N. J., declares that not only herself but all her neighbors and friends use it and tell others about it. There is scarcely a day that someone in a family does not need it for constipation, flatulency, auto-intoxication, biliousness, intestinal poisoning, headaches, colic and cramps, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. The formula is on the package. As the popularity of this natural vegetable laxative increases, the public discards the harsher physics like calomel, coal-tar in candy form, salt waters and powders. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin empties the bowels more cleanly and without any danger.

Don't Trifle With Constipation—If You Expect to Be Healthy!

Constipation "knocks-the-spots" out of men, women and children! Yet, it is about the last thing that the average person tries to correct—until it is too late!

Eliminate constipation and the slightest constipation symptoms—QUICKLY! Once constipation gets a strangle-hold on your intestines your body is thrown open to diseases such as Bright's and diabetes, which are directly caused by constipation. Hardening of the arteries, most cases of rheumatism and numerous other diseases have their inception in constipation, which also causes premature old age; dulls brains and makes sufferers sluggish.

As dangerous and annoying as constipation is; as terrifying as its possibilities are, yet, you can permanently relieve it with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled! Bran is not a "remedy," but it is nature's own food—roughage—that acts on the eliminative passages in nature's way, sweeping, cleaning, purifying! Your physician will indorse Kellogg's Bran for constipation.

We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will relieve the severest case of constipation IF IT IS EATEN REGULARLY—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases, eat it with each meal.

And Kellogg's Bran is delicious—its nut-like flavor appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Use Kellogg's Bran as a cereal or sprinkle it over your favorite cereal; or, it can be used to make delightful raisin bread, gems, pancakes and a host of good things—and all the time working for health. Buy Kellogg's Bran at grocers.

Three contributions of $25, a like number of $10 donations and several of smaller amounts added $124 to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund yesterday, bringing it to a total of $7311.89, just $2688.11 short of the $10,000 budget needed.

Members of the Sorority Circle have always been active in the work for the babies and realizing the urgent need for funds to continue the work of the Milk Commission, forwarded a check for $25 through Mrs. F. E. Kemp, treasurer of the organization. This, with a check for $50 which was the first donation of this season's campaign, makes a total of $75 which the Sorority Circle have contributed this year.

Six dollars came from two little girls who earned that amount early in the summer but neglected to send it to the Fund. They signed their communication "Two Little Workers" and acknowledgment of their donation is made under that heading in connection with this article.

Other cash donations included two $1 additions from the "What Did You See Today" column recently conducted in the Post-Dispatch; $25 from Mrs. Elias Michael; $25 from H. W. Peters; $10 each from Breckinridge Jones, American Brake Co. and "Cash"; $5 from C. J. Kehoe; $5 from J. H. McTague, and $1 from Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Grosby.

MARYLAND SENATOR USES PHONOGRAPH RECORD TALKS

France Spends $17,500 in Placing Speeches in Homes of Voters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Senator Joseph I. France, Republican, fighting to hold his seat in a normally Democratic State, "said it with music" in presenting his candidacy to Maryland voters.

France introduced the phonograph record as a never-tiring, ceaselessly active "stump orator," urging voters to return him to the Senate. To put his musical idea across, France purchased 50,000 records and distributed them free in the homes of Maryland voters.

One side of each record bore a series of excerpts from France's principal campaign or senatorial addresses. His record talk was characterized by all the vigor he used in Senate speeches.

On the opposite side France had inscribed the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Maryland, My Maryland." If he is successful in the election next week his campaign managers believe these records will have had no little part in the victory.

They cost the Maryland Senator $17,500. His total expenditures in the campaign total $43,000.

CONTRACTS FOR ST. CHARLES SECTION OF ROAD APPROVED

Eighteen Miles of Concrete Highway to Be in This Portion of St. Louis-Kansas City Route.

Construction of the St. Charles County section of the St. Louis and Kansas City highway is expected to begin at once, following the action of the State Highway Commission yesterday in approving contracts for the work.

Eighteen miles of road are to be in St. Charles County. The road project depended on the obtaining of a right of way and a fund of $17,000 was subscribed for this purpose, of which $7000 has been paid in, according to W. R. Dalton, a lawyer of Wentzville.

The road is to extend from St. Charles, through St. Peter's, Foristell and other towns, to the Warren County line. It is to be of concrete, 18 feet wide. The Moreno-Burkham Construction Co. of St. Louis holds the contract. The commission's meeting was held in the St. Louis office of Murray Carleton, a member.

REFRIGERATING ENGINEERS OPEN 4-DAY CONVENTION

Modern methods of manufacturing ice and equipping refrigerating plants will be discussed at the thirteenth annual convention of the National Association of Practical Refrigerating Engineers, which opened at Planters Hotel today and will continue through Saturday. An exhibition of refrigerating appliances is being held in connection with the meeting.

Today's session was devoted to addresses of welcome and responses, appointment of committees and reports of officers. Persident John M. Jung of Milwaukee reviewed the growth of the organization and what it has accomplished for the industry during the last year.

Subjects of interest to operating engineers in all plants in which refrigerating is utilized will be covered in papers, to be followed by discussion. Other subjects to be taken up include practical methods of testing ammonia, cooling condensed water, air-cooling by mechanical refrigeration and making ice.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR BAD COLDS

New Elixir, Called Aspironal, Medicated With Latest Scientific Remedies Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold or Cough Due to Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to refund Price While You Wait at Counter if You Cannot Feel Relief Coming Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation in the drug trade is Aspironal, the quick-acting cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye or any other cold remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in one hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel relief coming within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children, as well as for adults.

Help That Aching Back!

ACHE, ache, ache—all day long that nagging backache! You get up in the morning lame, stiff—achy all over. And so you spend the day—worn out and miserable. Evening comes and finds you barely able to drag yourself to bed. Tomorrow the same weary round of suffering. But why continue in this unhappy condition? Why not look to your kidneys, which are so likely at fault? That dull, unceasing backache, is often nature's first signal of hidden kidney weakness. Other warnings quickly follow, such as distressing kidney action, headaches, dizziness, and knife-like pains when you stoop or lift. Don't wait for serious trouble. Use Doan's Kidney Pills before it is too late. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These St. Louis Folks Found Relief

JOHN FOLEY, 738 S. Broadway, says:

"My kidneys and back were in a bad shape. I had a feeling over my kidneys which hurt terribly when I did any lifting. Sharp pains pierced through my kidneys and my kidneys did not act right. A fellow-workman recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using them I was cured so that I have not been bothered in that way for over four years." (Statement given March 15, 1920.)

On October 14, 1921, Mr. Foley said: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble. I have not been bothered in that way since."

MRS. C. IVERSON, 2831 Spring Av., says:

"When I was a girl going to school I used to get such headaches I could hardly stay at my studies. I had dizzy spells and everything would get black before me. I also suffered from nagging, stinging pains in my back that made me weak and tired. My people had used Doan's Kidney Pills and gave them to me. They soon made me strong again. I had no more of those headaches and the dizzy spells left me. I have only had to use Doan's once in awhile since that time, when my back has felt a little lame, and they have always done me the same good."

M. J. PRICE, Street Car Conductor, 4160 N. Grand Av., says:

"The constant jar and jolting of the street car and standing long hours proved too much for my kidneys. Sharp pains shot through the small of my back. Many of my fellow-workmen recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I found that Doan's cured the trouble after other remedies had failed to help me."

Illinois Central System Tells About Shortage of Transportation

We are now in one of those periods when the business of the country, including agriculture, suffers severe losses by reason of the shortage of railway transportation—the inability of the railroads to move promptly all of the traffic awaiting shipment.

The Illinois Central System is leaving nothing undone in its efforts to meet the situation. In our October statement we showed that we have this year added to our rolling equipment new cars and locomotives costing a total of more than $14,000,000. These purchases included sixty-five locomotives. Since that statement was published we have purchased, in addition, seventy-five large freight locomotives, making a total of 140 locomotives purchased this year. However, we are handling the largest traffic in the history of this system, and our patrons doubtless will continue to be inconvenienced by the general shortage of transportation facilities.

The miners' strike, which continued for nearly five months, and the railway shopmen's strike have naturally had an effect upon the present shortage of transportation, but the main cause goes far deeper than those strikes.

What is commonly called the "car shortage" is in reality a shortage of all kinds of railway facilities, including locomotives, freight cars, passing tracks, terminal facilities, etc. For a number of years the rate at which the railroads have been able to increase their facilities has gradually fallen off, while the ton mileage hauled, which represents the public demand for transportation, has been gaining steadily.

In the seven years ended with 1907 the number of locomotives increased 2,500 a year, and the number of freight cars 90,000 a year. In the next seven years the number of locomotives increased only 1,500 a year, and the number of freight cars only 50,000 a year. In the seven years ended with 1921 the number of locomotives increased only 275 a year, and the number of freight cars only 6,000 a year. The increase in the number of locomotives in the seven years ended with 1921 was only one-ninth as great as in the seven years ended with 1907, while the increase in the number of freight cars was only one-fifteenth as great. The decline in the amount and capacity of the equipment provided has been accompanied by a corresponding decline in other facilities. The condition cannot continue without causing frequently recurring losses of a serious nature to the country.

During periods of business depression, when there is a surplus of transportation, the railroads should be most active in enlarging and extending their facilities for future needs, but that has not been possible in the past because business depressions have been accompanied by widespread demands for reduced rates. Such agitations discourage railway managements when questions of recommending extensive and costly improvements are being considered and drive investors away from railway securities. When the confidence of investors in railway securities is fully restored, large expenditures for additions and betterments can be made, and the railroads will then to be able to supply all necessary transportation. This is the "railway question" in a nutshell.

What the country needs badly are many leaders among business men, farmers and workers with vision to see that business, including agriculture, must have ample railway service, and with courage to tell the truth about the transportation situation. Upon the attitude of the public toward the railroads will depend whether such crises as the present one are to be avoided in the future.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

President, Illinois Central System.

FILM TO SHOW WHAT BOND ISSUE WOULD DO

Developments Promised in Proposed Issue to Be Included in "Spirit of St. Louis."

The development of St. Louis, as promised by the improvements provided in the proposed bond issue, will be included in the showing of the film, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

A second meeting of the committee appointed by Mayor Kiel, to arrange for the preparation of the film, was held in the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon. Charles F. Hatfield, chairman of the committee, read a synopsis of the scenario as proposed. He said it would be historical and educational, and not in any sense commercial.

The Rothacker Film Co. of Chicago, which is to make the film, has arranged for its distribution with one of the large film exchanges, Hatfield said.

He mentioned, as a possible incident of the film, a scene showing former Gov. David R. Francis turning over his home at Maryland and Newstead avenues to the Junior Chamber of Commerce for a club building.

He said about $11,000 of the $25,000 needed to finance the film had been raised. Three of the large contributors, he said, were W. K. Bixby, who subscribed $1000; former Gov. Francis, $500; and Victor J. Miller, $500.

The subcommittees named were: Historical, Alexander N. DeMenil, the Rev. Dr. E. Combie Smith, superintendent of Schools Maddox, Librarian Bostwick, L. D. Kingsland, D. R. Francis and Mrs. Nettie H. Beauregard of the Missouri Historical Society; Cast and Actors, Col. C. S. Thornton, H. S. Townsend and Joseph J. Hauser; Costumes, Mrs. John Trigg Moss and Mrs. N. A. McMillan; Location, B. W. Frauenthal, Frank G. Jonah and Fire Chief Panzer. William K. Kavanaugh was appointed chairman of the Finance Committee.

CHURCH APPEALS FOR UNITED FRONT AGAINST BEER FORCES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—An appeal to all Christian people to "exert every influence to secure the impartial enforcement of all laws," was issued today by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. It declared the "announcement of the program of the forces opposed to prohibition is a direct challenge to the churches and the friends of orderly government," because they propose to support candidates in the coming election who will vote to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and wine.

The appeal, which was prepared by a special committee including William J. Bryan, asserts that the opponents of the Volstead act demand "restoration of the manufacture and sale of beer and wine in face of the fact that both are intoxicating and therefore cannot be legalized without first changing the Constitution," and that such action "would lead inevitably to the return of the outlawed saloon."

"Since the foes of prohibition are now united to defeat the Constitution," the statement concludes, "it is high time for the Christian forces of our country also to unite and to be as consistent at the ballot box in their support of the Constitution as its enemies are in attempting its nullification."

Ministers Indorse Brewster.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Nov. 1.—A resolution indorsing R. R. Brewster for election to the United States Senate and condemning the candidacy of Senator James A. Reed, his opponent, because of his "consistent opposition to all temperance legislation," was adopted unanimously here yesterday afternoon by the ministerial alliance, representing all Protestant churches of the city. The resolution states "this indorsement is made without reference to political prejudice or party affiliations," by men of "mixed political faiths."

Pottery Workers on Strike.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 1.—Twenty-five hundred sanitary ware pottery workers went on strike at the close of work here yesterday, in a dispute over wages. Officers of the union declared that 7500 other pottery workers would be made idle and that the strike would be 100 per cent effective. Some of the smaller plants are said to have acceded to demands of the workers. Sixteen plants are affected by the strike.

Oriental Rugs

Whatever the first cost, the years of service make an Orien- Rug the most economical to buy.

The resale value of Oriental Rugs increases with each passing year, thus adding to their desirability.

It is a noteworthy fact that in the hundreds of years since Oriental Rugs first came into general commerce their transcendence as the most wonderful floorcoverings in the world has never been questioned. Substitutes and imitations have passed into that desuetude which sooner or later inevitably overtakes simulation.

Handwrought, each Oriental Rug is the master conception of the weaver, whose chief heritage is the generations of his art, and it is inimitable. Of such are the Oriental Rugs in the Kennard collection. It is one of the largest in America and by far the largest in St. Louis.

29 COUNTY HOMES IN STATE ARE CONDEMNED

Seventeen Counties Reported as Maintaining No Almshouses; Infirmaries Advocated.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 1.—Twenty-nine county almshouses are condemned as "very poor" or poor in a final report by W. L. Miller, former supervisor of jails and almshouses, to the State Board of Charities and Corrections. The ratings of the county homes were made public today.

The almshouses of Cole, Dallas, Iron, Jefferson, Laclede, Lewis, Mississippi, Pemiscot, Stone and Vernon counties are ranked as "very poor," as being without proper sanitary or other facilities or in "wretched" condition.

Of one of these Miller says:

"The almshouse consists of four log shacks, the largest having four rooms. All buildings in the last stages of disrepair. No bathing or laundry facilities."

Descriptions of certain other county "homes" reveal insanitary conditions so bad as to be unprintable, it was asserted.

Classified as "Poor."

"Poor" is the classification given to the almshouses of Barton, Butler, Clark, Crawford, Davies, Grundy, Lincoln, Moniteau, New Madrid, Pike, Pulaski, Ripley, St. Charles, Schuyler, Scotland, Texas, Warren, Washington and Webster counties.

Almshouses in 28 counties were classified as "fair." They were in Barry, Bollinger, Caldwell, Callaway, Cedar, Clinton, Dent, Douglas, Dunklin, Gasconade, Henry, Holt, Howard, Howell, Lafayette, Newton, Osage, Perry, Pettis, Platte, Polk, Ralls, St. Clair, St. Louis City, Scott, Stoddard, Worth and Wright counties.

Eleven Termed Excellent.

Eleven county homes are awarded the rank of "excellent." These were in Andrew, Buchanan, Clay, Franklin, Jackson (negro), Jasper, Macon, Marion, Morgan, Randolph and Saline counties.

Seventeen counties maintain no almshouses. These are: Benton, Camden, Carter, Hickory, Knox, McDonald, Madison, Maries, Miller, Ozark, Phelps, Reynolds, St. Louis, Shannon, Taney and Wayne. Eight counties, as follows, are reported to be boarding their paupers on a contract basis: Camden, McDonald, Maries, Oregon, Phelps, Reynolds, Shannon and Wayne.

"After a State-wide survey of almshouses in Missouri, and a careful consideration of the problems presented, it is my conviction that in common humanity the State should itself provide one or more infirmaries, accessibly located, said Miller.

FREIGHT MOVEMENT INDICATES IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

Total Loaded by Railroads in Week Ended Oct. 21 Greatest in Any Week in Two Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Indications of rapidly improving conditions in the country's general business life were given today in reports to the car-service section of the American Railway Association, which, among other things, showed the greatest weekly loading of freight from which the railroads derived revenue in two years. The reports disclosed that, with the exception of four weeks in September and October, 1920, the loading of 1,003,759 cars of revenue freight the week of Oct. 21 was the greatest on record.

A record of 596,392 cars loaded with merchandise and miscellaneous freight, which includes manufactured products also, was established during the week, the association reports. This was an increase of 7294 cars over the week of Sept. 30, when all previous high marks for that class of freight were broken. As compared with the corresponding week in 1920, the association said, the week's total showed an increase of 36,564, while it was 20,230 cars more than the corresponding week last year.

The loading of grain and grain products for the week, a total of 58,680 cars, also showed substantial increases over the corresponding weeks of 1920 and last year.

Don't Spoil a Good Meal With a Bad Stomach

It is really a pitiful sight to see so many thousands of people worrying about what they can eat and what they can't eat.

Dyspeptics, they call themselves, but they stretch the imagination when they do it.

All these people need to make them healthy, cheerful and of sound appetite is a box of Mi-O-Na Tablets.

The stomach of a dyspeptic is overworked and run down. It needs help to digest the food, but more than that, it needs a prescription that will cleanse, renovate, strengthen and put elasticity into the stomach walls.

Mi-O-Na is the prescription that will do this, and do it so promptly that you'll wonder why you didn't try it before.

It stops belching of gas and distress after eating in five minutes. It is undoubtedly the greatest stomach tonic ever given to the public by a specialist in stomach diseases.

Be more critical of your battery

You will get about the kind of battery service you demand. If all you want is ordinary performance, you will be satisfied with nearly any battery.

If you wish to get the most from your automobile, you will look into the subject of batteries. You will find out if there is one battery that gives the maximum combination of power, reliability, and long service.

Whether you talk with users of different types, examine the construction of the several makes, or go by reputation, we are satisfied you will ultimately settle on the Exide. You will find that Exide quality is not only a satisfaction, but an economy. It saves many dollars in length of service and freedom from repair.

The main thing is to demand reliability and real lasting power of a battery, and not to be satisfied until you get it. You are heartily invited to go, in a critical mood, to the nearest place where Exide, the long-life battery, is sold.

Britton Defends Title Tonight in Bout With Youth

"Mickey" Walker, New Jersey Welterweight, Is 21 Years Old—Has Met Champion Before.

Youthful Challenger Is Physical Equal of Veteran Title Holder

The two men measure up almost equally in every respect save age. Britton, 37, is 16 years the senior of his youthful opponent. Their physical measurements follow:

BRITTON.		WALKER.
37 years	Age	21 years
147 lbs.	Weight	147 lbs.
15 in.	Neck	15 in.
37 in.	Chest (normal)	36 in.
40 in.	Chest (expanded)	36½ in.
12 in.	Biceps	12 in.
30 in.	Waist	29 in.
11 in.	Forearm	11 in.
20½ in.	Thigh	21¾ in.
14½ in.	Calf	15 in.
8½ in.	Ankle	8½ in.
70 in.	Reach	67½ in.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—New York hasn't had a championship battle in many days that has excited the interest that attaches to the meeting between Jack Britton, veteran king of welterweights, and Mickey Walker, New Jersey whirlwind, which takes place in Madison Square Garden this evening.

The only "dope" on the engagement comes from a meeting in New Jersey last year, when Britton was acclaimed the winner in one of the Jersey "no decision" bouts. The pair went 12 rounds then in a fast and furious mill. Britton had Walker on the floor in the first round, but the youngster came back, and according to men who saw the battle, was the stronger at the last bell. These men assert that the 15-round route tonight will be in favor of Walker.

Britton Has No Punch.

Few of the supporters of Britton figure that he will win by a knockout. He is not a hitter of the knockout type. But the Walker partisans are confident of a surprising ending. They are mostly folk from Jersey, for Walker has never fought in New York City, though he has engaged in many battles. They declare that Mickey is such a smashing, damaging hitter that it will take only one of his wallops in the right place to spoil all of the fancy defense of Britton. To land that one wallop they assert that Walker has quite enough science.

They also point to the fact that Britton, after "showing up" Leonard for a dozen rounds, was weakening and hit the floor when Leonard committed the foul that lost the battle in the Velodrome. This, they declare, shows that Britton cannot go the 15-round route when carried along at a fast pace by a willing, rushing fighter of the style of Walker.

Eddie Fitzsimmons, who has lost one decision in three, will appear in the semifinal against Sailor Friedman. The six-round event will show Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo against Red Cap Wilson of Yonkers, and Johnny Gannon and Charley Goodman will open the evening in a four-round affair.

Schnaus Out of Grinnell Battle

Injured in Ames Game, Washington's Strongest End Must Remain on Sidelines.

Al Schnaus, Washington University's star left end, will not be able to play against Grinnell Saturday, because of the broken bone in his hand, suffered last week in playing against Ames. It will be the first game on the Piker schedule Schnaus has missed since he joined the squad last year. He has played in 14 straight contests.

With Schnaus on the side lines, Coach Rider will put his versatile star, "Baldy" Thumser, on the end. Every member of the Red and Green backfield is in excellent shape, which means Baldy's absence will not seriously affect the offense, especially since Thumser is a flash on receiving passes and a fast, sure tackler.

Coach Rider has not yet decided what he will do on kick formations, with Thumser, his regular punter, on the line. He may call "Baldy" back for punts, but if necessary, Claypool, Lyle or Green could boot satisfactorily.

Tackling Part of Daily Grind.

The Pikers worked yesterday afternoon until after dark, when a heavy rainfall put an end to the practice. The squad first went through a vigorous tackling practice, now a daily feature, which was followed by scrimmage against the freshmen.

Coach Davis' yearlings took the offensive, using Grinnell plays, but met with little success against the rapidly improving Piker defense. Dick Bradley, whom Coach Rider used for a while at guard, demonstrated that the coaches have not been wasting their time on him and broke up several attacks.

This afternoon the Pikers will have another defensive scrimmage practice against the freshmen, to be followed after supper by a skull session in the gymnasium.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 1.—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, and Joe Kirkwood, famous Australian golfer, will play against local amateurs at the Molla Golf Club here today. They will play 36 holes and Kirkwood wil give his exhibition of fancy shots

What Next?

FRANKIE MASON, former holder of the United States flyweight boxing championship, was matched to fight in New York City under the auspices of Leo Flynn, formerly matchmaker of Madison Square Garden Athletic Club.

Mason went to New York and started to condition himself for the bout. He was told by the Boxing Commission that the match could not take place because he would have to go before the State Board and prove that he was not a novice—that he was able to put up a creditable bout!

This to the man who held the American title; who as champion gave Jimmy Wilde, then at his peak, one of the toughest fights he had on his American visit; and who was jockeyed out of his title by connivance at New Orleans.

Mason was too proud to submit.

It is only one of many instances that are accumulating monthly to prove that the Muldoon boxing board, while well-meaning, is not proceeding along discreet lines. When the members think it necessary to ask a near-champion to go and get a reputation it almost touches the limit.

Mason's Case.

MASON was in St. Louis yesterday en route to San Antonio, Tex., where he is matched Nov. 4 with Johnny McCoy of New York. It will be Mason's first fight since he went into summer quarters to rest up. Now he is endeavoring to fight his way into the championship.

Mason is over 30 years old, but except for a gnarled fist, the result of a broken right hand, there is no mark on him to show that he has been through 300 fights in his career.

Throughout his ring experience, because he is at his best at 110 pounds or less, he has had to concede weight to opponents.

I saw the weigh-in at Toledo for his world's championship fight with Wilde. The Briton weighed 106¼ and Mason 106. Yet Mason has been fighting men like Pete Herman, then bantam champion, and other stars of the 118-pound division.

It was a weird move by the commission to ask of such a fighter: "Who are you, anyway? Show us whether you can box?"

How Titles Pass.

THE Louisiana Boxing Commission, rather unfairly it might seem, took away Mason's American title and awarded it to Johnny Buff. Because Buff was a metropolitan district boxer there was not much trouble in getting the indorsement of the Louisiana report recognized by Buff's home district commission.

Nevertheless Mason received a bad deal if his oft-repeated story stands up. Here it is, as told by Mason:

"I had been boxing through the country at least once a week—barnstorming, if you will. I had been married only a few months and I needed the money. I took on anybody and barred nobody. I gave them all a fight.

"One of the matches offered was with Johnny Buff of Jersey City. He is as old as I, but I knew he was clever. I agreed to meet him at 15 rounds, weight 116 pounds. That did not involve the title, so I went my way and kept on meeting all comers.

"I was in good condition as regards weight, but I had been fighting too much. Perhaps I was stale. I figured Buff a hard match, but I thought that constant fighting would serve to fit me better than training. So I went into New Orleans.

Putting One Over.

"THE weight was 116 pounds and I thought the bout could not be a championship, as 112 pounds is the flyweight maximum. Two or three days before the fight I found the billboard and press literature was all 'championship fight.'

"I complained that this was not true, and that the weight of 116 pounds in the articles of agreement proved it." (Mason showed me a copy of the articles which named this figure). "I was told that the championship claim was 'just publicity,' so I let it go.

"But when we weighed in Buff scaled under 112 pounds. Get this, because 112 pounds is the flyweight limit.

"We fought. It was a good fight. Buff was at his best. I was tired and stale, but gave a good account of myself. He blacked my eye, I hurt his body. The decision went against me.

"And because Buff had made the weight, although the articles specified 116 pounds, proving that it was not intended for a title match, I lost not only the decision, but the title.

"Mind you, I wasn't stopped. Not even badly beaten. I was perhaps outpointed in what was not intended as a title fight.

"That's how I came to be let out. Furthermore, Buff would not give me a return fight. Recently the only chance I have had to fight in New York was turned down because they doubted whether I was able to put up a fight!

"If that's a square deal, I can build a ship out of toothpicks."

BECAUSE New York has all the big money it now appears that Mason will have to lick the Muldoon boot as well as the champion before he comes into his own.

He is today the logical man to fight Pancho Villa, the Filipino boy who won the flyweight title by whipping a sick man—Johnny Buff.

Pancho, although evidently a keen fighter, will have his troubles mastering Mason. Frankie is wise in years and experience, is an iceberg under fire and despite a broken right hand, can shoot about a dozen hard shots with this fist during a 10-round fight. He seems afraid to risk it more often. But when he lets go, be sure it finds its mark.

Western Elevens Looming Large in Camp's Estimation

Veteran Finds Half a Dozen Western Elevens of Really Formidable Strength.

By Walter Camp.

(Copyright, 1922.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The football teams of the Middle West are rapidly being separated into two groupings—those which have found themselves and those which have merely found strong opposition. Michigan today is looming up more prominently than ever. Minnesota is coming strong and Iowa is getting back into its stride again.

Chicago has a good team—undoubtedly good. The Midway boys lost the game with Princeton mathematically because they could not earn the possible extra points after touchdowns. But the deeper reason for their defeat lay in the fact that they did not realize how dangerous a Princeton team is when apparently going down to defeat. Lack of this same knowledge of the Tigers' characteristics undoubtedly cost Harvard her game with Princeton last year. Chicago is not likely to underestimate another opponent in like manner—at least not this year.

Knute Rockne at Notre Dame seems to be doing unexpectedly well in spite of the disruption of his last year's veterans, which cost him practically all of his stars. He still finds, however, that he can not take chances by trying to save out two or three of his backfield men. He was forced to shove them in last Saturday against Georgia Tech.

California Best in Far West.

California is coming on as the leader out on the Pacific coast, but is not so strong as last year or the year before. There were some who thought the Berkeley team might find the wiping-up of the University of Southern California too much of a job; but that team proved less strong than it was in 1921 and California came through.

Stanford is showing some improvement, but it looks like a pretty hopeless task to expect the Palo Alto warriors to defeat California the end of November. There are other teams in the Pacific Coast Conference playing good football but not good enough to handle Andy Smith's men.

The South certainly had its bumps in the defeat of Auburn by West Point, Centre by Harvard and Georgia Tech by Notre Dame, but let there be no mistake, the South is going at it again undismayed and will come back in future years.

Eastern Teams Levelling.

There is an evening up process evidently going on in the standing of Penn State, Washington and Jefferson, Syracuse and Pittsburg. Warners players, after two defeats, have begun to get together. Syracuse did well against Penn State and Bezdek's team found it had not the scoring quality that marked it when Killinger was in moleskins. Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson are each good when all their crack men are in the lineup.

Pennsylvania under Heisman, has made great strides. Penn's defeat of the Navy has opened the eyes of the public to the fact that the Philadelphia team is a-coming and that it will play better football than for several seasons. The job of trimming Cornell looks big, however, for the Ithacans are strong and steady. In Kaw, Cornell has one of the best men in the backfield on the gridiron this year.

Harvard is devoting a lot of attention today to defensive tactics against possible Princeton forward pass attacks. A period of hard scrimmage is in store for the Harvard regulars who will not be spared, as the subs probably will carry the burden of the game against Florida Saturday.

TIGER-BILLIKEN "GATE" APPROACHES $11,000 MARK

St. Louis University officials announced today that the "gate" for the Missouri-U. St. Louis game at Sportsman's Park last Saturday fell but a few dollars short of $11,000. More than $10,000 was obtained through tickets sales and some additional revenue came in through students' athletic association tickets. Missouri was guaranteed $5000.

College Women Meet To Form Permanent Athletic Association

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.

WOMEN delegates from Eastern colleges will meet at Cornell University Friday and Saturday to consider organization of an intercollegiate association for the advancement of athletics for girls. Sports for feminine participation will be selected and a system of awards arranged.

The conference follows a mass meeting of the Cornell women's athletic association, Oct. 18, and is an outgrowth of the participation of an American team in the international track and field games in Paris.

Delegates to the Cornell conference will participate in a hockey game on Friday.

Barker Will Fine Hoover Team for Walking Off Field

Will Ask for Law Against Such Practice—Foley Advocates Due Referee System.

The Barrett-Hoover Soccer Club of the St. Louis Soccer League, will be fined by the league for having deserted the field of play before the expiration of their game last Sunday, according to Winton E. Barker, president of the league. Barker did not intimate what sum would be assessed the club.

It became known yesterday that there is no rule in the league by-laws designating what action should be taken against a club or player who deserts the field. President Barker said that at a meeting of officials this week he would ask for the adoption of a rule governing such a contingency. He said that he probably would ask that in the future the transgressing club be deprived of its share of the gate receipts for that day. For an average Sunday that would be an amount approaching $300.

The Hoovers left the field late in the second half when they were dissatisfied with the judgment of a goal linesman on a play which resulted in a score for the Vesper-Buicks. The Buicks were awarded the game by Referee McSweeney, 2 to 0.

"Two Referees Needed."

Manager Foley of the Hoovers did not protest the result of the national challenge cup game, but he voiced his dissatisfaction with the conduct of the game by Referee McSweeney.

"I have contended for the past two seasons that soccer as played by our teams is too fast for one referee," said Foley. "It is physically impossible for a referee to keep abreast of the ball and it is therefore evident that he cannot give just decisions.

"I believe that we should introduce a double referee system, each man to take one half of the field and be supreme in his territory. The ground which he would be asked to cover would then be reduced by half; the plays which required his attention would be reduced by half and his efficiency would be doubled. In order to handle a game well the referee must be at all times close to the ball."

Amateur Soccer Notes.

The St. Boniface eleven won from the Our Lady of Sorrows Parish team Sunday, 2 goals to 0. The St. Boniface team will meet the St. Johns next Sunday.

The Stoffs, an independent amateur eleven, wishes to book games. Ollie Stoff, 6343 Alabama avenue, manages the team.

After getting away to a one-goal lead in the first half, the Eckers were overtaken and defeated by the Eugene eleven in a soccer game last Sunday. B. A. Stelmach, 1733 Dolman street, is in charge of the Eugenes.

St. Louis Chapter of the De Molays won from the Terry Stars, 2 to 1. Plegge was the offensive star and Yaeger and Kullander were conspicuous in the backfield for the winners. J. Simplains, 5857 Page boulevard, wishes to book games for the De Molays.

Coulterville won a decisive victory over Dowell, Ill., Sunday, 5 to 0. Manager Sam Coils, Coulterville, Ill., has issued a challenge to St. Louis teams.

STECHER AND CUTLER WILL WRESTLE IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Metropolitan wrestling season will be opened tonight with three bouts, two between leading contenders for the world's heavyweight championship title, held by Ed "Strangler" Lewis. In the other Peter Jarvis will defend his crown as world's middleweight champion against Ed Fields.

Of first importance will be the struggle, best two out of three falls, between Joe Stecher and Charley Cutler. Stecher is a former world's heavyweight champion.

PENN'S STAR QUARTER OUT WITH INJURED LEG

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—Al Langdon, star quarterback of the University of Pennsylvania football eleven, who figured in some of the sensational plays with Navy last Saturday, received a severe "charley horse" in this afternoon's scrimmage. Clarke Craig, the Oklahoma flash, who has been ill for the last month, reported to Coach Heisman this afternoon, and probably will play quarterback next Saturday.

30 Local Tenpin Teams to Compete In Midwest Event

Twenty-Seven Entries Are Already Assured, With Six More in Sight.

By Herman Wecke.

When the annual Middle West Bowling Association tournament opens at Kansas City Nov. 24, it is expected that at least 30 quintets from St. Louis will be entered. This city will, with Des Moines and Omaha, be in the running for the 1924 tournament, and for that reason a goodly number of local fives will compete for the prizes.

The annual meeting of the association will be held on Nov. 26 and all of the St. Louis delegates will be there at the time. A special train will depart from here the night of Nov. 24, carrying all the tenpinners. At present 27 teams are lined up as a certainty, while it is possible that six others will send in their entries before the lists close Nov. 14.

The St. Louis Convention Bureau has notified officials of the local tenpin association that it will help boost for St. Louis to land the 1923 tourney.

The teams that are assured are as follows: American Zinc, American Zinc Specials, United Bakery Supply, Palace Alleys, Palace Alley Specials, Witter's Razz, Wooster Lamberts, Budweisers, Union Fuel, Missouri Pacific No. 1, 2 and 3, Stein Juniors, Stein Junior No. 2, Victor Drug, Fred Kastors, Big Four Auto, Pflueger's Rex, St. Louis Passenger Association, St. Louis Material and Supply, H. C. Mennes, Petersons, Dr. Lagear's 1923, Sweeney 1923 Boosters, Sweeney Specials and Sweeney Tigers.

All these with the exception of the Victor Drug and Sweeney Tigers will roll Nov. 25 and 26. The two quintets will compete Nov. 26 and 27.

There also is a chance that the Hope League, Knights of Columbus, Alpen Braus, Pennsylvanias, Chamber of Commerce and Wabash will enter fives.

Baseball Veteran on the Job.

The Kansas City tournament committee is headed by Charles "Kid" Nichols, old time baseball pitcher, and officials are making preparations to handle 275 five-man teams during the rolling of the tournament.

The Middle West will be the first tournament of the 1922-23 campaign for the St. Louis tenpinners, as the city scratch event does not start until Dec. 9.

Local Tenpin Drive Is On.

Officials of the St. Louis Tenpin Association at present are bending all efforts towards getting a total of 500 teams in the organization. At last count, a day before the lists closed, there were 458, with leagues comprising 56 quintets still "out in the cold." A year ago there were 460 fives in the association.

St. Louis was the first city association to boast of 400 quints, but since then has fallen behind Chicago, which has 800. Kansas City, Louisville, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit are right on the heels of this city.

Many Tourneys Planned.

Besides the regular city scratch and handicap tournaments, several other events are planned for the campaign. Jack Heibert, president of the Interstate Railroad Men's Association, has called a meeting for Nov. 12, when dates will be set for the annual tournament, which is limited to railroad men from this city, East St. Louis, Granite City and other places, where bowlers have established averages. A year ago, when the first event was held, 50 teams competed.

Them the Knights of Columbus will hold a city handicap tournament, and possibly an Intertsate scratch affair. The Craftmen's League is talking about an interstate event and also a city tournament. W. E. Taylor, president of the league, has received word from Chicago that 20 teams from that city would compete in an interstate tournament.

Another possibility is an inter-fraternity tournament.

City Tourney Dec. 9.

Entry blanks for the city scratch tournament, which will be rolled on the Palace alleys, starting Dec. 9, will be issued in a few days. The entries close Nov. 30, and the entry fee is $1.25 a man for each event. A determined effort will be made by oficials of the local association to get a record entry.

Nebraska Fears Overconfidence May Cause Defeat at Syracuse

Cornhusker Supporters Believe Team Is Being Praised Too Highly for Morale of the Players—Team Is One of the Most Powerful That Has Represented the West.

By C. S. Sherman,
Sports Editor of the Lincoln Star.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 1.—With honors standing even in the East vs. West football argument to date, the results of the Iowa-Yale and Princeton-Chicago conflicts so far representing a 50-50 division of the spoils, the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 25 strong, departed today for their game with Syracuse next Saturday at Syracuse, N. Y., where they will make their effort to tilt the scales in favor of the West.

So far as Nebraska is concerned, let it be said that the Cornhuskers will be fit and ready for the renewal of the intersectional discussion.

Judging from the recent surprising performance and show of strength by the Orange team in battling Penn State to a scoreless tie, just as much may be said for Syracuse, so the stage seems to be set for an interesting, if not thrilling, football drama next Saturday.

While the Cornhuskers of 1922 were overrated by the flattery of Coach O'Rourke of St. Louis U., who recently ranked this year's Nebraska eleven as the greatest in the history of college football, it is no weakling team which Nebraska is sending East. To begin with, the Cornhuskers inaugurated the season with 20 "letter" men in moleskins.

Head Coach Dawson's policy at Nebraska has aimed at slow development, yet his Husker gladiators, grinding steadily but surely, have given convincing proof of their power by successively defeating South Dakota, Missouri and Oklahoma, piling up 153 points while allowing their opponents a single touchdown

Well fortified with veteran performers in every position, the Cornhuskers have rounded into the final lap of the campaign with an aggregation which has reason to hope for victory and to offer no excuses should defeat be its portion.

Win or lose at Syracuse, it is agreed in the Cornhusker camp that Nebraska will face its eastern foe with an eleven at least the equal in any of the most formidable elevens the Husker institution has developed in the past 20 years.

Best Plays Still Uncovered.

Special preparations for the Syracuse fray were inaugurated Monday afternoon on Nebraska Field. Behind locked gates and during a drizzling rain, the Cornhuskers ran signals on a series of new formations designed for the entertainment of the Orange warriors.

Plays which the Huskers kept under cover in conquering Oklahoma last Saturday were rehearsed by Dawson's husky pupils, along with the new offensive tactics.

Dawson is prepared to pit two complete sets of backs against the Easterners, one the equal in power and drive of the other, and the hope is strong in the Cornhusker camp that the Syracuse defensive will be subjected to a grinding test.

The convincing manner in which last year's Nebraska eleven overthrew Pitt U., together with the belief that Syracuse probably is stronger than the Warner eleven of 1921, has encouraged Nebraska adherents to rate the Cornhuskers favorites in the Syracuse fray. The real danger at Nebraska is that Dawson's men may fall for the lure of over-confidence, possibly losing a battle which they have the power and punch to win.

CORRY AND GAFFNEY LEADERS IN 6-DAY RACE

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Frank Corry and Lawrence Gaffney took the lead in the six-day bicycle race here last night after an hour's sprinting, deposing Alfred Goullet and Ernest Kockler, the latter of Chicago. The leaders had 118 points to their credit while the team in second place had piled up 102.

The riders had covered 870 miles at 10 o'clock last night, the forty-eighth hour of the race, which will end next Saturday night. Fourteen of the 15 teams that started last Sunday night were still in the grind tonight although three of them were a lap behind the field. Freddie Hill and Morence Declerck, the Belgian, were in a bad smashup during last night's sprints, both being knocked unconscious. After a brief rest, they were able to continue.

HANNEGAN SHIFTED TO END; KLAUSNER PLAYS FULL FOR BILLIKENS

Steve O'Rourke, Billiken coach, is all steamed up over his dormant attack of the St. Louis U. eleven. In fact, Steve has gotten up more steam over its impotency that the Billikens backs have mustered in some five games. Yesterday afternoon in scrimmage, the St. Louis U. director made a definite step toward bringing the team out of its defensive shell and preparing for a wide open offensive.

The latest change is a switch that lifted Bob Hannegan out of the fullback position and deposited him at left end. Bob is fairly fast, is shifty and can hold a forward pass. The backs thus far have not shown an aptitude for getting away on long runs and their only success against good teams has been gained through the agency of forward passes. Thus, it looks like shifting Hannegan to end means the Billiken attack of the future will revolve around Schaefering's open field ability and Hannegan's accomplished work on forward passes.

Eli Klausner, who has been out with an injured knee will take Hannegan's place at fullback in the game against the Rolla Miners Saturday. Klausner is a good defensive back and a plunger with plenty of power. His added weight in the backfield should lend a drive to the offensive.

Left End Kelly is still out of the game and is not likely to return for about a week. Capt. Eggler, erstwhile quarterback, played at half throughout the scrimmage last night.

THIRTY AMATEUR BOXERS APPEAR IN TOURNEY AT ROCK SPRINGS TONIGHT

Thirty boxers will participate in an amateur tournament at the Rock Springs Turner Hall, Spring and Chouteau avenues, tonight under the direction of the St. Louis Athletic Club. Matchmaker Demko planned originally to make the affair a two-day tournament, but at the last moment the entry list was reduced, through failure of many of the entrants to appear last night to be examined and weighed.

One of the most promising bouts on the program is that between Ray Alfano, Western A. A. U. champion, at 112 pounds, and Sollie Kessler. Alfano will not be able to make 112 pounds. He weighs now about 117 pounds.

Piker Net Team Unbeaten Since Season of 1920

Washington U. Players Have Won Eleven and Tied Two of Fourteen Matches Played.

LOST BUT ONE MATCH

By Davison Obear.

Prospects for tennis at Washington University this year are very bright, despite the loss of Ray Brown, Charles Barnes and Charles Sauselle, members of last year's team. Karl Kammann is the only player to return and it has been necessary to select three new tennis men for the team.

Last week the Pikers won their first contest of the year by defeating the Illinois team, 5 to 3. William H. Bierman, former junior champion of this city, and Jack Minner were chosen to assist Captain Karl Kammann against Illinois. Minner is a former Southern Illinois champion and also won the interscholastic tournament conducted by Illinois University three years ago.

Kammann stepped into Wray Brown's place as the leading college player of the Central West when he defeated Captain Franklin Meyers in the Illinois contest. Meyers won the singles championship of the "Big Ten" conference at Chicago in June.

Lost One Match.

Since May 1920 Washington University tennis teams have engaged in 14 events, winning eleven and losing one. Two of the events resulted in tie scores. This is probably the best record of any college team in this section of the country.

The Oklahoma University team defeated the Pikers in October, 1920 and since that time, now two years, Washington has not been defeated at tennis. Ben Parks is not at Oklahoma this year so that Washington has a good chance to win the Missouri Valley Conference next May. Parks won the singles title this year by defeating Wray Brown in the finals at Kansas City on May 28.

Washington 2. Oklahoma 1.
Oklahoma 4. Washington 1.
WON MISSOURI VALLEY CONFERENCE
1921
Washington 6. Milliken 0.
Washington 9. Illinois 3.
Washington 5. Oklahoma 3.
Washington 10. Illinois 2.
Won Missouri Valley Conference.
Washington 4. Oklahoma 3.
Washington 4. St. Louis U. 0.
1922
Washington 3. Milliken 0.
Washington 6. Illinois 6.
Tied Missouri Valley Conference.
Washington 5. Illinois 3.

RECAPITULATION—Events won, 11; lost 1, tied 2. Individual matches—won, 55; lost, 25. Total number of players used, 9. Wray Brown, Walter Haase, Val Satterfield, Karl Kammann, Charles Barnes, Walter Mendez, Charles Sauselle, William Bierman and Jack Minner.

YALE INVITES IOWA U. TEAM TO PLAY IN NEW HAVEN NEXT SEASON

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 1.—Definite announcement that Yale has invited Iowa to play at the Yale Bowl next season was made here last night. An answer from Iowa is expected soon.

This invitation indicates conclusively that intersectional games are not barred by the "triangle agreement" made by Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

The invitation to Iowa was sent out by the Yale Athletic Association last Saturday. No definite date for a game was set, but Yale is anxious to have the game about the same time as this year.

Prof. Clarence W. Mendell, chairman of the Yale Board of Athletic Control, said last night: "We are very anxious to meet Iowa next year and are hoping that they will be able to accept the invitation. There have been reports that the Western Conference has barred intersectional games, but inasmuch as we haven't received any confirmation of this, we are inviting Iowa to play us here again."

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 1.—Athletic Director Howard Jones of Iowa University said he had not received a formal invitation from Yale inviting Iowa to play at New Haven next fall. He was not willing to say what attitude would be taken on the resolution adopted by the Western Conference schools suggesting the abandonment of intersectional games.

CENTRE COLLEGE MEETS POWERFUL ELEVEN IN KENTUCKY U. SATURDAY

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 1.—The two most powerful football teams that Kentucky has ever produced, according to football fans, will clash on Stoll Field Saturday when Centre College and the University of Kentucky meet. Standing room is scheduled to be at a premium when the two premier elevens hold their 1922 tilt.

The seating capacity of the football arena is 5000 and it is estimated by university authorities that 2000 or 3000 extra will be clamoring for a look at the Colonels and Wildcats as they line up for the fray.

It will be Home Coming day for the alumni of the institution. Six or seven hundred of those who already have spent four years urging Wildcats on to victory will be back in the bleachers to yell once more for the Blue and White to fight, fight, fight. Two hundred reservations for seats already have been made by alumni and it is expected that this number will be greatly increased.

The program will be wholly informal, group luncheons at noon, the game, and dancing in the evening.

CLOSE IRREGULAR IN ACTIVE TRADE ON STOCK MARKET

Afternoon Rally Not Held—Call Money Rate Up—Liberty Bonds Rule Firm—Exchange Rates Firm.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Distinct irregularity prevailed in the stock market today. After a firm and fairly quiet morning weakness apeared during the noon hour and became acute during the fourth hour, when call money rose 5 to 6 per cent. During this phase the market looked quite weak, certain of the speculative leaders being subjected to heavy professional pressure and many losses of a point or 2 being forced. During the last hour, however, a strong rally developed which left the day's changes irregular. In the bond deparement Libertys again were firm, foreigns showed some recovery and the speculative descriptions were irregular. Trading during the afternoon was on a distinctly active basis and brought total sales to approximately a million and a quarter.

Exchange Rates Firm.

"All Saints day rodilay abroad naturally had a quieting effect on the foreign exchange market. A slight burst of strength at London, and in the early trading here, was followed by a flattening out which left prices generally firm. Italian lire continued to advance on the favorable reception of the new Cabinet, reaching 4.23 cents at London. Even after receding to 4.20½ cents on this side of the water the net gain still amounted to 5 points. French francs started firm, but then sagged to 7.03 cents for a loss of 2½ points. Sterling was ⅛ of a cent higher at $4.45⅝ and German marks continued to command about .02¼ of a cent. The other continentals were firm.

"The feature of the commodity market was a sharp upturn in wheat, which appeared to be due to somewhat better export demand and to short covering. In any event, the December delivery, after dipping to $1.13⅛ was up to a new high of $1.16⅝. This price represented an advance of 2¾ cents on the day. Corn, meanwhile, gained 2 cents, December reaching 68⅛ cents. Cotton on the other hand ruled lower on profit-taking which has been called out by the present high prices and a slow falling off in the spot demand. At a late price of 24.00 cents the December delivery was off 20 points.

Steel Industry Situation.

"With the steel market plainly returning to normal after the distrubing effects of the strikes, business naturally are waiting to see at what level prices will come to a natural equilibrium. According to the Iron Age Connellsville coke has now declined to $7.50 a ton at the ovens or to a price only half that reached at the top of the market which came just before the coal strike began. Pig iron also continues to recede. Demand continues to come chiefly from the railroads which are reported to be still buying equipment liberally while on the producers side the independents are said to be booked for about two months ahead, a situation which contrasts with the decidedly stronger position of the steel corporation. Output is being maintained at the recent rate and while transportation is approximately equal to demands, some trouble is caused by a shortage of box cars. Meanwhile the American Railway Association reports that car loadings for the week ended Oct. 21 reached 1,004,000 cars thus setting new high record for the year."

Helping the Young Man Get His Start

THIS bank numbers among its depositors many progressive young men and is always glad to welcome others.

Our interest is not measured by the size of the balance at the start, for we realize that many new accounts must begin in a modest way.

To young men with their careers before them, we extend a cordial invitation to make this their banking home.

LOWER PRICES FOR OILS FEATURE OF CURB TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Lower prices throughout the oil department, were again the rule in the trading on the Curb Eychange today. The profesional elements continued active.

There were a few exceptions to the general tendency. Vacuum Oil selling ex-dividend $10, held firm most of the session, around its previous close. Standard of Indiana stood up better than most of the others. Standard of New York, Imperial Oil of Canada, Standard Oil of Ky. and Ohio Oil, however, went lower from the start.

Gulf Oil of Penna., among the independent group, broke over a point and Mutual Oil, Salt Creek Producers and Southern States were easier. Southern States Oil sold ex-dividend 1 per cent today.

There was very little of importance in the industrial section. The price movement for the most part was highly irregular. National Bircuit, traded in on a when issued basis, was active for a time and reached somewhat higher prices as a result of short covering by those who had sold at higher levels last week. New York Telephone pfd. was also slightly better.

Peerless Motor and Cleveland Motor were the features in the motor department, both stocks recovering substantial gains, while the rest of the group were either neglected or slightly lower.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The market for cotton goods was quiet, but not dull today. Volume of business was not large, but in general prices were firm. As was to be expected, some profit-taking at second hands has made its appearance. Twills, drills and sateens continued in demand and sheetings were very firm. The bag trade is still in the market. A fair business was done in osnaburgs. The silk market in Yokohama was reported very active today with sales of 8000 bales. Prices here, however, showed no change. XXA 13x15 was quoted at $8.70; best number 1 X at $8.60; Kansai number 1 $8.50 and canton 14x16, $8.10.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The early raw sugar market today was unchanged at 3⅝ cents for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 5.53c for centrifugal, with no sales reported.

Raw sugar futures opened easier under renewed liquidation by commission houses with prices five to six points net lower. Offerings were light, however, and prices rallied a few points on coverings and at midday were one to five points net lower.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 7.90c to 7c for fine granulated with the demand light.

Refined futures nominal.

Sugar futures closed steady; approximate sales, 8000 tons. December, 3.62c; March, 3.17c; May, 3.31c; July, 3.44c.

The Wool Market.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—The withdrawal of carpet prices by large manufacturers with the belief that advances will be announced shortly had a strengthening effect on portions of the wool market today. Business was somewhat dull as many dealers have nothing to sell and others are said to be confident of better prices. Considerable speculative trading was in evidence in the East Indian wools.

Pierce Oil Directorate Falls.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A writ of peremptory mandamus, directing the officers of the Pierce Oil Corporation to call a meeting of preferred stockholders to elect a new directorate was granted to preferred stockholders today by Supreme Court Justice O'Malley. The petitioners claimed that under the by-laws of the company, a Virginia corporation, failure to pay four quaterly dividends to preferred stockholders, automatically gave preferred stockholders the legal right to select directors.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER DUE TO LATE BUYING MOVEMENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Action of the cotton market today reflected not only slowing down of trade demand on advances noticeable Tuesday, but the weakness in securities. Liverpool eased off for the first time this week, with a reaction of 35 American points in some positions. Developments were such as to unsettle many speculative holders bringing out a quantity of contracts on stop loss orders. For over an hour selling proved heavy, carrying March from a closing level of 24c to 23.67c before pressure began to lessen. After a 30-point morning decline trade buying which was withheld over 24c again appeared with steadying effect on quotations. As the morning decline represented a setback of nearly 70 points on March from Monday's high, several room traders were more disposed to furnish support. Heretofore the most extensive setback since the advance started at 20½c had been only a little over ¾c. That an advance in prices over 24c thus early in the season brings to bear several important considerations is undeniable. First and foremost is the question of the yield. Of late there has been a disposition in certain quarters to lower figures below the 10,000,000 mark. But it is now Nov. 1 and there has been no frost. Today's weekly summary indicated cotton maturing in Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina and Texas. There has already been ginned about 7,000,000 bales, and the forthcoming census report on November will be extremely important. Second, there are conflicting reports concerning the attitude of the ultimate consumer. Some retailers say, according to report, that higher prices for goods are being resisted by buyers in various sections of the country.

Trading was quiet during the early afternoon and bulges were not fully maintained, but there was a little scattered buying on the large exports for the day and prices held steady around 2 o'clock with December at 24.03c or about 16 points net lower. Exports today were slightly over 112,000. The market really was featured by a large speculative buying movement, which occurred in the last hour of trading. Not only was all the loss of the day recovered, but prices gained about 10 points on the day. December closed at 24.35c to 24.37c and March at 24.09c to 24.10c.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Bond prices moved irregularly in today's dull market. Except in the case of a few speculative issues there was no pressure to sell. There was conspicuous lack of buying orders. Opinions as to the future of the market vary widely. Meanwhile there was active inquiry for good short term issues which could be held until the trend was more clearly indicated and then because of their short term could be sold around the present level. Callable bonds well secured were in demand and for the same reason. An example is Northwest Bell Telephone 7s, which sell within a fraction of the callable price. Government bonds continued the improvement shown Tuesday, although opening prices were a few cents lower. High grade rails and industrials held about steady. Probably the most interesting fluctuations were in the foreign list where Swiss 8s, which had been reactionary Tuesday, dropped a point today and then rallied two. Swiss bonds are regarded with more favor perhaps than any other foreign issue unless it is the obligations of Canada and Great Britain. Undoubtedly if the Swiss 8s were non-callable they would sell a great deal higher. Even at 117, at which one block of bonds were sold today, the yield if called at 101 in 1930 is under 6½ per cent. French 7½s rallied from Tuesday's low. Bolivia 8s equaled the low of the year. City of Prague 7½s also lost ground. Among second grade and speculative railroad bonds, St. Paul convertible 4½s rallied sharply from Tuesday's weakness but the Erie issues continued their reaction. The Erie convertible A's and B's made new loss on the present downward movement. In fact, the B's sold more than three points below yesterday's quotation. They have a long way to go, however, before they reach the low of the year, which was 32 for the B bonds and 34¼ for the A bonds. There is absolutely no difference between the two issues. Both are secured on the same property and for both the conversion privilege has expired. St. Louis & San Francisco incomes and adjustments both reacted. New Haven 6s advanced fractionally.

Day in Stock Market.

The greater part of the session in the stock market was given over apparently to efforts to bring out real liquidation by offering down, one after another, supposedly vulnerable stocks. In connection with these ventures there was little in the way of actual news. The United States Steel Corporation report for the third quarter was not up to expectations and the sharp falling off in September earnings made it somewhat of a test for the steel shares. But the decrease was adequately explained on the grounds that the shortage of freight cars had held up shipments from the mills, and that it was not until the first of October that the new price schedules went into effect. The wage increases, on the other hand, began at the outset of September.

Three bits of testimony in widely different directions developed as a part of the day's news budget. They were quite out of keeping with any idea that the weakness in stocks had unfavorable significance for the business future. One was the declaration of a 50 per cent stock dividend by the National Sugar Co. Another was the return to the dividend list of National Enameling and Stamping Co. stock and the third was the publication of the figures on car loadings showing a total for the week ended Oct 21 the largest, save for two weeks in September and October, 1920, in the history of the country.

That the railroad shares should have gone down with the rest in face of the car loadings forecast of earnings, was another indication of how thoroughly the market of the day was lost to everything else but consideration of the immediate speculative position.

The turn for better did not occur until well along in the last hour. The ensuing recovery was sufficiently rapid to wipe out most of the early declines and to leave many stocks up on the day. The rally was still in progress at the close.

NOTES.

The main point which the bearish element today tried to lay stress upon in the Steel Corporation's quarterly report was the sharp falling-off in earnings as compared to previous months. The facts are, as set forth in the report, that freight congestion, now largely relieved, had a good deal to do with the shrinkage, while the wage increase, which was another reason for the September falling-off, has now been offset, to an extent, by the $3-a-ton advance in rail prices which went into effect on Oct. 1.

Attention has been directed to the good rallying power of Industrial Alcohol and the St. Pauls. A reason for the strength of Industrial Alcohol was brought out today in the announcement that low grade denatured alcohol has been advanced to 26 cents per gallon and the higher grades to from 55 to 60 cents.

If the National Sugar Refining Co. stockholders approve an increase in authorized stock from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 at the Nov. 15 directors meeting, a stock dividend of 50 per cent will be distributed payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record Nov. 20.

In addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on common and 1¾ on preferred, the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. today declared a 40 per cent stock dividend and a 3 per cent extra dividend on common, all payable Nov. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 1

General Motors Corporation sales for this year, including cars and trucks, will approximate 468,355 compared with 214,799 in 1921 and 393,075 in 1920, according to figures published today.

Official British exchequer receipts for the week ended Oct. 31 totaled £11,332,172; expenditures, £9,041,555, and floating debt, £999,978,500.

The New Orleans Cotton Exchngae was closed today in observation of the feast of All Saints.

May Department Stores stock advanced another 10 points in the first hour of trading today.

Grain prices rose sharply on the Merchants' Exchange today. Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d lower. Rain, larger wheat primaries than year ago and tone of Winnipeg and Liverpool markets were conflicting influences in the first part of trade. Then prices started up.

Wheat took a sharp swing upward in price after a Chicago private statistician had estimated that winter wheat acreage would show a reduction of 10 per cent, namely 4,500,000 acres. Bullish gossip as to probable enlarged European demand for wheat and rye had considerable effect also, together with frost reports from Argentina.

The corn market scored a sharp advance as a result of private estimates that the available supplies for the 1922-1923 season would be 408,000,000 bushels less than the previous year.

In the local cash grain market red winter wheat was 1c to 2c higher. Hard was 1½c higher. There was good milling and accumulative demand. Cash corn was steady to 1½c higher. There was good demand for export and accumulative account. Cash oats were steady to ½@1c higher. There was fair shipping demand.

After opening with small mixed changes, grain prices showed a tendency to lower basis. The market, however, soon turned, and prices sold above last night's close. Liverpool opened ½d higher and later came ¼d net lower.

December wheat opened at $1.13⅜, May wheat $1.11½, July wheat $1.02½. December corn 65⅝c, May corn 65⅝c and July corn 65¾c.

Grain exports for the week ending Oct. 28, as reported by the U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates (wheat inspected out under American grades only and does not include flour) were as follows: Atlantic ports, wheat, 626,000; corn, 1,416,000; oats, 564,000; barley, 155,000; rye, 1,029,000. Gulf ports—Wheat, 435,000; corn, 916,000; oats, 13,000. Pacific ports—wheat, 380,000; barley, 335,000. Total—Wheat, 1,441,000; corn, 2,332,000; oats 577,000; barley, 490,000; rye, 1,029,000. Previous week, wheat, 2,517,00; corn, 1,174,00; oats, 431,000; barley, 675,000; rye, 641,000. Total July 1 to date—Wheat, 69,176,000; corn, 19,216,000; oats, 10,368,000; barley, 12,120,000; rye, 12,265,000.

The three Northwestern markets combined today had 2351 cars, compared with 1968 a week ago and 1942 last year. Minneapolis today receiving 406 cars, Duluth 298 and Winnipeg 1647.

Local wheat receipts, which were 135,600, compared with 126,000 a week ago and 67,200 last year, included 70 cars local and 43 through. Corn receipts, which were 62,400, compared with 62,400 a week ago and 44,200 last year, included 43 cars local and 5 through. Oats receipts, which were 104,000, compared with 124,000 a week ago and 42,000 last year, included 35 cars local and 17 through. Hay receipts were 338 tons local and 102 through.

Grain stocks in St. Louis public elevators today were 1,002,099 bushels of wheat, 70,079 bushels of corn, 95,255 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 236,992 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 13,886 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 134,998 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 9380 bushels of No. 2 corn, 30,001 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 22,699 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 21,766 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 18,002 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 1302 bushels of No. 2 rye

Primary receipts of wheat were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,589,000 bu. Corn receipts were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,174,000 bu. Oats receipts were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 791,000 bu.

Primary shipments of wheat were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,363,000 bu. Corn shipments were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 762,000 bu. Oats shipments were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,114,000 bu.

Clearances today were 240,000 bu of wheat, 630,000 bu of corn, 2000 bu of oats, 48,000 bbls of flour, and 456,000 bu of wheat and flour.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—There was a decided improvement in the wheat trade as compared with the day before. The market started out erratic following the erratic changes in the Liverpool market, which finally wound up unchanged to ½d lower. About mid-session both B. W. Snow and P. S. Goodman issued bullish reports regarding the big reduction in winter wheat area and the poor condition of the crop, and this started a buying movement which eventually carried prices much higher. A letter from Julius Barnes to a local house expressing bullish convictions and confidence in the favorable outcome of European financial conditions also was used by the bulls to further their interest. It looked as if the market was a little overbought later in the session. Cash wheat premiums were unchanged at Minneapolis and Chicago. Little interest was exhibited in export wheat, but there was some buying of May early for foreign account. Beneficial rains again fell over a big part of the winter wheat area, but Western Kansas was again overlooked. However, the big areas are in better condition as a result of the precipitation. Primary receipts were again of good volume. Milling demand for wheat was good.

Wheat closed 1½c to 2⅝c higher, December $1.16½ to $1.16⅝, May $1.14 to $1.14⅛, July $1.05½ to $1.05⅝.

Corn was dull and easy early, but the Snow and Goodman reports furnished bulls with the necessary stimulus and a good advance was established during the later trading. Snow estimated the corn crop at 2,800,000,000 bushels and the carry over at 150,000,000 bushels, while Goodman made the yield 2,792,000,000 bushels and the carry over 185,000,000 bushels. Cash corn premiums were unchanged. Receipts were smaller. Shipping demand was light.

Corn closed 1¾c to 1⅞c higher, December 68c to 68⅛c, May 68⅛c to 68¼c, July 67⅝c to 67¾c.

Oats were the first market to show strength, cash interest taking hold of the December, and this checked selling pressure in the other months. Receipts were lighter. Shipping demand good.

Oats closed ⅝c to ¾c higher, December 42¼c, May 42c to 42⅛c, July 39⅝c.

HOG MARKET RECOVERS AFTER AN EARLY DECLINE

Receipts today, estimated: Cattle, 8000; hogs, 19,000; sheep, 2000; horses and mules, 250.

CATTLE—Receipts were about an average for midweek and the market was steady on native killing steers, stockers and feeders and butcher yearlings. Western grass steers, butcher cows, bulls and canner and cutter cows, steady to a shade lower. Veal calves off 25c to 50c; a few choice at $9.75 and bulk at $9 to $9.50.

Quotations: Best fed steers and yearlings, high $13.25, bulk $10.50 to $12.25; native grass steers, bulk $6 to $8; Western grass steers, bulk $4.25 to $6.75; plain grass yearlings, bulk $3.50 to $7; butcher cows, bulk $3.75 to $5.25; cutter cows, range $2.75 to $3.50; canner cows, range $2.25 to $2.50; heavy beef bulls, bulk $4.25 to $4.75; bologna bulls, bulk $3.75 to $4.50.

HOGS—Another liberal supply of hogs got in, the estimate calling for 19,000. This makes the three-day total amount to 53,700 hogs, an increase of 8000 over the preceding week and 17,000 the same days a year ago. In addition to the fresh arrivals there were 6000 carry-overs in first and second hands. With an abundance of hogs in sight, the market opened slow and 15@25c lower on nearly all classes. A considerable volume of business was transacted early in butcher and light hogs on a basis of $8@8.10. City butchers, packers and order buyers all bought some hogs on this basis. Shipping orders from the East were quite numerous, however, and it was not long before the market began to show more activity and prices advanced. By the middle of the forenoon the general hog trade was in a range of $8.25@8.35, with sales of the desirable butchers and lights going mostly at $8.25. The market at that period showed all the early decline recovered and trade practically steady with Tuesday's average. Lights generally sold on the same basis or very close to the range in butcher weights. Early sales of lights noted all the way from $8@8.25, but they also strengthend along with the general market and before noon the desirable lights were selling from $8.25@8.35. The strongweight pigs sold largely like the light shipping hogs. There was another good demand for pee-wee pigs and they were quotable up to $8.50. Packer sows were again very slow and 15@25c lower. Heavy sows cleared largely around $6.50, with the medium near $6.75 and it took real choice lights to go above that figure. Stags quotable in wide range of $6@7.

SHEEP—With a moderate supply on sale sheep sold full steady but lambs were fully 25c lower again, the best going at $13.50. Most of the good lambs sold at $13 and better while the plain to fair grades went at $12@12.75, poor kinds under $12, culls largely at $8.50@9, mutton sheep $6, some plain heavy ewes, $4, choppers $6, some bucks $2@3.50 and canners $1@1.50.

HORSES AND MULES—Market about steady for the week, slightly reduced receipts aiding sellers in preventing further declines. Commission offering of horses for the four days approximates 300 head, with mules out of first hands totaling better than 1000.

Scarcity of Merchandise Causes Prices to Rise

Trade journals are predicting that a general scarcity of merchandise will force factories to raise their prices in the near future.

The Prufrock-Litton Furniture Company, Fourth and St. Charles, sensed this scarcity and placed large orders for furniture before the price advance.

During this last week of their sale of sample suites at greatly reduced prices you may secure furniture of quality at a saving you may never be able to duplicate because of rising replacement costs.

STREET LIGHTING COMPANY OFFERS ECONOMY TO CITY

Six-Year Contract May Be Made With Welsbach Concern; Saving Would Total $101,160.

The city will save $16,860 a year for six years, or a total of $101,160, if it accepts the bid of the Welsbach Street Lighting Co. of America on a six-year contract. An alternative offer made by the company, in its bids submitted yesterday, is a one-year contract at $368,970, or $11,536 less than last year's price, which was $380,506.

No other bids for street gaslight were received, as the Welsbach company has a patent on the mantles used in the city street lights. There are 24,493 such lights, and the Welsbach company has had the contract for maintaining them for the last 10 years.

Director of Public Utilities Hooke, to whom the bids were referred, said he probably would recommend acceptance of the six-year proposition, with the privilege of cancellation at the end of a year, in which event the city would have to pay on the one-year basis.

ANTI-MAYFIELD WRIT SET ASIDE

Unexpected Action Develops in Effort to Keep Name Off Ballot.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 1.—An unexpected turn in the developments of injunction suits seeking to keep Earle B. Mayfield's name off the ballot as Democratic senatorial candidate, occurred here yesterday when the Fifth Court of Civil Appeals ordered set aside the temporary injunction granted Saturday by District Judge Blackmon, at Fairfield.

The Appellate Court at the same time ordered Secretary of State Staples and Attorney-General Keeling to appear Monday morning and show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt.

Census of Cows and Pigs.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Rural letter carriers today will begin a census of brood cows and pigs for the Department of Agriculture. To farmers reluctant to give information, because of fear it might be used by packers to their detriment, it will be explained that the information is as important to the farmer as to those who deal in farm products. The results of the survey will give the producers some knowledge of what is going on in the way of production.

Lewis' Re-Election Conceded.

By the Associated Press.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 1.—Announcement has been made here at headquarters of District 7, United Mine Workers, that all opposition to the international staff of officers to be named this month has been removed. Candidates nominated during the suspension period in the coal fields have withdrawn, stating there is no chance of defeating the incumbents, President John L. Lewis, Vice President Phil J. Murray and Secretary-Treasurer William Greene.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope

MRS. WM. K.—The dime dated 1835 is worth 10c to 15c.

C. W. B.—The third wedding anniversary is the leather one.

PLEASE.—Inquire of the Auto Club of Missouri for the best route from St. Louis to Palm Beach, Fla.

A FAN.—George A. McGraw has never been manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

RILLA.—Correspondence Schools' names are listed in the City Directories and advertised in popular magazines.

I. M. S.—The name of the town in Louisiana, Breaux Bridge, is pronounced as though it were written "Bro Bridge," the "o" being long.

WHITIE.—If an engagement is broken off, the engagement ring and all other gifts of value should be returned.

WILSON.—St. Louis ranks sixth in population among the cities of the United States, being outranked by New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and Cleveland.

X. Y. Z.—In the sentences which you submit, the word "hair" is used collectively, therefore should be written "comb it back," and not "comb them back."

DAILY READER.—Following are the desired addresses: Newspaper Enterprise Association, Cleveland, O.; George Mathew Adam Syndicate, N. Y.; Bell Syndicate, World Building, N. Y.; International Syndicate, N. Y.; Keystone Syndicate, Philadelphia, Pa.; The King Syndicate, 241 W. Fifty-eighth street, N. Y. C.

DAILY READER—The State of Illinois has an area of 56,665 square miles, of which 622 square miles is water. It is divided in 102 counties, the most important being Cook County, within which is the city of Chicago. The 1920 census population was 6,485,280. The churches are in order of strength Roman Catholic, Methodist, Lutheran, Baptist, Presbyterian.

N. M. L.—It is proper for a gentleman to offer his arm to a lady when crossing a very crowded thoroughfare, or over a rough piece of road, or under other impeding circumstances, in the daytime. In accompanying a lady at night a gentleman always offers his arm. Other occasions on which a gentleman offers his arm to a lady are in taking her in at a formal dinner, or taking her in to supper at a ball, or when he is an usher at a wedding. Even in walking across a ballroom, except at a public ball in the grand march, it is the present fashion for the younger generation to walk side by side. Etiquette does not permit a gentleman to take a lady's arm, but to offer his arm. It is correct for a gentleman to help a lady out of a motor or car by alighting first and offering her his hand.

TEN-YEAR SUBSCRIBER.—Waffles are made as follows: 1¾ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, yolks 2 eggs, whites of 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Mix and sift the dry ingredients; add the milk gradually, yolks of eggs well beaten, butter and whites of eggs beaten stiff; cook on a greased hot waffle iron. Serve with maple syrup. A wafle iron should fit closely on the range, be well heated on one side, turned, heated on the other side, and thoroughly greased before iron is filled. In filling, put a tablespoonful of the mixture in each compartment near the center of the iron, cover, and mixture will spread to just fill the iron. If sufficiently heated, it should be turned almost as soon as filled and covered. In using a new iron, special care must be taken in greasing, or the waffles will stick. You probably have been using too much flour. Follow the recipe exactly.

MRS. J. L. — Hyacinth bulbs should be planted from September to November, and are usually placed from six to eight inches apart, and about five inches deep in beds spaded to the depth of twenty inches. The main root-growth is made during the fall. In winter the beds are protected with litter leaves, or well rotted manure. The plants flower early in the spring. In the summer when the leaves have withered, the bulbs are taken up and stored in dry soil or sand until planting time. For winter flowering the bulbs are started in the dark, and later on the plants are brought to bloom in the forcing house. As house plants, they are grown in hyacinth glasses with water only. Tulips are cultivated in gardens on all kinds of soils and in all positions, but they prefer a rich sandy loam. The bulbs or offsets are planted in mid-autumn and the flowers appear in spring. When the plants have blossomed and the leaves have become dry, the bulbs are taken up dried in cool airy places and stored in a dry place until planting time. For pot culture tulips are treated like hyacinths. Young plants are also obtained by sowing the seed in light sandy soil under a cold frame in late winter. Seedlings seldom flower before they are five years old and are rarely stable; that is after flowering one or more times they 'break' or develop a new form of color, which remains stable not only with the individual bulb, but with its offsets.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

R. O. B.—While the symptoms may be referred to the stomach, many of these cases are caused by gall bladder and appendicitis. These two things should always be considered. The jaundice in this case indicates trouble in the gall bladder. We do not think the motorcycle riding need be considered. We suggest as a relief from the trouble 4 cholelith pills night and morning followed by a full glass of water.

BALDY.—Correct any disorders of the general health. Locally the treatment of dandruff may be summed up in the old word "stimulation." Weekly, semi-weekly and even daily cleansing of the scalp should be practiced. This is best done with the following wash: Saponis viridis 4 ounces, alcohol 2 ounces. Dissolve with heat and filter. After shampooing with this the hair is thoroughly rinsed in clear water and dried as thoroughly as possible and the following applied: Carbolic acid 15 grains, glycerine 2 drams, cologne water enough to make 1 ounce. Mix thoroughly and apply as follows: Make a part in the hair and drop the mixture on the scalp at intervals of an inch and rub in with a soft brush. Cover the scalp by this method, making one part after another. After a time the shampooing may be done less often, but the mixture should be applied faithfully and persistently until the hair ceases to fall or the case must be abandoned as hopeless.

A DAILY DOUBLE PAG

Why Some People Never Get Ahead

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB.

A MAN was berating the whole world the other day. He was out of work and the world owed him a living and had not paid. He had a team of horses which carried sand but there was no sand to be carried at the present time and therefore he had nothing to do.

No money was coming in and "the horses were eating their heads off," and he was disgusted with everything. He had to borrow money to keep his family, and he was getting into debt every minute. He had not bought a suit of clothes in two years, he told me, and his family had to live on little or nothing, etc.

During this time a farmer went to him and asked him to use his team to do some farm work, such as carrying some logs, some fruit and some produce.

Did he let him use the team? Not at all! He had bought the horses to carry sand and that was all he was going to let them carry. Even if there was no sand to carry he was going to wait till there was some.

This man will never get ahead. He doesn't know how to "make hay while the sun shines" and he will always live "from hand to mouth." The horses and wagon could have done service for the farmer in the time of need and made money for the man who owned them, and his family. But he knew only one thing—carrying sand. That was the business he was in and the other was not his business. Therefore he was borrowing money to keep the wolf from the door.

I could not help reflect that there are many people like him. They would rather starve than do something different from what they have always done. You will find there are thousands of them.

Then they will suffer many hardships and want rather than step aside from their common groove and they get into a rut from which they rarely rise.

What such people need is a rude awakening. These are the people that do not get ahead. They are not willing to take the "goods the gods provide." They won't make the best of things. They want to make the worst of them.

I wish it were possible for such people to read the history of the great people of the world—people who got somewhere and accomplished something and have made their own way all the time. They were ready to do whatever came along when things were not running in their direction.

Men who have reached the top are those who have been willing to stoop to anything that was honest in order to make things go and not be dependent.

Horace Fletcher, the well-known "chew-chew" man, once gave me a very good prescription. He said: "You can't be on the crest of the wave all the time. Sometimes the wave must go down and when it goes down, go right down with it and move along until you are again on the crest, when you can do your shouting."

Most people, however, shout when they are down and they never get up because they are too busy shouting. "Everything comes to him who waits" provided he works while he waits.

In other words, if you've not your own work, take some other kind of a job. Suppose it isn't in your line. If you can do it and it helps you along, that is the thing to do. You are thus snatching victory out of defeat. You are not at a total loss waiting for your big chance to come.

The man who is too good to do menial work while he is out of work of his own kind has not got the stuff in him of which real men are made.

I know a woman who was a very fine pianist. During an industrial slump she lost nearly all her pupils, as music was the first thing that was dropped. She found herself without any means of support and everywhere she tried she was unsuccessful.

Finally she went into a restaurant and washed dishes from morning till night. She used her lovely hands that had played on the piano for this lowly work.

But this woman said to me: "I had more real living during the time I was washing dishes than when I was playing the piano. I met in that restaurant real hard-working people with big hearts and big souls and, while I made myself independent of help, I gained something of another side of the world that I didn't know at all. It was a part of my life that I look back on with great satisfaction."

Who knows but going into something else than what you are accustomed to may be the very making of you? Leastwise, it is unwise to fold your hands and wait until your kind of work comes along if you can find something else to do that will make you self-reliant.

Those people who will not wait but insist on doing what they can—those are the people who always get ahead.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

What Became of That Fat Hen

By Thornton W. Burgess

Don't give up until you're beaten,
Nor count a chicken yours till eaten
—Reddy Fox

FARMER Brown's Boy understood just what he had seen as he peeped out in the moonlight from the darkness of the barn. He knew that the barking of Reddy Fox back of the barn had been to draw Bowser the Hound away. He knew that Mrs. Reddy had been hiding in the Black Shadows ready to go to the box where her young son was a prisoner the instant Bowser was out of the way. He knew that the fat hen which she had brought must have been caught a long distance away. He understood by her actions how puzzled and distressed she was when she found there was no longer an entrance to that box. When at last the return of Bowser forced her to leave and she dragged that fat hen close to the door in that box Farmer Brown's Boy knew that she was leaving it there in the hope that somehow that young Fox would be able to get it.

Farmer Brown's Moy got up, yawned and started for the house. It was very late in the night and he longed for his bed. But he had taken but a few steps when he changed his mind. He just had to know if Mother Fox had really given up hope of seeing the young Fox. He just had to know if mother love would be strong enough to lead her to risk a second visit that night. So he settled himself in patience and waited.

It was just about an hour later that he heard Reddy Fox bark behind the barn again, and Bowser started to chase him away, as before. Again Mrs. Reddy did her best to find some way of getting into that box and worked with all her might until she heard Bowser returning. As before, she left the fat hen close to the little door that closed the entrance.

"That fat hen will make good eating," thought Farmer Brown's Boy. "When I go into the house I will take it along with me. We will have it roasted tomorrow. There is plenty of other food for that young Fox. I'll wait a little while longer, just to see if his mother will come back again."

Now, Farmer Brown's Boy had the best intentions in the world. He didn't mean to close his eyes, but it was long past his bedtime and in spite of himself he began to nod. His eyes would close for a few minutes, and then with a jerk he would awaken and hurriedly look over to that box.

On one of these occasions he became dimly aware that something was missing. At first he couldn't think what it was. Then all of a sudden he knew. "That fat hen is gone!" he exclaimed to himself. "Yes, sir, there is no fat hen there! I must have slept longer than I thought for and Mother Fox must have come back and taken that hen away."

"That fat hen is gone!" he exclaimed to himself.

But just then he heard Reddy Fox bark again back of the barn and saw Bowser the Hound hurry around there as before. Then he saw Mrs. Reddy appear from around back of the box. At the place where that fat hen had been she stopped abruptly and Farmer Brown's Boy could tell just by the looks of her that she was just as much surprised at the disappearance of that fat hen as he had been. She began to run all about with her nose to the ground, trying to find the scent of any one who could have been there to take that fat hen away.

"She doesn't know any more about it than I do!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy to himself. "Now what could have become of that hen? It couldn't have come to life and walked off and there was no way for that young Fox to get it inside the box. It was there, and now it isn't. The disappearance of that hen is a mystery. Yes, sir, it is a mystery. And if I know anything about it, that Fox out there is just as much mystified as I am. It is too much for me."

The Daughter of Helen Kent

By Sarah Comstock

CHAPTER XIV (Continued)

Bec was to see an instance of that obscure law which, once you start cause moving in one channel, brings about effect in a channel wholly different. She had rolled up her sleeves, so to speak, when she had sought McNab's influence; and now not that gentleman, but Zelie, was to prove the agent of her directed energy.

"Well, my child, something's doing at last."

Bec arrived at the studio on a rainy June day to find Zelie, who had summoned her, pacing the floor with long sinuous strides that made no more sound than do the strides of one of her feline relatives over a bed of forest leaves. Something was worrying her, Bec was sure; but Miss Barrajas refused to admit it. "Never felt more cheerful. Why shouldn't I? I've landed your G. O.!"

"I always knew it would come!" Bec breathed. She caught the other in a smothering embrace. But, to her surprise, Zelie drew back.

"Sit down, kid," she instructed bluntly. "I haven't time to spare for any ecstasies."

It was astounding, that touch of cynicism, almost bitterness, in Zelie's manner. How could she not burst into ecstacy, after all their hoping and striving?

"Now, then," Zelie went on with businesslike curtness. "You're going to Manito Summit Park for your outing?"

"Yes. It's settled." In the sadly degenerate Catskills a few lovely refuges still remain, and Helen had chosen one of the most delightful of these.

"O. K. Dovetails exactly. Now for it. The high-mucky-mucks of Eagle's Eyrie Park, a few miles beyond, are getting up a sort of pageant—some class, believe me! So se-lect that none of the Great Majority could get an eyelash through the gates. But money—why, kid, it's to flow like champagne the last night before the Drys take over the earth! They've got Edmund Lyall Van Buren to design the whole thing, costumes and all—the artist that's doing 'em for all the new plays. He's making the paintings for it now. What do you know about that? And"——

"But—but what"—— Bec panted, fumbling for the connection between this event and her own fortune, too incredulous to dare see——

"You'll learn in time, my child." Zelie's haste seemed to have passed. "To resume: this show is to represent some American Indian legends. Very appropriate and all that, in the wilds of nature et cetera. And the piece de resistance—Zelie paused impressively, and fixed her eyes upon Bec's—"is to be"— she went on with tormenting deliberateness, as though dangling a tidbit just beyond the reach of a famished victim—"is to be the scene, where the White Maiden, a Spirit of the Waterfall, appears to the Indians who are dying of thirst, and leads them to the cascade. She flits up to them through the woods, then comes to the edge of the gone-dry waterfall, and there she dances—dances, mind you—oh, hey tiddlety, tiddlety tee! —a dance that represents the bubbling, leaping cascade—do you get me? And that dance is expected to be some punkins! The Indians sit around gaping, audience ditto. Everybody spellbound. At the end, as the sun sets, she smites the rock—bing!—and the waterfall gushes forth—whish!—then she waves—ta-ta! and vanishes."

To an imagination like Bec's the picture, even through the medium of Zelie's slang, was vivid as light. Zelie paused to meet her dead silence. Bec could hear her own heart like a clock ticking in the night.. Could it be that—no, no, she mustn't believe—and yet——

"You can't mean that—that—O Zelie, don't torment me! Who—is to be the—White Maiden?"

For answer Zelie picked up a hand mirror and held it before Bec's blazing eyes.

Bec saw in it a face pale with excitement; eyes that burned more black than blue in their fever; lips a livid coral; a mass of foaming gold hair escaping under the broad straw hat. Bequita Kent would have fallen far short of intelligent womanhood had she not recognized the fact that, for all the faulty features, here was beauty—the sort that burns its way from within, and flames in the outward expression of face, in the arresting grace of every posture.

She covered the face, bowed it, in a sudden overwhelming humility.

"It's all too wonderful! But what if I should fail?"

"Rats! Buck up, my fair one. You won't do a thing to that dance!"

"But, Zelie, why not you?" came the next amendment. "It's so generous of you, but you're waiting for your G. O. as well as I!"

Again that shade of bitterness surprised Bec. But Zelie replied briefly, "A nice White Spirit I'd make, wouldn't I? No, lamb, the tiger-cat is my style. Now then, I suppose you want a few items. The long and the short of it, then, is that some of the bunch happened to—well, to ask me to recommend someone for the said White Spirit. I saw it would work out A number one for you, with you staying near enough to slip over on the quiet for rehearsals. We'll talk about the details later. All that's needed now is your official acceptance. Do I convey it, Mademoiselle la Premiere?"

"Zelie! The idea of asking! And that you should contrive all this for me, to make my dream come true! O my dear, how I hope that your own G. O. will come running after it!"

The reply was a trifle snorty.

'Now beat it—skiddoo! I've got to go and meet the committee, to give 'em your answer."

But, left alone with Villageoise, Miss Barrajas sank into one of the baronial chairs, and for long minutes she did not stir.

"Well—my G. O. waves to me and flits," she sighed at last, rising heavily. "That's all right. She has everything ahead, and she deserves it. As for you and me, Vill, we might lose our heads with too much prosperity. You might take to champagne instead of cream, if you could get it, and I might acquire the vicious habit of cutting my old friends of Bittersweet Alley."

She rose with extreme lassitude, put on her turban at a recklessly don't-care angle, picked up two unmated gloves, and prepared to set out.

"She'll never guess the truth—don't worry. Everybody that might let it out is going to be pledged not to. Otherwise, she'd break her little generous heart. So—it's all right all 'round. And if you ever catch me being sorry I did it, just kindly claw my eyes out, will you, Madame Cat? So long!"

Turbulent with the great news, Bec sped home. And here she was at her own door, in a turmoil of excitement; how should she crush it down, drive it from her eyes, her cheeks, her voice, her panting breath? She must not rouse a flicker of suspicion in Helen. What a campaign, indeed, lay ahead—all the preparation for this marvelous debut, without once giving the secret away! Impossible, and yet not impossible, because what must be done could be. And when the great triumph was won, Helen would be convinced at last—how she would shine with pride——

Bec learned this with a sense of relief, for now she would have time to cool the fever of her excitement. She entered her own room. On a chair, neatly set forth, lay one of her party gowns, and the sash and slippers and stockings that she wore with it, and a wreath of tiny ribbon buds to trail over her shoulder. Until then she had forgotten the dinner-dance at Adelaide Matcham's.

Helen had put everything in exquisite order—had made the gown look like new, with its fresh garniture. Bec sank into her easy chair and gathered all the charming follies into her lap. Their gaiety, their luxurious charm, blended somehow with all her joyous turbulence of new hopes—with her thought of Philip, too, who might at this moment be awaiting her. How could she tell him the whole wonderful news in hours, even, let alone a few snatched minutes? Philip, pink buds, Spirit of the Waterfall, rosy Georgette crepe, all shimmered like some blending stage spectacle before her intoxicated mind. • • •

Anna was handing her a letter. "Man bring," explained the absence of a stamp.

No letter such as this had Bec ever received. It was addressed to her in the labored handwriting of an ignorant person. The envelope was of cheap paper and smeary about the flap. Bec turned it over and over, in feminine fashion, wondering who could have sent it. And at length she was driven to that ultimate resource of opening it.

There, alone, Bequita read her letter. She read it slowly, from first line to last. She read it staring, unbelieving, puzzling, rejecting, doubting, shrinking, confounded, defying, scorning, wilting, and in the end returning always to one agony, which was a powerlessness to disbelieve. The letter would not be disbelieved, try as she might. Subtly it insisted upon its own authenticity. There was that in it which rang true. That ring—yes, that was the thing which testified. Something that lay between the lines. Although she cried in white silence against belief, Bequita knew. The letter told the truth.

On the floor at her feet were strewn the pretty follies that she had gathered into her lap. The rosy froth of the gown, the shimmer of silk hosiery, slippers, adornments—all lay in a tumble, slipped from her hold. All that they stood for seemed to have slipped from her hold, as well—their unshadowed youthfulness, their fragrance of wishes and blitheness and ayeties and allurements and sweet credulities—all their meaning seemed to have slipped from her along with them, and to have crumpled, and the soul within her seemed to be sitting there as the body sat, a mussed sort of soul.

Her eyes fixed upon the fallen wreath. There it lay, overturned, and the wrong side of it lay uppermost—a mesh of wires and long stitches. Were all lovely things like that if you turned them over? Helen would reply, "Of course"; would explain that the right side, as we call it, the pretty side of life, is nothing more than the appearance of things, and that you only get at the truth when you turn them over and look at the stitches and wires.

So this— all that the letter revealed—was the wrong side, the ugly side, the true side of life. . . .

But the instinct for action was strong in Bequita, for all its immaturity. The question now faced her: What was to be done?

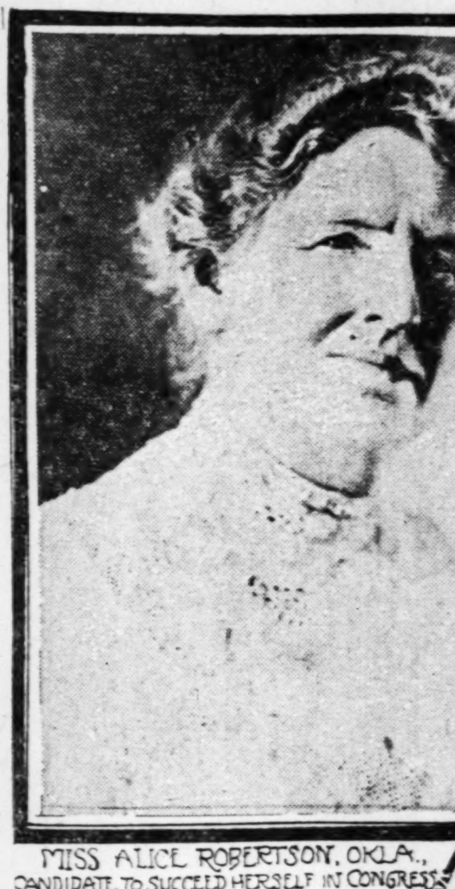
By sending 2888 words an hour on a Siemens printer, Erna Bansmer of Breslau, Germany, won the speed championship of an international telegraphic competition held recently in Berlin. The second prize also went to a German woman.

WHAT CHANCE HAVE THESE WOM CANDIDAT



MISS ALICE ROBERTSON, OKLA., CANDIDATE TO SUCCEED HERSELF IN CONGRESS

MRS. BEN C HOOPER, WIS. CANDIDATE FOR U.S. SENATE

..DAVIS, ..ESS, PENN.

MRS ADELI.. FOR CONG..

..CKERSHAM DOUGLAS, IOWA ..E CONGRESS; AND SON JACK.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

TWENTY-ONE women candidates, according to information from party headquarters at Washington, are contending for seats in the National Congress at the impending general election. Their fates will be definitely known when the returns come in next Tuesday night.

The same official sources of information are careful not to arouse any too radiant hopes in the hearts of women interested in the cause.

"Indications are the percentage of victories will be nominal," continues the report.

Well, nobody expected this new element in politics would sweep all before it in one fell swoop.

Still, there have been elections, you know, when the reckonings of the wisest, most gifted of political seers have been completely overthrown by the results.

That, too, when the official observers were all men and had only their own safe, sane and reliable sex to deal with. Now that there is this strange, mysterious, entirely new element, I should think it would be more becoming in male prognosticators to admit, even as women themselves do, that nobody knows what the women will do in this election.

It is interesting to conjecture for oneself, and a survey of certain openly apparent conditions surrounding these women candidates, afford certain grounds for conclusions and relieving our suspense against election night.

There are ten Democratic women candidates, namely: For the Senate, Mrs. Anna D. Olesen, Minnesota; Mrs. Ben C. Hooper, Wisconsin; for the House of Representatives: Mrs. St. Clair Moss, Eighth District, Missouri; Mrs. Ellen Duane Davis, Second, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Jane E. Leonard, 27th Pennsylvania; Mrs. Martha Riley, Third, Wisconsin; Esther K. O'Keefe, 13th Indiana; Lillian C. Gault, Third Minnesota; Mrs. Jett Wickersham Douglas, 10th Iowa; Mrs. Catherine Braddock, Third California.

Five Republican Candidates.

There are five Republican women contending for seats in the House: Miss Alice Robertson, present incumbent from the Second District, Oklahoma; Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, nominated without opposition to succeed her father, the late William E. Mason, Congressman at Large from Illinois; Mrs. Lucy B. Patterson, Fifth District, North Carolina; Mrs. H. Guild, Arizona; Mrs. Adeline Otero Warren, New Mexico.

There are two Prohibition candidates, one for the Senate, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, New York; one for the House, Mrs. E. Luella Barton, First Nebraska District. Other women candidates include two Socialists, Miss Helen Murphy, Second Pennsylvania; Mrs. Elvina Beals, Sixth California, and two Single Taxers not named in the report.

Just glance back over this list and you will see that most of the Democratic women are running in States or districts hopelessly Republican; while most of the Republican women candidates are running in states where Democracy is, or by tradition ought to be, in the ascendancy. This fact alone probably gives the watchers in Washington their grounds for stating that women's victories would be "nominal."

A further deduction to be made is that under unpromising conditions, only women could be induced to run, rather than that the candidacy of a woman could be expected to cut down existing party majorities. In many cases, no doubt, a woman's name was placed on a ticket to fill a space that otherwise would have remained vacant.

There is, for example, Mrs. Hooper, running as a Democrat against the great liberal, La Follette. Not much chance for another liberal candidate, most of us will agree. While other Democratic women running in Pennsylvania, Iowa, Minnesota, and a Republican woman running in North Carolina present prospects seemingly as hopeless.

There are situations in certain localities, however, promising for one reason or another, that may result in some modification of that word "nominal."

There is Mrs. Moss, Democrat, running in a district normally Democratic, an exceptionally well qualified woman, who carried her own county in the primaries with a larger vote than any before given a candidate for this post. Mrs. Moss is a woman of great achievement, educational, civic, financial, though she is new to politics. Except in case the Eighth District has not yet dug itself out from beneath the Republican avalanche which befell two years ago, Mrs. Moss stands an excellent chance of being elected and the chances are good that Missouri will send a woman to Congress this fall.

The candidacy of Mrs. Olesen, Democrat, running against the incumbent, Senator Kellogg, in Minnesota, under ordinary conditions would seem hopeless. But this isn't an ordinary year in Minnesota any more than it is in some other Republican states where the primaries revealed dissatisfaction with Republican standpatism, of which Kellogg is an exponent. Moreover, though being a woman is in most cases a handicap, Mrs. Olesen is that exceptional woman with a distinct gift for politics. One of her party leaders, more hopeless than usual at having a woman at the head of the ticket, went out to hear her perfunctorily and returned with the information that "Mrs. Olesen is a regular stampeder. She may stampede this State into the Democratic column."

An Effective Campaign.

Mrs. Olesen it is freely conceded has made a most effective campaign. Recent reports from the State, however, indicate that the Democratic nominee is not the greatest obstacle Senator Kellogg has to overcome. The Nonpartisan League candidate, they say, is coming strong.

The candidacy of Miss Alice Robertson to succeed herself presents another situation encouraging to woman's cause from one point of view; discouraging from another. It really is a funny situation in which masculinity may indulge his favorite pastime of detecting feminine inconsistency.

According to our best information, Miss Robertson is likely to be re-elected. She was nominated without making a personal campaign and with a majority greater than the combined votes of her opponents. Yet this does not please the women who presume to lead the woman movement of the country.

Miss Robertson has opposed in Congress all legislation in which women were actively interested. She is even opposed to woman suffrage and has stated that she "hopes women will never be largely represented in Congress."

The reason she is likely to be returned to Congress, I am told, is because she has obtained for her district more favorable legislation than any of her predecessors in office. They like "Miss Alice" down at Washington. She has commanded respect among her colleagues. They have listened to her in deference to her kindly and forceful personality and possibly through chivalry to womanhood. She is the only woman in Congress and logically women ought to make the most of her rec-

t when at the primaries she d more votes than all her op- nts combined, that the request made she be seated at once, but Legislature, I believe, failed to upon the resolution. In view of this situation, certainly we are assured of at least one woman Representative in the next Congress.

Another Western Candidate.

Out on the western horizon another woman candidate looms large, Mrs. Otero Warren, in New Mexico, defeated the present incumbent, Nestor Montoya, in the primaries. This State is entitled to only one Representative in the House.

Next session that Representative will be either this Republican woman or her Democratic opponent. Since its admission to the Union in 1912, election returns from New Mexico have been very close, and doubtful until the last moment.

They have gone Democratic twice and Republican once.

As to other women candidates, though their positions in the light of surface indications, with great partisan odds against them, seem more or less hopeless, there still remain those comparatively untried factors for conjecture, the appeal of the woman candidate as such, and the appeal to voters as women. It would be a revelation, indeed, of changing sentiment, of progress, of a growing sense of justice, if partisan alignments were cut into and women elected because of the fact, or in spite of the fact, that they are women. I do not anticipate any such revelation. But even though women largely are defeated in these elections, they will not have failed in the most significant sense. The significant thing is the contribution they have made to the campaign.

In many cases these contributions have been most enlightening of women's abilities as campaigners and qualifications for office. You may be sure that when women have been asked to lend their names to hopeless causes, the party leaders have seen to it that women of distinctly winning qualities were named. Mrs. Hooper, it was believed, would command a great following, due to her long leadership in women's activities in her State.

Mrs. Patterson, in North Carolina, was induced to run because it was thought that she, if anyone, would be capable of besting her opponent, Maj. Charles M. Stedman, the Democratic incumbent for three terms, in a contest of beauty and wit against chivalry.

The Major is said to be a Southern gentleman of the old school who couldn't say anything except something nice about any woman and especially one so lovely and charming as Mrs. Patterson. The result of the contest has been a battle of bouquets, each candidate trying to outdo the other in saying nice things. About as far as Mrs. Patterson has gone is to insinuate that, for all his reputation for courtesy, the Major is the first Southern gentleman known who will not give his seat to a lady. That must prove a severe strain upon the Major's sense of chivalry. It only remains to be seen whether he breaks under the strain.

Son Comes First.

When asked to become a candidate Mrs. Douglas countered with, "Jack comes first." Jack is her 5-year-old son, and it had to be arranged that he should accompany his mother upon the campaign. Wherever she has spoken, he has been an interested observer in the audience.

Mrs. Douglas is a daughter of Dr. L. B. Wickersham, a former college president and widely known as a lecturer. His daughter has inherited his gift as a speaker of great ability. Her debut in politics was a speech she made at the recent Democratic State convention, which was said to be the best speech of the convention.

Mrs. Warren of New Mexico is a picturesque figure, representing the proudest historical traditions of her State. She is descended from Spanish dignitaries always high in the Government of Old Mexico. That she should gravitate to public life is regarded as a natural application of the maxim "Blood will tell." Although she is said to be a thoroughly modern woman, laying little stress upon ancestors.

She is a graduate of the Sacred Heart Convent of St. Louis and is the widow of an officer in the army. Following her husband's death she engaged in philanthropic work in New York, later, upon the death of her mother, returning to New Mexico to take care of six younger sisters and two brothers, children of her mother's second marriage. The marriages of her sisters again giving her time for outside work, she campaigned for suffrage, became State chairman of the Federated Women's Clubs, chairman of the State Board of Health and a leader in war-relief activities.

Mrs. Ellen Duane Davis is another figure of picturesque traditions. She is a great-granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin and is now a ward chairman in the city of Philadelphia. She is running against George Scott Graham, a powerful Republican, in a Republican district.

MAXIMS OF A MODERN MAID

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

SOMETIMES a woman yearns to run her fingers through the curly hair of the "boyish" man—and sometimes she feels like asking him, sardonically:

"Will you ever grow up?"

When a woman has to stop and think of all the reasons why she should say "yes," she can be sure that whatever she marries her wooer for, it won't be for love!

One definition of a clever woman is the sort who can thank her successful rival convincingly for taking over "the man who was beginning to bore me so dreadfully!"

For sheer vocabulary the sinners are not in it with the saints. Nobody who draws a moral lesson ever draws it mild.

The really tactful man is the one who always allows a woman to forgive him, no matter what she has done.

After studying the published portraits of the wife and the feminine co-respondent in most of our divorce suits, the cynic can but conclude that "the pictures tell the story."

When—with apologies to Mr. Briggs—a fellow needs a friend: When his wife asks him to explain "all about the tariff, because I want to vote intelligently, dear!"

In marriage the one who has the upper hand is the one who follows the political wisdom of Lord Fisher: "If you lie, stick to it."

Some women are born listeners, some achieve listening—and some are married to chain conversationalists!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

For Folks You Love.

HOW long the day that's full of toil, how desolate my plight, as I go wrestling with the soil from dawning until night! It seems a thousand miles I go, a million steps I take, while grubby little beans I hoe and measly peas I rake. It's for myself alone I dig, no family ties for me; so, as I tend the cow and pig, I should go merrily. But many times the dull days drag; I do not sing, but sigh, and many times my footsteps lag, I'm sure I can't tell why!" Last year Bud Benson raised his cry about like that above; and then came Cupid, swift and sly, and Bud fell deep in love. There isn't much to Buddy's wife; some dimples, smiles, a pout; but say, she's changed our hero's life, now hear his husky shout: "It's fine to rise at dawn's first gleam and plow the garden plot, it's fine to churn the golden cream and milk old Red and Spot. I envy not the sailor lad who roams the Southern Seas, because my heart is just as glad when I am robbing bees. And when I get the reaper out or harness up old Bill, life doesn't hold one fear or doubt, it's all a joyous thrill. Time was I used to loaf and shirk; but that was long ago, before I learned the worth of work and how to prize my hoe. Folks used to scorn my lazy ways and elders would reprove, but that was all before the days I worked for one I love! There's nothing else can change one so, it makes the whole world move, this blessing that all men should know: to work for folks they love!"

Love Letters That Made History

—By JOSEPH KAYE—

John Adams and Abigail Smith

THE letters of Abigail Smith Adams and her husband John Adams, second President of the United States and father of the sixth President form a volume of interesting reading and of more than ordinary charm are the letters of Mrs. Adams. And they are the more to be admired when the fact is considered that she never attended school and that her educational opportunities in early years were very limited.

In a letter dated Aug. 29, 1776, from Boston, she thus expresses her creed in life:

". . . I wish for peace and tranquility. All my desire and all my ambition is to be esteemed and loved by my partner, to join him in the education and instruction of our little ones, to sit under our vines in peace, liberty and safety.

"Adieu, my dearest friend! Soon, soon return to your most affectionate. 'PORTIA.'"

From Philadelphia, on the 22d of September, in the same year John Adams writes to his wife:

" . . . I am at a loss what to write. News we have not. Congress seems to be forgotten by the armies. We are most unfaithfully served in the postoffice as well as many other offices, civil and military. Unfaithfulness in public stations is deeply criminal. But there is no encouragement to be faithful. Neither profit, nor honor, nor applause is required by faithfulness. But I know by what. There is too much corruption even in this infant age of our Republic. Virtue is not in fashion. Vice is not infamous.

"1 October, 1776.

"Since I wrote the foregoing I have not been able to find time to write you a line. Although I cannot write you as often as I wish you are never out of my thoughts. I am repining at my hard lot in being in town from you much oftener than I ought. I have often mentioned to you the multiplicity of my engagements and have been exposed to the ridicule and censure of the world for mentioning the great importance of the business which lay upon me; and if this letter should ever see the light it would be again imputed to my vanity that I mention to you how busy I am. But I must repeat it by way of apology for not writing to you oftener. From 4 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night I have not a single moment which I can call my own. I will not say that I expect to run distracted, to grow melancholy, to drop in apoplexy or fall into a consumption; but I do say it is little less than a miracle that one or other of those misfortunes has not befallen me before now.

"Your favors of 15th, 20th and 23d September are now before me. Every line from you gives me inexpressible pleasure, but it is a grief to me that I cannot write oftener to you. . ."

are you Planning?

by Dorothy Dix

A WISE old man invariably makes the same bridal present. It consists of a bank book with a hundred dollars.

"My dear," he says, "this little book is the Fortune Telling Book in which you may read your future. If, at the end of the first year of your married life, you have added to this deposit even a small amount, you will go on to success and prosperity.

"But if, at the end of the year, you have spent the money, you and your husband will eventually be down-and-outers.

"The first year of marriage of any young couple almost invariably settles their destiny, because during that time they either become systematic savers or else they degenerate into happy-go-lucky spenders."

That is why the most interesting indoor sport in which married folk can engage is budget making, because that means scientific saving and scientific spending.

It is a game that calls for more intelligence and foresight than chess; more nerve than poker; more teamwork than bridge; more patience than solitaire, and the stakes are all that make life worth living.

Self-respect; security; prosperity; happiness; a place in the sun; these are in the pot that married folk rake in when they beat extravagance, and self-indulgence, and shiftlessness.

Saving is a great game, and one at which you always win if you don't weaken. It is only the quitters who lose out. But it is a two-handed game which a husband and wife must play together, if they expect to succeed.

FLAT-O-FORM
GIVES YOU A FLATTER FORM

Fashion's Whims Readily Obeyed

You have seen the charming flat-form effect—the very latest whim of fashion—admired it—perhaps wondered if these splendid styles were confined to women with a figure to fit them.

They're not at all—you can wear these styles, wear them fetchingly and comfortably with a Flat-O-Form Brassiere. It gracefully flattens the diaphragm and is readily adjusted to any waistline.

Flat-O-Form gives you a flat appearance from bust to waistline. The back is scientifically designed to accommodate any surplus flesh at the shoulder blades or under the arms. The length of the garment is sufficient to fasten below the top of the low-bust, topless corset.

In fact, it was designed by the Nature's Rival Company to meet the present dictates of fashion.

He then introduces him right on the spot
In spite of the fact that he said he would not.

The speaker then bows to the left and the right,
And a tumbler of water he swallows.
He says "I will talk to you briefly tonight,"
And the neat little anecdote follows.
Then after discouring for hours and hours
The audience wishes he'd said it with flowers.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB.

NOTHING DOING IN THE FISH LINE.

SOME people insist that, measuring class by class, the lowest order of human intelligence in America is found among Key West sponge fishermen. Others hold that the group-place at the foot of the column properly belongs to a certain order of theatrical producers. As proof of the value of their contention they point to the story of the theatrical manager who, on being told that a play brought him by a certain dramatist was based upon one of Charles Dickens' novels, said:

"Well, you get hold of this fellow Dickens and bring him around to lunch tomorrow and we'll get his ideas and fix up a contract."

In the same connection there frequently is cited a remark by Wilton Lackaye, who once expressed a desire, which he said he feared would never be gratified, to play the part of Jean Valjean in a stage adaptation of Hugo's "Les Miserables." A friend spoke up:

"Isn't there a manager in town who can produce it?"

"There isn't a manager in town who can even pronounce it," said Lackaye.

Without any desire to take part in the controversy over the respective merits of the theatrical managers and the Key West sponge fishers, I herewith submit, for what it may be worth, an incident which happened a few months ago in the office of a prominent producing manager, whose name is a household word in every actor's home. To him there came an experienced playwright bearing the script of a new piece which he had just finished.

"I don't want you should read it to me, now," said the manager. "Just tell me what it's like."

"Well," said the playwright, "it's a historical drama in five acts. I call it 'The Dauphin.'"

"For why do you call it that?"

"Because it's based on the story of the Lost Dauphin."

"I don't want it," said the manager emphatically. "It wouldn't go. The public wouldn't never stand for a play about a fish."
